Can't Do Without It.

"It seems to me," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "that Dr. Goodman lays rather too much stress on the idea that we should divorce ourselves from anthropomorphism. It may be all right to preach what he does in a general way, but the anthropomorphic sentiment is still very dear to a great many people."

"I know it," replied her hostess as she toyed with the diamond-studded paper cutter. "There's a woman lives right on this street that goes to the drug store and gets it on the quiet nearly every day."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Tally Sticks.

An old time way of proving one's right to the payment of money loaned was by tally sticks. A plain stick was used, and when a man loaned a sum a stick was broken and the creditor and debtor each took a part. When the time for payment came the man who had the stick which fitted exactly to the stick held by the creditor received the money. Two sticks never break exactly in the same shape, so there was never any dispute about who had a right to the money.

Educator's Pun.

Dr. Thwing, president of the Western Reserve university, is credited with a clever mot in connection with the recent horse show in New York. In company with another educator he visited the show one evening and his friend remarked that it seemed more of a dress exhibition than one of equine excellence. "In other words," said Dr. Thwing, "it is a clothesline instead of a horse rein."

Where the Dentist Erred.

The Centralia dentist was examining a young lady's teeth. When she took the chair she said: "Now, don't hurt me." "All right, little girl," said the dentist. She flew mad in an instant and said: "Don't call me little girl!" "Excuse me," said the dentist, "I would not have called you a little girl if I had looked you in the mouth first."—Kansas City Journal.

Crowded Prisons.

Italian prisons got so full this year that the government had to resort to royal clemency to some of the occupants, in order to make room for delinquents crowded out. A decree was issued last August, and since then 1,536 prisoners have been pardoned and 3,972 have had their sentences reduced.

And That's a Fact.

"Consistency, thou art a jewel," remarked the young man who was afflicted with the quotation habit. "Possibly," rejoined the practical maid, "but it doesn't separate much congealed aqua pura when compared with a diamond ring."—Chicago Daily News.

Red and Green Rain.

"Colored rain," in the shape of millions of little red, green and yellow insects, fell recently at Angers, France. The phenomenon lasted for several hours, and so numerous were the insects that they choked the water pipes in the town and were shoveled up in the streets by the cartload.

Optimistic View.

DIED IN FIRE.

Nine Men Lose Their Lives While Asleep.

IN A HOUSEBOAT.

Only One of the Ten Men on Board the Boat Escaped—A Disaster on an Alabama River.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 2.—Nine persons whose names are not yet known, occupying a pull boat on Middle river, which runs between the Tensas and Alabama rivers, burned to death Friday in a fire which destroyed the boat.

Sidney Wheat, the negro steward, was the only survivor of ten men who lived on the craft. Wheat escaped death by being awake owing to illness. The cracking of burning timbers warning him in time, he jumped into the river and escaped just as the boat collapsed. Stewart & Butt, of Mobile, who owned the boat, say there had been no steam on her for three days. They are at a loss to account for the burning of the vessel.

According to Wheat's story the nine men were dumped into a roaring furnace while some of them were asleep. They were roasted alive. The boat was used by men who were engaged in getting logs out of narrow places for rafting purposes. It was constructed something similar to a dredge boat and had a structure for sheltering the machinery and an apartment in which the crew lived.

The fire had evidently been burning some time when Wheat was awakened. He says he rushed in and yelled to the others to get out as fast as they could, as the boat was burning. He does not know whether any of the men heard him. He leaped from the vessel into the river and a moment later the vessel collapsed, precipitating the other men into the blazing hull.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS REVOLT.

A Mutiny of Two Regiments of Dragoons Is Reported—All Cossacks to be Mobilized.

Berlin, Dec. 2.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Eydtkuhnen, on the eastern frontier of East Prussia, says that the Eighth regiment of Russian dragoons in the adjacent town of Welkowsk, Russian Poland, has been in a state of mutiny since Thursday, threatening death to the officers unless the pay of the men is raised. The Lokal Anzeiger also prints a dispatch from Warsaw saying that a regiment of dragoons at Ostroleka, Poland, has mutinied.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 2.—The guards posted at Tsarskoe-Selo Thursday night and Friday morning numbered 250.

All kinds of rumors are current, including the assertion that one of the grand dukes is involved in a conspiracy against the emperor, but none of them can be verified. It only seems certain that no reliance can be placed even on the guard regiments. Arrested soldiers are seen every day, escorted by their comrades with drawn swords.

The emperor has abolished martial law in Poland. St. Petersburg is swarming with Cossacks, the only troops against whom there is not suspicion of disaffection.

It is understood that the whole Cossack forces of the empire, some 450,000, will be mobilized.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

Business Conditions Were Never More Favorable than at Present.

New York, Dec. 2.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Business conditions certainly warrant a day of gratitude this year more than ever before. In many industries it was difficult to take time for a holiday without falling further beyond orders and increasing complaints of importunate purchasers. An idea of the volume of trade in November is shown by a daily average of bank exchanges that exceeded last year's figures by 4 per cent, which in turn surpassed all previous monthly records.

Christmas trade opens with a volume that promises to eclipse all earlier records. Manufacturing plants make most satisfactory returns, despite the high level of prices for raw materials and inadequate transporting facilities. Railway earnings for November were 6.5 per cent. larger than a year ago.

Failures this week in the United States are 263, against 245 the corresponding week last year, and in Canada 32, against 29 last year.

Were Killed by Carbonic Acid Gas. Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 2.—Thomas Danery and wife were found dead yesterday and their 15-year-old daughter unconscious. The latter was revived and will recover. Death was due to carbonic acid gas poisoning.

Police Killed Five Rioters. Georgetown, Demerara, Dec. 2.—A strike of wharf laborers which is in progress here assumed a very serious aspect Friday when the police were compelled to fire on a riotous mob. Five of the rioters were killed. Later in the day the rioters attacked the governor's house.

Town Swept by Fire. Tampa, Fla., Dec. 2.—Practically the entire business portion of the town of Arcadia, Fla., was destroyed by fire which started early Friday morning. Loss $250,000.

CONVINCING EVIDENCE

That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Will Cure Rheumatism.

"People can cure themselves of a good many common ailments at a very small cost if they go about it the right way," said Mr. Hoar, recently. "For instance, I have just cured myself of a very painful disease. I might have begun to treat it sooner, that's all the mistake I made in the matter. But I found the root of the difficulty and I picked out the right remedy without the aid of a doctor."

"It was really all in my blood. I first felt a twinge in my left foot and ankle in the middle of last January, following exposure to cold. I realized I had rheumatism and I knew that really comes from bad blood. Cold simply develops it. Then my hands and feet were cold and clammy even in hot weather, and numb a great part of the time. I concluded that my blood was thin and poor and the circulation sluggish."

"After a time my feet and ankles swelled so badly that I could only tie my shoes half way up. My legs swelled terribly and I could walk only a short distance before giving out completely."

"When I read of the cures of all kinds of blood diseases, that had been effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I was convinced that they were just the remedy for my case, and so it proved. I could see that they were benefiting me before I had quite used up the first box. The improvement was decidedly marked after I had taken two boxes. Three more boxes restored my hands and feet and legs to natural size and feeling and then I stopped taking medicine and have since been perfectly well."

Mr. F. Le Roy Hoar lives at No. 132 Constitution street, Bristol, R. I. Any one can get convincing evidence that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anemia, rheumatism, erysipelas and other serious diseases of the blood by simply writing to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

MEDICAL MENTION.

Swedish physicians say whistling will do much toward the development of a robust physical frame.

A silver solution, called collargol, has been used successfully in Germany in the treatment of appendicitis.

There were only four deaths per 1,000 among the children who passed through the late Dr. Barnardo's hands.

The sanitary influence of the eucalyptus tree is said to render native-born Australians immune to cancer.

Ammonia vapor has been discovered to be the best disinfectant for use in cases of cholera or diphtheria. It will free a room from germs in two hours.

The international Italian "King Humbert prize" of 2,500 francs for the most important contribution to orthopedic surgery has been awarded to Dr. Oscar Culpinus of Heidelberg.

One of the speakers at the tuberculous congress in Paris maintained that parents suffering from consumption should not be allowed to keep their children. Another suggested that all domestic animals should be made immune with tuberculin.

When Commissioner Garfield went to the Chicago packers and asked permission to inspect their books, the condition was made that no information he might obtain therefrom would be used in court proceedings against them.

Mr. Garfield gave this pledge, it is stated, and the packers allowed him to study their business in all its details from the inside.

Now, it is announced, the results of his study have been turned over to the government department of justice to be employed in legal prosecution of the packers.

Commissioner Garfield would not have ventured to give the pledge that was demanded by the packers without instructions from Washington. He pledged, not his own word, but the government's. It is not his good faith, but the government's, that is in question now.

The Journal has no concern for the packers, except as they are citizens of Chicago. If it can be proved that they are guilty of engaging in a conspiracy in restraint of trade, they ought to be punished.

But their guilt, if they are guilty, must be fairly proved. They must be given a square deal.

Since the government has elevated its vision to such a height as to overlook the nest of defiant criminal trusts in New Jersey, almost within the shadow of the capitol dome, in order to fasten itself a thousand miles away upon Chicago, the government and the President cannot be too careful to avoid suspicion that they are more anxious to prosecute western offenders than offenders in the east.

Some of the methods already employed in this case have not been particularly distinguished for decency. When the government breaks into a man's house and steals his private papers, when it drags the wives of packing-house employes into court and puts them under heavy bonds, it is hardly dignified, not to say honorable, nor even respectable.—From the Chicago Journal, Nov. 6, 1905.
