When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim; is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by L. Taggart; J. E. Smith, Sterling Run; Crum Bros., Sinnamahoning. WANTED—Girl to do general housework and one who will stay at her own home at nights. Apply at Press office. 171f. Rev. Swallow After Emery. HARRISBURG, July 22.—The qualifications of Lewis Emery, the fusion candidate for Governor, entitling him to a place at the head of the Prohibition ticket are once more called in question by Rev. Silas C. Swallow. He has again written to Mr. Emery telling him bluntly what he thinks of his recent letter to Mr. Likins and using the same letter of denunciation as a lever for getting a 700-word magazine article from the fusion candidate. The letter is as follows: HARRISBURG, Pa., July 21, 1906. My Dear Mr. Emery—The letter I wrote you on July 9, was a private communication and for your sake I regret that you made it public. There were but two copies made; one I sent you, the other was in my office, and unless copied surreptitiously by some one, I did not give it out. The fact that you read it on Monday to Professor Rockwood and others in your office, and sent copies to Mr. Likins and others, renders it probable that you gave it publicity for the purpose of working the sympathy plan and at the same time bidding for the whiskey vote. I wrote it with the best of motives to ascertain from you the truth or falsity of certain allegations touching your lack of fitness for a place at the head of the Prohibition ticket. This it was my duty to do, as I must soon as a committee-man, conscientiously pass on that fitness, and my vote might determine your admission or rejection as a Prohibition candidate for the highest office in the gift of the voters of Pennsylvania. I expected you would answer me respectfully, since I had thus addressed you, briefly stating which allegations, if any, were false and which, if any were true. SAYS LETTER IS AN EVASION. In your letter to Mr. Likins, editor of The People's Tribune, Uniontown, Pa., you evasively attempt to answer only a few of the inquiries found in my letter to you. You grow "indignant" and object to be "insulted," and your "wife breaks down" because I ask you whether the rumor is correct that "you place intoxicants before your guests in your own home." Then after all this gush and self martyrdom you admit that "in my house and upon my sideboard is the liquor of the family. It is there for my family and friends if so desired." Why, then, be "insulted" at being asked whether a rumor is true while you admit the truth of it? You say of your wife "she has taught her children the dangers of liquor drinking." What would you think of a father who kept a nest of vipers in his dining room for the amusement of his children, over whom the wife must stand guard day and night in order to protect them from being bitten? Or have you never read that "wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise," and that other warning of the wisest King, "Look not upon the wine when it is red.... for at last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder," or are you a disciple of Ingersoll, ignoring "The Word?" You say of me: "If he had heard this scandal, namely, placing intoxicants before guests, etc., he should have hurled the relator to the ground." He should have stricken him to the earth, etc. But what? Making a statement which you admit is true? If it is a scandal to ask a man privately whether he sets liquors before his guests, then how scandalous it is for a man to do such a thing. Brother Emery, suffer a word of exhortation—"Quit it forever." VARYING DEGREES OF "DRUNK." You say, none of my family nor myself are total abstainers, none are drunkards, none are tipplers, none are even moderate drinkers." You claim to have been drunk but "once in life when a boy." In this I rejoice with you remembering that the word "drunk" is a variable term. One man admits he has been drunk only when he awakes in the guard house, another when dragged out of the gutter, another when he has had a mid-night "bout with the boys" and on his return home has lost the key or the key hole or both, while others honestly admit that a glass of beer or wine or champagne produces an abnormal, though to the onlooker an invisible effect. However the half-million railroad men now under total abstinence orders from their employers have been given to understand that because a single drink of intoxicating liquor taken at any time may blunt their sensibilities, that therefore drunkenness is to be certainly avoided only by absolutely abstaining. You say "none of us love whisky, and we rarely drink it." We answer people differ in their tastes and appetites. Some prefer gin, others rum, others brandy and still others beer or champagne. Some of the most dangerous drunkards in the world are wine and beer drinkers. "They rarely drink whiskey." You say I was in California when the brewery was located in Bradford, and "how could I take stock in it or secure its location in Bradford?" Will you swear that you did not send a telegram which determined the matter? You say "had I been at home I would not have withheld my donation from that brewery, no more than I would from the churches, schools or hospitals." Well! Well! Here is another Burchard come to judgment. All will remember the "Rum-Romanism and Rebellion" bull that defeated Blaine and elected Cleveland. Were you really yourself when you wrote that sentence, or did some Burchard write it for you? STILL ANOTHER COMPLAINT. If the Christian people of Pennsylvania can gulp you down after that, if the young people's societies and the Young Men's Christian Associations can vote to put a man at the head of our government who places the drink factories on a par with the church, the school and the hospital, than we miss our guess. The churches teach in exact language that "No political party ought to receive the support of Christian men so long as it fails to put itself on record in an attitude of open hostility to the liquor traffic." Yet your benevolence bunches the brewery and the church. The school book in nearly every State in the Union teach that the product of the brewery is not food but poison. That it blunts the moral sensibilities, clouds the intellect and rapidly deteriorates man's physical powers; but you contribute with equal facility and felicity to the brewery and to the school, two antagonistic institutions. The product of the brewery more than any other agency, fills our hospitals, insane asylums and almshouses, and yet you are as liberal in your contributions to the bane of society as to its blessings. The product of the brewery has impoverished thousands of families in our State, rendering children shoeless, hatless and naked, and their pinched and blanched faces and fleshless limbs are all sad reminders that the church and the schools are closed to them, and only the hospital or almshouse remain open to them, and yet you have the brazen impudence to boast that you are as happy in bestowing your benefactions on the greatest agency of misery and crime as when bestowing them on the agencies established to prevent crime and to save the criminal. Your reference to the beverage use of liquor in your father's house might serve as an excuse for your own low estimate of civic virtue had you lived these 63 years in some other country where the public conscience had not been educated by press, pulpit and platform as it has in America. If ignorant here, it is willful and execrable. LOOKED TO HIM AS A MOSES. To seriously treat the liquor business as a legitimate industry to be encouraged by good men, at a time when 38,000,000 of our population have driven it from their midst, when railroads and other large employers, of labor are establishing prohibition for their employees, and when life insurance companies, civic and eleemosynary societies are closing their doors to the patrons of the brewery gives evidence of a moral and mental obtuseness in you which in their sober second thought will prevent the moral voters of this State from honoring you with their suffrage. This is to be deplored, for we fondly looked to you as our Moses to lead the united reform forces in overthrowing the gang rule that for a quarter of a century has deprived us of an honest count of the Prohibition vote. But so it is. Your letter to Mr. Likins, if there were no other evidence, is quite sufficient to establish your utter unfitness to rule as Governor six millions of people, a majority of whom still believe that the church, the school and the hospital have claims infinitely superior to the brewery, the saloon and the brothel. Your insinuation that my private letter to you was inspired by some corporate or corrupt influence is false. I am as much opposed to the Standard Oil Company's methods as are you, and I wish to assure you that in fighting them I never have and never will build a succession of oil refineries and sell them out to the Standard at ten times their value and fight them only when they refuse to buy another. And now, Mr. Emery, an item of business. I am soliciting from each of the five gubernatorial candidates an article, not to exceed 700 words stating what each stands for in this campaign, to be accompanied by a half-tone cut of the author. I want these articles for the September number of The Church Forum, a monthly periodical edited and published by me. Extra copies may be sent to addresses furnished by you at a reasonable price. Trusting that while we do not "see eye to eye" on some things, yet that we may strive to emphasize our agreements rather than our differences, I beg to remain, Yours fraternally, S. C. SWALLOW.
