Woman in Alaska

Wife of Famous Explorer Tells of Her Experiences in the Far North - A City Where It Is Nearly Always Raining -- The Gateway to the Klondike ---Hardships Endured by Army Officers' Wives and Other Women.

A. W. Greely, the distinguished arctic explorer, has traveled widely and as a result of her observations has written for publication with considerable success.)

From the nation's capital to Alaska is a far reach. Crossing the Alleghenies through the mining regions of Pennsylvania, so picturesque except where defaced by man's grimy pursuits; through busy Chicago; rushing over the western plains; across the Rockies and we find ourselves on the evening of the fifth day at Seattle, embarking on the steamship Humboldt for the famous inland passage.

Here on the ship I am surprised to see how many women are travel-ing to Alaska. Of course, the inland passage has been a favorite trip for 15 years or more, but the large pro-portion of women among the excursionists, many of them in parties of two or three without escorts, indicates that conditions have materially improved in this part of the world. In fact, the ease and comfort with which we travel greatly astonish me. Late on the third day we reach Juneau, opposite which is Douglas is-Juncau, opposite which is Douglas is-land and the great Treadwell gold mine. French President's Double.

M. Fallieres was until recently be lieved to be the only president of the French republic who had no double, but his counterpart has been found. The man who most resembles him physically is a respectable merchant of the Rue Saint Honore, who plays his part with decorum and dignity. He wears exactly the same kind of blue butterfly necktle with white dots as the president, the same kind of hat and exactly so oddly cut a beard. And on his promenades he is always accompanied by a friend who could easily be taken for the president's private secretary. Dignified and with meas-ured steps the enviable double walks through the Faubourg Saint Honore and feels overjoyed at being saluted on all sides.

Skin Disease from Birth-Fortune Spent on Her Without Benefit-Cured Her with Cuticura.

"I have a cousin in Rockingham Co. who once had a skin disease from her birth until she was six years of age. Her father had spent a fortune on her to get her cured and none of the treatments did her any good. Old Dr. G---- suggested that he try the Cuticura Remedies which he did. When he commenced to use it the child was almost a solid scab. had used it about two months and the child was well. I was there when they commenced to use your Cuti-cura Remedies. I stayed that week and then returned home and stayed two weeks and then went back and stayed with them two weeks longer. and when I went home I could hardly believe she was the same child. Her skin was as soft as a baby's without a scar on it. I have not seen her in seventeen years, but I have heard from her and the last time I heard from her she was well. Mrs. W. P. Mark Twain's Neat Answer.

Eugene Ware, of Topeka, recently wrote to Mark Twain: "I picked up your last volume. I read it clear through from cover to cover; it was like a bob-tailed flush. I could not lay it down." From No. 21 Fifth avenue, New York city, Mr. Clemons answered back as follows: "Dear Mr. Ware: I am an old brass-bound, copper-riveted, fire-assayed Presbyterian, with 71 years' experience in unworldliness, and I don't understand your meta-phor, but I know it was intended as a compliment and I make it cordially welcome.

Whine from Henry James

Henry James, pursuing his theme, "The Speech of American Women," speaks of a group of Boston young women, "all articulating as from sore mouths, all mumbling and whining partners in the gold fields were able to offer her. She found the quarters rather limited for four persons, but she not only accepted the situation were together." He compares, also to its great disadvantage, a school where parents pay so much not to have their boys taught to speak as gentlemen with one "beyond the sea, in which the proviso that the schoolmaster shall speak as a gentleman is so abso lutely vital."

What is Pe-ru-na? Is it a Catarrh Remedy, or a Tonic, or is it Both? Some people call Peruna a great tonic. Others refer to Peruna as a great catarrh remedy remedy. Which of these people are right? Is it more proper to call Peruna a catarrh rem-edy than to call it a tonic? Our reply is, that Peruna is both a tonic and a catarrh remedy. Indeed, there can be no effectual catarrh remedy that is not also a tonic. In order to thoroughly relieve any case of catarrh, a remedy must not only have a specific action on the mucous membranes affected by the catarrh, but it must have a general tonic action on the nervous system. Catarrh, even in persons who are otherwise strong, is a weakened condition of some mucous membrane. There must be something to strengthen the circulation, to give tone to the arteries, and to raise the vital forces.

mucous membrane. There must be something to strengthen the circulation, to give tone to the arteries, and to raise the vital forces. Perhaps no vegetable remedy in the world has attracted so much attention from medical writers as HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS. The wonderful efficacy of this herb has been recognized many years, and is growing in its hold upon the medical profession. When joined with CUBEBS and COPAIBA a trio of medical agents is formed in Peruna which constitutes a specific remedy for catarrh that in the present state of medi-cal progress cannot be improved upon. This action, reinforced by such renowned tanks as COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS, CORYDALIS FORMOSA and CEDRON SEED, ought to make this compound an ideal remedy for catarrh in all its stages and locations in the body. From a theoretical standpoint, therefore, Peruna is beyond criticism. The use of Peruna, confirms this opinion. Numberless testimonials from every quarter of the carth
