Edward Meachau, 77 years old on Jan. 14th, went to the home of M. H. Burton, 25 years old, three miles from here, and, standing within four feet of the young man, and in the presence of his mother, shot him, says a telegram from Coudersport.

The bullet entered Burton's breast one inch from the heart and passed through to the skin on the back. Meacham shot a second time at him, and Burton then grappled with him, and the two men fell through the doorway and down an embankment, breaking apart.

While Burton was going toward his home Meacham fired a third time, and then went to his home across the road set fire to it. He then walked across the country a mile to the home of Samuel Thompson, where he committed suicide by putting a bullet into his own head.

Meachan had only imaginary reasons for desiring to take Burton's life. Physicians believed Burton will recover, if blood poisoning does not result.
