WASHINGTON LETTER.

(Pronounced Regular Correspondent.)
Washington, July 1st, 1905.

Editor Press:

It is probable that few people have followed the details leading up to the resignation of John T. Wallace, Chief Engineer of the Panama Canal and a member of the Canal Commission, sufficiently closely to appreciate the full measure of his lack of loyalty in throwing up his office to accept a position which offered greater remuneration, but no one can read the terrible arraignment of the former Chief Engineer which Secretary Taft delivered to him, in person, without gathering some idea of the size, mentally rather than physically, of the Secretary of War, of the high ideals which inspire his every action, of his high conception of loyalty to his government and the justness and manliness which prevades the man.

Briefly, the circumstances were these. Wallace, at his own solicitation, was made a member of the commission. His every suggestion was received with respect and in practically every instance, was carried into effect. As recently as May 26, Wallace wrote to the chairman of the commission that he was entirely satisfied, "delighted," in fact with everything that had been done and would throw himself into the work with his whole heart and soul. The Chairman had urged him to so organize his engineering force as to provide for such an emergency as his illness, his being suddenly called away from the isthmus, etc., and Wallace had proposed to do this. Then, twelve days after his letter of May 26, he accepted a proposition from a New York concern and, according to his own statement, his only stipulation, when asked if he would accept the new place had been, "It is simple a matter of terms and conditions."

THE LIVER QUARANTINE

"TAKING HIS MEALS OUT."

Hurried eating has ruined many a man's stomach. The digestion-destroying process is gradual, often unnoticed at first. But it is only a short time until the liver balks, the digestive organs give way, and almost countless ills assail the man who endeavors to economize time at the expense of his health.

A torpid liver causes a quarantine of the entire system. It locks in the diseased germs and body poisons and affords them full play, inviting some serious illness.

In families where August Flower is used, a sluggish liver and constipation are unknown, so are all stomach ailments, as well as indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, headaches and kidney and bladder affections. No well-regulated family should be without this standard remedy. Two sizes, 25c and 75c. All druggists.

R. C. DODSON.

Who use molasses demand the best syrup obtainable. Treacle is not molasses although there's much treacle sailing under false colors. The difference between treacle and molasses lies in the fact that treacle comes from sugar in the process of making, while molasses is obtained in the process of refining. You can not get good out of bad, but you can get the best from the best which comes from the sugar.
