FROM OUR REPORTERS.

FIRST FORK.

Owing to a misunderstanding between the postoffice authorities at Washington and our postmaster at this place, our mail facilities have been rather uncertain for the last two weeks, but a special agent was here on Saturday and found that our P. M. was right in his premises and made arrangements to have messenger service re-established, and to have two mails a day instead of four, as we had for some time. This had to be done on the service at this place discontinued. After having had an office here for over fifty years, it would seem like going back to barbarism again, to have that done.

At a picnic some days ago, the sum of $55 above expenses was raised for the preacher in charge, Rev. Heim.

Fred Caldwell is the proud "dad" of a bouncing boy of 13½ lbs. that put in its appearance about a week ago. Fred says the beauty of it is, he is half raised.

The Sterling Run cyclones crossed bats with the Hicks Run club Sunday. The score was 11 to 0 in favor of Hicks Run.

The Hicks Run battery were Brown and Rakestraw; for the locals, Parker, Ledinski and Morris. Brown of the Hicks Run team pitched good ball and had first class support. The local pitchers were given poor support. Never mind boys, better luck next time. One of the interesting features of the game was the up-to-date coaching given the home team by Stephen Bunce. Mr. Bunce is a first-class authority on base ball matters and has excellent judgment. His performances was highly appreciated by the spectators.

Shakespeare says:
If you wish to try the base ball stunts,
Just tell your troubles to Steven Bunce;
He knows how this game should be played,
And to speak his mind he's not afraid.

He knows the curves from A to Z,
There's nothing to quick for his eye to see;
A foul, a fly, a good fair ball,
Or a three bag hit, he knows them all.

So boys take heed to what he speaks,
If many victories you would seek;
For base ball coaching there is none,
Like Steven Bunce of Sterling Run.

Cameron County Merchants.

MR. DEALER:

Are you doing anything in the way of protecting your trade against "catalogue house" competition?

If you are not, don't you know you should?

If your house should catch fire, you would try to put the fire out. If a burglar broke into your store, you would try to drive him away. Of course you would. Of course you would do what you could to protect your property.

What property have you that is of greater value than your trade? If you lose your trade, you lose everything.

If the "catalogue houses" take your trade, it is because you let them take it. It is because they go to your customers, through the medium of their catalogues, and tell what they have to sell. Why do you not do likewise? Go after the trade and get it.

A hot shot at the catalogue houses: When the catalogue comes from your mail order house, draw an easy chair to the table where the light will shine full upon the page, and put on your glasses that no bargains may escape your eye.

What a wonderful book it is, to be sure; wonderful for what it does not contain as well as what it does. You will miss some things you would be glad to see.

Where is their offer to pay cash or exchange goods for your wheat, oats, corn, beans, butter, eggs, and hay?

How much do they pay for cattle, sheep and hogs, f. o. b., at your depot?

How much tax will they pay to support your schools and educate your children, for improving roads and bridges, the support of the poor of the country, for the expense of running the business of the township, county and state?

On what page is their offer to contribute money to the church?

What line of credit will they extend to you when your crops are poor and money gone, when, through illness or misfortune, you are not able to send "cash with order" for your groceries, clothing, farm tools and crockery? Also stoves and ranges.

Where is their offer to contribute to your entertainment next year? What did they do last year?

In short, will they provide a market for what you have to sell and thereby keep up the value of your estate? Will they do anything for social, church, school or government support, or do they take your dollar out of the community with no returns except the goods you buy?

Think this over carefully, then call on your local dealer, where you can see and examine the goods before you buy them, and by comparison of prices and quality you will see that you can do as well or better at home, and you keep the money at home, thereby helping to build up your local town.

Meet "Catalogue House" Competition with Catalogue House Energy. It is all right for a body of merchants to get together and pass resolutions deploring the inroads of "catalogue house" competition and "Resolve" not to patronize manufacturers and jobbers who sell "catalogue houses". This is all right as it is a step in the right direction.

But it is only one step. If further steps are not taken, this first step may as well not have been.

Retail merchants should not patronize manufacturers and jobbers who sell "catalogue houses", and taking this position will cut off the "catalogue house" of some certain brands of goods, but the "catalogue house" will get goods just the same, and will keep hammering at the consumer just the same.

If, after passing these resolutions, which are all right, the retail merchants every one of them, would go home and devise ways and means, by advertising and otherwise, to bring his wares to the attention of the consumer as prominently as the "catalogue houses" do theirs, the "catalogue house" would receive a "body blow." Why don't you do it.

The Delineator For August.

A wealth of suggestions for the newest Summer gowns is to be found in the August Delineator, which is interesting, not only from the standpoint of fashion, but for its reading as well. Among the fiction of the number is the second installment of "The Chauffeur and the Chaperon," the delightful motor boat romance by The Williamsons, authors of many automobile stories; also two entertaining short stories by Carroll Watson Rankin and Marvin Dana, Carolyn Wells, contributes the "Rubaiyat of Summer Khayyam," written in her inimitable style. Clara E. Langlin tells the story of the life of Rembrandt, whose pictures are held invaluable in the world's best collections of art, and Gustav Knobbe writes the famous civil war song of the south, "Dixie", and its composer, Dan Emmet, the old minstrel. In the campaign for Safe Foods, Mrs. Able contributes a chapter on "The Market Inspector and the Buyer," which concludes this series of notable articles. There are numerous articles devoted to the interests of the home:—The Kitchen, House Furnishing, Needlework and Dressmaking, and the children's pages include a variety of entertainments having for their purpose the entertainment of young folks.
