OPERATION PERFORMED ON JUDGE C. A. MAYER

While Visiting Relatives in Ger-mantown is Stricken With Serious Illness.

Judge C. A. Mayer was operated on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Germantown hospital. About three weeks ago Judge Mayer went to Germantown to visit his son-in-law, Col. J. B. Coryell, and family and while there took a violent cold. Inflamation of the bladder ensued, causing him intense suffering. He was reported im proved a few days ago, but a turn for the worse set in later and after a consultation of his physicians, an operation was decided upon to save his life. Reports from Germantown, after the operation, say that the judge could not have lived had the operation not been performed. His host of friends in Lock Haven hope for his speedy recovery to health again, and will rejoice at any favorable news as to his condi

Judge Mayer held an argument court in the court house just a month ago Friday and although he had not been well previous to this, he was enjoying fair health when he left for Germantown to visit relatives.

The 15th of last December be celebrated his 75th birthday quietly among relatives at his home in this city. He is serving his fourth term as president judge of the Clinton, Cameron and Elk district, a continuous service of 37 years, having first been elected judge in 1868. Few common pleas judges in the state are better known than Judge Mayer and there is a widespread interest in this county and judicial district in his recovery to health.

A letter written at 7 o'clock Sunday night to Moore Fredericks, cashier of the First National Bank of this city, says: "News from hospital says they are all pleased at Judge Hayer's condition. No fever, pulse regular and general condition good and is doing well. Nurse in charge says he has not told any stories since operation, but did before operation."

A telephone message on Monday from Miss Helen Mayer stated that they were all encouraged at the progress her father was making, that he was gaining a little every day and that the prospects were good for his recovery. The family are now permitted to visit the judge at the Germantown hospital. -Wednesday's Lock Haven Republican. Mr. B. W. Green, of this place, received a letter from Col. Coryell on Tuesday, in which the writer sasy: "He went through the operation splendidly and the doctors inform us that if no complications arise he is certain of recovery and will be stronger physically than he has been for some time. His splendid physical condition was greatly in his favor."

Fortune Telling a Great Sin. Last week I was examining timber lands in West Virginia and our party made their headquarters at a farm house back 11 miles from the railroad.

I wore a cap in the woods and when came away I forgot to exchange it and left my derby hat at the farm house and when I went back after it the farmer's wife exclaimed, "Oh I hope nothing dreadful will happen to you but it is bad luck to come back after you start on a journey." Nothing dreadful did happen, all the trains were a time and I arrived safely at home where all the family and friends were well. God is good and just, and all these signs and omens are foolish and cowardly, so are all kinds of fortune telling and gambling. A great many people have their fortunes told thought lessly and for fun, and perhaps it would not make much difference if the fortune tellers confined their idle tales to pleasant flatteries, and promises of large fortunes and early marriages, but when they tell of ugly accidents and much sufferings to kind friends and parents and children, then it is nothing but wicked cruelty and heart less quackery to obtain a few pieces of silver. People should not countenance it, even in fun, and we should not for a minute forget that the church is con tinually saying to us that, "Almighty God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ desires not the hurt of any saint or sinner."

While a thoughtless and cruel boy may pull a cat's tail or scare and stone a stray dog, God is neither a cruel king nor a thoughtless kid and we should make it unprofitable for all grafters after loose money who try to flatter or scare us with idle and silly prophesies of ghosts, goblins and gold bricks.

> Respectfully, JOSIAH HOWARD.

The Two-Cent Railway Fare. At a time when the railways operating in Ohio are fighting a newly pass ed law making two cents a mile the maximum passenger rate on all lines in the state, New England roads are accommodating themselves to what seems the inevitable. Experience has shown that it is now the proper maximum, and there is no doubt that in a shorttime it will be established all over the country east of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

The railway managers do not like the idea, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, but it is not certain it will be a disadvantage. The principle of least resistence works very strongly in al traffic matters. The man who can travel for two cents a mile takes more rides than the one who has to pay three. Probably it would be impossible to show that any railway charging the two cent rate is not making money out of its passenger business. In this state we have all sorts of rates from less than a cent for commuters to three cents or more for the ordinary rider. We doubt if there would be any loss of revenue from the adoption of a maximum two cent rate and it would remove many causes of agitation.

One would suppose that the experiment would be worth trying rather than spending immense sums in litigation which can only result in arousing public resentment. Public opinion is worth a great deal and public trafic tollows opinion.
