

PAIN IN THE JOINTS

Rheumatic Tortures Cease When Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood.

The first sign of rheumatism is frequently a pain and swelling in one of the joints. If not combated in the blood, which is the seat of the disease, the poison spreads, affecting other joints and tissues. Sometimes rheumatism attacks the heart and is quickly fatal.

The one remedy that has cured rheumatism so that it stays cured is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills expel the poison from the blood and restore the system, so that the poisonous matter is passed off as nature intended.

Mrs. I. T. Piche, of No. 130 Monmouth street, Newark, N. J., suffered for about three years from rheumatism before she found this cure. She says: "It began with a queer feeling in my fingers. In a little time it seemed as though the finger joints had lumps on them and I could not get my gloves on. Then it grew worse and spread to my knees. I could not stand up and I could not sleep nights. My suffering was more than I can describe. I took a great deal of medicine, but nothing even gave me relief until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I read an account of a cure in a case that was exactly like mine and my husband got me some of the pills. I took them for three weeks before I really felt better but they finally cured me."

Mr. Piche, who is a veteran and a member of E. D. Morgan Post, No. 307 of New York, substantiates his wife's statement and says that she now walks without difficulty, whereas a year ago he was compelled to push her about in a wheeled chair. Both Mr. and Mrs. Piche are enthusiastic in their praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

LEARNED OF WRITERS.

Paul Heyse is accredited with being one of the most famous living German novelists, who is almost as well known in America as in the Fatherland.

Mary A. Fisher, of New York, will write a novel and devote the proceeds of the sale to the support of a home, nonsectarian, and to care for those "who have labored in literature, art, education, or any of the various professions."

Mrs. Schuyler Crowninshield, wife of the admiral, has written several stories, and recently has made her first effort at a stage production which deals with the revolutionary war and has been recently produced in New York and aroused enthusiasm.

Emil Zerkowicz, the noted Hungarian author, who has been commissioned as special envoy by his government with the purpose of establishing important commercial relations between that country and this, recently arrived in New York. He has a boy named George Washington Zerkowicz, who was born on February 22, 1903.

It is stated that Winston Churchill is to receive the sum of $40,000 down and royalties for his biography of his father, the late Lord Randolph Churchill. People marvel how he has found time to write it, considering what a busy man he is. When John Morley wrote the life of Gladstone, for which he received $50,000, it took him three years to complete it, and he practically shut himself up for that period, keeping right away from public life.

THE LITTLE WIDOW.

A Mighty Good Sort of Neighbor to Have.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine, persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that it would not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman, from San Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the birth of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In 2 months my weight increased from 95 to 113 pounds, my nerves had steadied down, and I felt ready for anything. My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly, and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had brought the change.

"My 4-year-old boy had eczema, very bad, last spring, and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts, which he relished at once. He improved from the beginning, the eczema disappeared, and now he is fat and rosy, with a delightfully soft, clear skin. The Grape-Nuts diet did it. I will willingly answer all inquiries." IS NOT A REFORMER.

H. S. HADLEY OF MISSOURI A UNIQUE FIGURE.

Sketch of Attorney General Who Is Trying to Show That Standard Oil Company Is Nothing But a Trust.

New York.—Herbert S. Hadley, attorney general of the state of Missouri, who recently tried to worm out of Henry H. Rogers and other Standard Oil witnesses the true relation between the Standard Oil company and the so-called independent concerns doing business in Missouri, is almost as unique in his way as Gov. Folk himself. Mr. Hadley is only 34 years old, but already he has made a name for himself as a brilliant lawyer. He was elected corporation counsel of Kansas City, Mo., when only 27 years old, and at the age of 30 he was chosen public prosecutor, serving in that capacity for two years, while Mr. Folk was making his reputation in St. Louis, at the other end of the state.

Defeated for reelection in 1902, he determined not to enter the political arena again, and accepted a retainer from the street railway interests of Kansas City. But in a Republican state convention in Missouri, a year ago last fall, he was forced into nomination against his will. Named to break a deadlock by a speaker who was already on the stage to put in nomination another man, his friends carried him bodily to the rear of the hall, in order to prevent his protesting against his own nomination, which was unanimous. He made an active canvass in what looked to be a forlorn hope, and was elected.

Hadley, who for the time being, at least, is a national figure, declines to pose as a reformer. He says he has no message from the west to deliver to the east. As an individual he has nothing against Henry H. Rogers or John D. Rockefeller. It is not his purpose to inquire into secrets of "the System," except so far as they have a direct bearing on the case at issue. Though he is closely associated with Gov. Folk, he asserts he is not completely in sympathy with a movement which is proclaiming necessity of sweeping changes in the nation.

Mr. Hadley does not profess any particular sympathy with the onslaughts being made against trusts generally. If anything, he is rather favorably disposed towards them; but his personal opinions he keeps in the background in the effort to bring out evidence in connection with the charge that the Standard Oil company controls all the companies doing business in Missouri, and has so manipulated things that there is no competition there in the business, the territory being divided up among several companies, all of whom are controlled by Mr. Rogers and his dummies.

"If the case of the state of Missouri is successful, it will mean that the state will be opened to great private oil interests of Kansas, which are now unable to sell their product at any price. The Waters-Pierce company would lose its charter and the Standard and the Republic companies their licenses to do business within the state. Pipe lines would at once be run from Kansas oil fields and an outlet would be afforded which is now lacking for product of that state.

"As to Mr. Rogers and his refusals to answer all pertinent questions, it is an exhibition of the latest methods adopted by the masters of Standard Oil. Next to a reputation for purity of personal living the surest way to reach the heart of the people is through its sense of humor. Mr. Rockefeller entertained the American Humorists' association in Cleveland, and now Mr. Rogers is taking advantage of his opportunity to pose as a humorist. It goes without my saying it that he is a very able and a very brilliant man, but his pose ought to be too transparent to deceive the public."

A Mexican's Proof of Bravery.

Jose Maria Huerta, with a number of friends was standing in a saloon at Guadalupe, Mexico, recently, when he suddenly drew a pistol, and to show them how brave he was, declared he would kill the first person who passed, and, cocking his gun, he stood in the doorway waiting. Suddenly a shot was heard, and, looking out, Huerta's companions saw Rafael Martinez, who happened to pass by, lying in the middle of the street, in his death agonies. Huerta had kept his word. His friends, horrified at such a cold-blooded murder, seized him and delivered him to the police.

WILL MANAGE CAMPAIGN.

Charles G. Dawes to Direct Vice President Fairbanks' Race for Roosevelt's Seat.

Chicago.—Charles G. Dawes' acceptance of the post of campaign manager to Vice President Fairbanks, who will enter the presidential race, is said to materially increase the latter's chances.

Dawes has undertaken to direct the fight for delegates to the next national convention as far as the west is concerned. He is regarded in political circles as especially influential in presidential affairs, because of his experience in the McKinley campaign. Indians are said to believe that, if Dawes can line up his friends among the men who did most to nominate McKinley, Indiana will furnish the next Republican candidate.

Dawes resides in Evanston, Ill., Chicago's prettiest suburb, but he has his office in the city. Dawes believes in the "open door" policy of doing business. As a matter of fact, the door of his office is seldom closed. He is a banker of exceptional ability—used to be comptroller of the currency, from 1897 to 1902—but he is extremely unconventional in his methods of doing business. He is apt to walk out of his private office into the banking room to meet a man with a million dollar proposition, sit down with him on a bench and discuss the affair, as to usher him into his own room. A Salvation Army lassie, looking for a purchaser of a War Cry, may walk as unconcernedly into his office as any prominent financier and be accorded as courteous treatment.

Dawes makes friends easily and is affable, but he "reads" people keenly and woe betide the self-satisfied person who thinks he can "bluff" him or pull the wool over his eyes.

Dawes is the son of Gen. R. R. Dawes, one of the commanders of the old Iron brigade of Wisconsin, and a lineal descendant of William Dawes, who made a wild ride in the war of the Revolution, similar to that of Paul Revere, and was made famous by the poet Longfellow. Dawes is 40 years old. He was born in Marietta, O., for seven years was a resident of Lincoln, Neb., and came from there to Evanston to assume the presidency of the Northwestern Gaslight and Coke company.

WATCH OF MARTYR SPY.

Relic of Nathan Hale Now Owned by One of Edward Everett Hale's Family.

Boston.—One of the cherished relics of the Hale family, of which Dr. Edward Everett Hale is an honored representative, is a watch once carried by Nathan Hale, the martyr spy of the revolution.

The watch is of old Swiss or English make, large size 22 or 24, skeleton movement, solid steel balance, vermicelli finish, key-wind, hand made. The rubies alone are estimated to be worth five dollars apiece and the whole watch cost in its day in the neighborhood of $200.

One competent jeweler declares it shows evidence of having been made in the seventeenth century. It may have been, for Nathan Hale was executed September 22, 1776.

Edward Everett Hale is a grand-nephew of Nathan Hale, whose dying words, "My only regret is that I have but one life to lose for my country," have rendered him immortal.

The watch is now in the possession of Frank Hale, of Springfield, Mass.

Strange Case of Robbery.

A curious case of museum robbery is engaging attention at Weimar, Germany. An agent offered some time ago to the Goethe-Schiller museum a series of Goethe manuscripts, which on examination proved to have been stolen from the museum itself. The agent explained that he had received them in good faith from a well-known antiquary in Berlin. A search of the antiquary's house brought to light many other documents belonging to the Weimar museum.

NOT LIKELY TO ESCAPE.

Sarcophagus Was Heavy Enough to Hold Remains of Napoleon Down.

Henry Vignaud, secretary of the American embassy at Paris, enjoys telling of an American who was being shown the tomb of Napoleon, relates Success Magazine. As the loquacious guide referred to the various points of interest in connection with the tomb, the American evinced the greatest interest in all that was said.

"This immense sarcophagus," declared the guide, "weighs 40 tons. Inside of that, sir, is a steel receptacle weighing 12 tons, and inside of that is a leaden casket, hermetically sealed, weighing over two tons. Inside of that rests a mahogany coffin containing the remains of the great man."

For a moment the American was silent, as if in deep meditation. Then he said: "It seems to me that you've got him all right. If he ever gets out, cable me at my expense."

NEED OF DISCRIMINATION.

Singular Qualification Required of Members of a Western Jury.

Those who like that peculiarly rich, pulpy western fruit known as the pawpaw, which has been defined as "natural custard," are likely to be immoderately fond of it; but those who do not like it nearly always have a strong aversion to it, says the Youth's Companion. A man was on trial in a Missouri court, charged with having broken into a neighbor's premises and stolen a bushel of this fruit.

The first man examined as to his qualifications to sit on the jury was asked this question, among others: "Do you like pawpaws?"

"I can eat a hatful of 'em at one sitting," answered the man, with a broad smile.

"Your honor," said the prosecuting attorney, "we challenge this man."

"On what ground?" asked the court.

"On the ground, your honor, that any man who likes pawpaws would feel like justifying any other man for stealing them, on account of the temptation being irresistible."

"You may stand aside," said the judge.

The next man who was examined did not like pawpaws—the very idea of eating them "made him sick."

"We'll accept him, your honor," said the prosecuting attorney.

"Hold on!" exclaimed the attorney for the defense. "We object to this man, your honor."

"What is your objection?" inquired the judge.

"The fact that he doesn't like pawpaws, your honor, would give him a feeling of prejudice and contempt for a man charged with stealing them, and render him incapable of returning a fair verdict."

"You may stand aside, sir," said the court.

A jury was finally secured consisting of men who had never tasted a pawpaw.

Etiquette.

Etiquette is a mask, a barrier, a cloak, a disguise, a pretense, a lie; it enables us to hide our real characters from each other. It is acquired; it comes from the head; courtesy is spontaneous, it comes from the heart. The first has as much in common with the second as law has with justice, medicine with hygiene or theology with sanctity.—Portland Oregonian.

SORES ON HANDS.

Suffered for a Long Time Without Relief—Doctor Was Afraid to Touch Them—Cured by Cuticura.

"For a long time I suffered with sores on the hands which were itching, painful, and disagreeable. I had three doctors and derived no benefit from any of them. One doctor said he was afraid to touch my hands, so you must know how bad they were; another said I never could be cured; and the third said the sores were caused by the dipping of my hands in water in the dye-house where I work. I saw in the papers about the wonderful cures of the Cuticura Remedies and procured some of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. In three days after the application of the Cuticura Ointment my hands began to peel and were better. The soreness disappeared, and they are now smooth and clean, and I am still working in the dye-house. Mrs. A. E. Maurer, 2340 State St., Chicago, Ill., July 1, 1905."
