LOUISIANA HOSPITALITY.

Strangers Were Treated Just the Same as Members of the Family.

Family.

A group of drummers were trading yarns on the subject of hospitality, relates Lippincott's Magazine, when one, a little Virginian, with a humorous eye and a delightful drawl, took up his parable thus:

"I was down in Louisiana last month travelin' 'cross country with S. J. Cary (the same being Stonewall Jackson C., at your service), when we kinder got lost in a mighty lonesome sort o' road just about dark. We rode along a right good piece after sundown, and when we saw a light ahead I tell you it looked first rate. We drove up to the light, findin' twas a house, and when I hollered like a lost calf the man came out and we asked him to take us in for the night. He looked at us mighty hard, and then said: 'Wal, I reckon I kin stand it if you kin.' So we unhitched, went in andfound 'twas only a two-room shanty and just swarmin' with children. He had six, four to II years o'll, and as there didn't seem to be but one bed, me an' Stoney was wonderin' what in thunder would become of us.

"They gave us supper, good hog and hominy, the best they had, and then the old woman put the two youngest kids to bed. They went straight to sleep. Then she took those out, laid them over in the corner, put the next two to bed—and so on. After all the children were asleep on the floor the old folks went in the other room and told us we could go to bed if we wanted to, and, bein' powerful tired out, we did.

"Well, sir, the next morning when we woke up we were lying over in the corner with the kids, and the old man and the old woman had the bed."

VERY EFFECTIVE SAMPLE.

Minister's Pickles Were Strongly Suggestive of the Everlasting Fire.

A clergyman was very fond of a partirular hot brand of pickles, and finding great difficulty in procuring the same sort at hotels when traveling, always carried a bottle with him, relates the Tatler. One day when dining at a restaurant with his pickles in front of him a stranger sat down at the same table, and, with an American accent, presently asked the minister to pass the pickles. The minister, who enjoyed the joke, politely passed the bottle, and in a few minutes had the satisfaction of seeing the Yankee watering at the eyes and gasping for breath.

"I guess," said the latter, "that you are a parson?"

"Yes, my friend, Lam," replied the minister.

said the minister.

"Do you ever preach about hell fire?" inquired the Yankee.

"Yes; I sometimes consider it my duty to remind my congregation of eternal punishment," returned the minister.

"I thought so," rejoined the Yankee, "but you are the first of your class I ever met who carried samples."

Baby Scratched Until Face Was Raw and Bleeding-Eczema Cured by Cuticura.

We tried several doctors, but without success. Unless we kept her hands tied she would scratch until her face was like raw beef. MAKING SHEEP PAY MONEY

Extracts from a Paper Read by J. C. Duncan Before Pennsylvania Live Stock Association.

Extracts from paper read by J. C. Duncan before the Pennsylvania Livestock association:

The title of this subject embraces a wide latitude of questions. Every breeder interested in any of the improved mutton or fine wool breeds will advocate the breed he is directly interested in as being the most profitable sheep. And this must be conceded to a certain extent, as certainly no breeder of the present day would engage in and continue in breeding a sheep that was unprofitable to him as a business. So we will not take up the point of which is the most profitable breed, but for a moment discuss the profitable sheep.

In my experience of feeding both cattle and sheep I have always found I could produce mutton much cheaper than I could produce beef, for the could produce beef, for the amount of food consumed. Notwithstanding this fact, high class lamb and mutton usually sells at a higher market value than beef of the same grade. But allowing them to sell for the same price per pound, we have still a handsome balance in favor of the prefitable sheep, from the revenue from the fleece of wool, which usually amounts to from two to three dollars per head, in the average mutton breeds kept on the farm principally for butchers' lambs, and considering the very limited amount of care they require, these are some of the facts we must credit to the profitable sheep.

It is an all-important fact in every branch of industry to consider the source of income, and as related above. sheep usually afford two annual in comes, namely, lambs and wool. to keep in touch with our subject, the profitable sheep, we might first consider it in a pure bred standard flock, the progeny of which is usually sole to small breeders and farmers who make a business of producing butchers' sheep.

But to make a profitable sheep we must do more than get a sheep of superior breeding and constitutional vigor. In conjunction with the above it must be properly cared for from birth until it is either sold as a sire to head a pure-bred flock or to the butcher for consumption as meat. The care of that animal should be so that it is developed in as rapid a way as nature has provided in order that the devel-opment may be done with the least possible waste. This means the most generous and judicious feeding and care carried out in every part of the

As any breeder of experience knows with insufficient feeding and poor care a flock will very soon loose their vigor and degenerate. So that the more rapid growth means not only about one-third less cost in the production of our animals, but animals produced in this way are produced at a less cost for feed and are generally worth more pound for pound on the market. The even, healthy, rapid development of the young animals is the great thing to be sought for in profitable sheep as in every other class of livefor the consumer of meat foods of the high-flavored mutton that tempts the appetite and fills our desires for that class of food, so that the matter of early maturity is of the utmost impo tence in the production of high-class meat to make the profitable sheep These are some of the things we must bear in mind in the production of high-class animals for consumption as

The question will now arise, will it nay the average farmer and breeder of this class of stock? It has been my experience both in breeding highclass pure-bred sheep, also in growing sheep in a commercial way, that the best I could produce was always the most profitable sheep. The market is always good for meritorious anima's either in breeding flocks or in case of lamb and mutton to supply hotels or restaurants in our large cities, where the demand is far in excess of the

There is no animal on the farm today that will give us more clear mea for the amount of food consumed and the work required to take care of i than the sheep.

Prevention.

Prevention of disease of animals is one of the greatest problems our live stock industry will some day be compelled to face. For the individual, how-ever, it is a simple problem, and no good business man would hesitate as to the best course to pursue.
