Kill Catamount in Shanty.
COUDERSPORT, PA., Nov. 7.—To be in an old shanty at midnight with a growling hungry catamount was the startling experience of Major Seibert and Irvin Harney, local hunters in the Morris Run district last Friday night. They had trailed a wounded bear for nearly 18 miles, and at nightfall came to a shanty-like structure that at one time had been used as a lumber camp and school house.

The door and all the windows except one were boarded up, and through this the men climbed in, bunked down on boughs in the farthest corner and fell asleep.

Late at night Harney was awakened by something coming in contact with his hand, and as he sat up he heard the sounds of retreating footsteps across the splintering, uneven floor. An instant later his ear was greeted with a low growl, and then he knew that some wild animal had found its way into the ramshackle building. He nudged Seibert awake, whispered the information to him, and as Seibert lighted a hemlock bough and held it aloft Harney grasped his gun and prepared to shoot. The rays of the flambeau disclosed the form of a large catamount near the open window, evidently about to leap out. Harney fired, wounding the animal, which crouched and prepared for a spring toward the men. They were hardly ten feet away. A second shot, however, finished the beast.

A Very Exclusive Order.
The Order of the Swan is a unique decoration. It has nothing to do with "Lohengrin," but was founded in 1443 by Elector Frederick II. of Brandenburg, surnamed the "Iron Jawed."

Of all the orders of knighthood this is most remarkable, inasmuch as only one solitary member in Europe is entitled to wear it, and she is the wife of the reigning Prussian monarch—the German empress. The insignia is very beautiful. It consists of a gold chain set with diamonds, alternated by a ruby heart, to which is suspended a medallion of the Madonna and Child and to which in turn is suspended a silver swan surrounded by a ring or frame of exquisite pearls. With this goes a superb star to be worn on the left shoulder.

Should the empress become a widow she would be compelled to relinquish the insignia and her membership of the Swan to the present crown princess. This order has been worn in turn by the wife of every sovereign occupying the throne of Prussia since 1443, and it is an object of intense pride in the royal family.

Lightning as a Rock Driller.
"Lightning, when in the mood, has an ugly habit of drilling," writes an English observer. "It will drill the hardest rock—rock which would turn cold steel—and not only drill, but vitrify it. They have found in Cumberland channels thirty feet deep and from two to four inches in circumference. The interior was hard and glazed where the solid substance had been melted by the stabbing flashes. Artificial experiment has shown that a powerful shock from a battery will vitrify finely powdered glass, but not felspar or quartz. The lightning, however, does it in the manner described, not in one place, but in many, showing that before striking the ground it divided into several branches, each strong enough to penetrate and liquefy the solid rock."

Paying a Debt of Gratitude.
Mr. Mott Allen, foreman, Union City, (Pa.) Chair Factory, says: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism for more than eight months; at times had to get up at 11 o'clock and stay up the balance of the night; could not dress myself without the aid of my wife; am now entirely cured, and by the use of only one 50c bottle of Crocker's Rheumatic Remedy."
