ELEVEN MEN DROWNED

They Were Thrown Into Chippewa River, in Wisconsin, When Their Boat Capsized.

WERE CARRIED INTO THE RAPIDS

Only One of the 12 Men in the Boat Succeeded in Saving Himself—A Boat Set Out to Rescue the Men, but Arrived Too Late.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., July 8.—Eleven log drivers were drowned in Chippewa river at Little Falls dam yesterday when they lost control of the bateau in which 16 other men had safely crossed the river. The bateau swamped.

A crew of 74 men had been sent out by the Chippewa Lumber and Boom Co. under Kenneth McLeod to break a log jam below the falls.

A crew of 15 men started in a boat for the center of the stream. Louis Gokey and Andrew Cagnon were running the boat, which was overloaded, and as it touched the lower end of the jam three men jumped and landed safely on the logs.

The other 12, however, were carried swiftly away into the wild rapids where the boat capsized, throwing all into the water. They were all good swimmers, but the water was too swift and only one succeeded in saving himself.

A boat which immediately set out to rescue the drowning men arrived too late and was carried through the rapids. It also capsized, but no one was drowned.

Foreman McLeod at once set 60 men to work hunting for the bodies, but as yet none has been found. Little Falls is one of the most dreaded places on the Chippewa river for drivers, yet this is the first serious accident that has ever occurred there.

TALKED TO TEACHERS.

President Roosevelt Addresses the Convention of Schoolmasters at Asbury Park.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 8.—A crowd of 30,000 persons which turned out to welcome President Roosevelt made Friday, the closing day of the National Educational association's convention, the most impressive of all the great educational meetings.

"The Duties of the Rich," was the subject matter of the speech which the president delivered to the educators.

"After a certain point has been reached," he said, "money making can never again stand on the same plane with other and nobler forms of effort. The roll of American worthiness numbers, of rich men, only those who have used their riches aright, who have shown good conduct in acquiring it, and not merely lavish generosity in disposing of it."

Although this was the last day of the convention the president found 12,000 delegates, nearly all school teachers, waiting to hear his first speech, which was made in Ocean Grove auditorium.

At the close of this address the president partly retraced his way through the crowds who had welcomed him outside, but who had been unable to secure admission to the auditorium, and at a previously chosen spot, where the overflow crowd had concentrated, he made a second speech in the open air to an even greater crowd than indoors. His second audience was estimated at 20,000.

The presidential train arrived at the depot at 2 o'clock and it took 35 minutes to make the trip from there through the welcoming people until the moment when the cheering subsided and the president began to speak from the Ocean Grove auditorium platform.

AVENUE OF VICTORY.

Berlin's Famous Boulevard to Be Reproduced in the City of Washington.

Berlin.—Here is a picture of Berlin's famous marble Siegesallee (Avenue of Victory), which American cablegrams report is to serve as model for a statutory lined avenue of American heroes in Washington—to be erected through the munificence of the lately deceased Chicago millionaire lumberman, Benjamin F. Ferguson. The Siegesallee, which is one of Berlin's great show sights, is a personal gift to the city from Kaiser Wilhelm, and represents his own artistic idea. It bisects the beautiful Thiergarten park at the north end, stretching for a quarter of a mile from the giant Column of Victory in Koenigsplatz to the intersection of Bellevueallee and Thiergartenstrasse.

"SIEGESALLEE" IN BERLIN. (Famous Avenue to Be Reproduced in Washington.)

It is adorned on either side with marble statues of Prussian rulers, 32 groups in all, beginning with the earliest Markgrafs and continuing up to the time of the present emperor's grandfather, Kaiser Wilhelm the Great. Behind the figure of each ruler, which is considerably more than life size in glittering white marble, is a semi-circular bench bearing at either end busts of two eminent contemporaries. Beside Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, for instance, are the busts of Moltke and Bismarck. It is said the present emperor has reserved a space in the avenue for his own statue, which, he hopes, will be erected by grateful posterity.

The Siegesallee, besides constituting a magnificent selection of modern German sculpture, is a splendid lesson in history and patriotism for young Germany. Almost any afternoon troops of school children may be seen tramping up and down the avenue in charge of teachers, who explain the significant things about the reign of each ruler, and about the two great men worthy of being immortalized in marble alongside of him. The statue of Frederick the Great in the Siegesallee was the original of the bronze presented by the kaiser to the city of Washington a year ago.

In spring and summer, when the beautiful foliage of the Thiergarten is in full bloom and blossom, the Siegesallee is a gorgeous sight. It is sometimes made fun of by the hypercritical Berliners as being too funeral in aspect, and as giving a cemetery look to the park, but the avenue will stand for all time as a monument to patriotism and artistic sense of the strenuous William II.

The Siegesallee represents a cost of $1,000,000, and was paid for from the private purse of the kaiser.

BRITISH MUNICIPAL GLORY.

A New $8,000,000 Building Is to House the London County Council.

London.—The London county council has sanctioned the purchase of a site on the south bank of the Thames, opposite the houses of parliament, at a cost of $3,000,000, on which to erect a county hall at an additional cost of about $5,280,000, with a river embankment costing $220,000. There will be a frontage of 800 feet on the river and

DESIGN FOR LONDON'S NEW COUNTY COUNCIL HALL.

If the building is architecturally successful it will form with St. Thomas' hospital and Lambeth palace, also on the south side, a magnificent group of public buildings.

The definite plans for the building are not yet completed, and the drawing is not intended as other than a sketch scheme. At present the site consists of some unsightly wharves at the southeast end of Westminster bridge, but it is proposed to house in a great county hall the county council, which controls the local government of London, with the exception of the square mile of the city which remains under the historic lord mayor at the Mansion House. All the administrative offices will be contained in the building, together with the council chamber.

Told of the President. Representative Cushman relates that when President Roosevelt was in the state of Washington, last year, he had a most enthusiastic reception. At one of the gatherings an old frontiersman confided to Mr. Cushman that Roosevelt was the greatest man he ever saw and the greatest man who ever visited the northwest. On being asked for the reason of his judgment the man replied: "Why, Roosevelt is the only man I ever saw who looks worse than his cartoons."
