Col. Watres for Governor.

Col. Lewis A. Watres was born in Lackawana county and when a boy started in life as a breaker boy. To-day he is one of the probable nominees for Governor. The declination, of John Stewart and Gen'l Elkins has caused their followers to stampede to Col. Watres, ensuring his nomination for Governor after the complimentary ballot to favorite sons. The Col. is a Republican of the Roosevelt and Root stripe.

Nothing will relieve indigestion that is not a thorough digestant. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, and allows the stomach to rest—recuperate—grow strong again. A few doses after meals will soon restore the stomach and engestive organs to a full performance of their functions naturally. Sold by R.C. State Aid for Public Schools.

The State Constitution imposes upon the General Assembly the duty of providing "for the maintenance and support of a thorough and sufficient system of public schools, wherein all the children of the Commonwealth above the age of six years may be educated." To this end it is further provided that at least one million dollars each year shall be appropriated for the purpose out of the State funds.

The General Assembly has of late years far exceeded the minimum of aid for the schools made imperative by the Constitution. About six million dollars are now contributed by the State toward defraying the expenses of the common school, but this is only about one-fourth of the aggregate of yearly expense. About $18,000,000 is raised by direct local taxation. The school tax is perhaps the heaviest direct burden borne by the taxpayers of the Commonwealth.

The willingness evinced by succeeding Legislatures to shift a larger and larger proportion of the burden of school support upon the general revenues of the State has been notable. The State revenues were so excessive that the diversion was no less feasible than popular. But appetlte grows by what it feeds upon. Some of the grangers in Bradford county and other parts of the State are organizing "Free School Clubs," whose aim is to abolish the direct school tax and put the whole burden upon the shoulders of the State. This scheme is full of taking possibilities. It would require the collection of about $18,000,000 additional State revenues. The grangers urge that the corporations are fat and prosperous, and can easily be made to come down with the necessary cash. They take no note of the fact that the public service corporations are themseves experts in theart of taxation. For every dollar they pay to the State they are sure to add a dollar, with use, to the tolls exacted from their customers. It is the vice of indirect taxation that, like the vampire, it sucks the blood of its victims without their knowledge. The farmers who shift their burden upon the corporations will never suspect the share of it they are made to pay back. They have been educated to believe, as a result of the policy adopted by the State in abolishing direct State taxes, that they have been relieved of any share of the cost of carrying on the State government. They are quite logical in desiring an extension of the policy.

This new movement is interesting. If it shall gain headway it will clash with the other granger movement to direct about $4,000,-000 of the State revenue from personal property taxes and licenses to the County Treasuries. It would also be likely to halt the proposed payment of millions of dollars to the improvement of the roads. But sufficient unto the day is the working out of the tax problem. It is the riddle of the ages.-Philadelphia Record.

An exchange very truthfully says that a man who stops advertising is forgotten about as soon as a man who stops living, and the rapidity with which the forgetting business gets in its work after we are out of sight and the insurance collected, is what makes some of us want to live a thousand years. Life is something, however, we cannot control, that is so far as keeping it going is concerned. But the power is in our hands to keep our advertising going, and just in proportion as w keep it going it will keep us going.

Color Schemes In Building.

Strange how little we Americans do with color. We have a red brick house or a yellow brick house with a red tile roof or a green roof, and that's about the gamut we run. Most beautiful effects can be gained by the use of enameled colors even on flat surfaces; dainty patterns can be worked out and bril liant yet harmonious effects gained coloring schemes are tame. certainly have much to learn in that respect from the Persians of old. They were masters in enamel, and their work was gorgeous, beautiful. With us it is lack of taste; it certainly is not lack of material. There are American makers of tile that produce material equal to that of antiquity, the richest colors and the most easily adapted shapes.-Clay Worker.

The Stinging Tree.

The stinging tree of Australia some what resembles a gigantic nettle. It has an unpleasant odor, and the natives and native animals are careful to avoid it. When a man is stung by the tree-or, to put it more prosaically, pricked by the tree's thorn-the little wound gives him at first no pain what-ever. But in a few minutes a maddening pain is set up; the victim shricks and rolls upon the ground. For months afterward when water touches the stung part great agony ensues. Dogs when stung rush about with piteous whines, biting pieces of flesh from the place that has been stung.

An early use of this slang expression is to be found in some verses—probably by Elkanah Settle—quoted by Walter Thornbury in his "Old and New London," from a poem on the "Lord Mayor's Banquet of Sir Samuel Fludyer," 1761, and apparently published at the time

There is something in obstinacy which differs from every other passion. Whenever it fails it never recovers, but either breaks like iron or crumbles sulkily away like a fractured arch. Most other passions have their period of fatigue and rest, their sufferings and their cure, but obstinacy has no resource, and the first wound is mortal. -Johnson
