Mr. A. W. Woods, of Coudersport, visited in Emporium over Sunday, guest of W. S. Sterner and Chas. Lentz.

Mr. Chas. Hill, of Columbus, O., visited in Emporium over Sunday, guest of Wm. Lyons and family, on Third street.

Mrs. Rose Lupold and daughter, accompanied by the children of Mr. John Weisman are visiting Mrs. Lupold's parents, Joshua Bair and family.

L. E. Specht, of Beaver Town, Pa., is visiting in town this week. He is now engaged in promoting business being interested in an ore and furnace scheme.

Thos. Cummings, who has been at Niagara Falls for some time, came home Saturday, and we are sorry to learn the young man is threatened with typhoid fever.

Thos. McGrain one of the best gardeners and care takers of homes and horses, was a PRESS visitor last Thursday and made ye editor happy. He reports Mrs. McGrain's health improving, which will be good news to the family's friends.

N. A. Ostrum has been appointed Constable and Collector for Shippen township, and has qualified. He will make a competent official and collect the tax. Mr. Ostrum was a pleasant PRESS visitor this morning and pushed the date on his paper well into 1907.

E. E. Simmons, of Portland Mills has accepted a clerkship in the office of the Emporium Powder Company. Mr. Simmons is a married man and has been in the employ of the Elk Tanning Company for several years. He hopes to move his family to Emporium as soon as he can secure a suitable house.

It is rumored that Forrest Pye of Emporium and a Miss Morrison of Beechwood, were united in marriage at Olean, N. Y., Saturday, March 2nd. While Forrest has not been around as yet with the cigars, we presume he is waiting for some one to break the news. The PRESS extends congratulations.

Robt. Mack, of Buckwalter, one of the most industrious farmers in Cameron county, was a PRESS caller last week and made himself solid with the printer. Mr. Mack, who purchased the upper J. R. Buckwalter farm, has by strict attention to business and honest dealing made a mighty good farm and now toasts his toes in peace and plenty, with his good wife a family.

Crossed Wires.
There was a little excitement at New Warner early this morning, caused by telephone wires getting crossed and starting a blaze. No damage to speak of.

He Had the Most—Perhaps.

A comic actor who had been engaged to entertain a family party proposed at the conclusion of the performance a little game of his own. Each of the company, himself included, was to stake half a crown, and the pool would be taken by the person who possessed the most of the articles which he (the comedian) would inquire for. On his assurance that he would take no mean advantage, but run the same risk as the rest, all the members of the party consented, and between £3 and £4 was soon laid on the table. The actor added his piece to the pool, with a cunning smile, and then said:

"Now, which of you ladies and gentlemen happen to have the greatest number of false teeth?"
Deathlike silence reigned for about a minute, then a burst of laughter, both hearty and in some cases forced.
"I have three," continued the actor.
"Who has got more?"
The comedian took the pool.—London Tit-Bits.

Senator Bate's Authority.

The late Senator William B. Bate of Tennessee was a major general in the Confederate army and never quite reconciled himself to the defeat of the south. Soon after he came to the senate he formulated a set of rules which he called "Rules for my proper legislative guidance." Whenever a proposition came up about which he was undecided he would take the printed slip containing these rules from his pocket and study it carefully.
"Bate," said a colleague one day, "what is that slip of paper to which you refer so frequently?"
"That," said Senator Bate, "is a little reminder of my belief on constitutional questions."
"Where did you get it? Think it out yourself?"
"No, suh," replied Bate, "with much dignity; 'I found most of those immortal truths in the constitution of the Confederate States of America.'—Saturday Evening Post.

"Orchestra" and "Noise."

In Shakespeare's time no musical dictionary could have distinguished between "orchestra" and "band," for the simple reason that neither word was then English in a musical sense. "Orchestra" did not arrive before the eighteenth century and even "band" not until the latter half of the seventeenth, when Charles II. had a "band of violins," in imitation probably of Louis XIV's "bande." The old English word for a band of music was "noise." "See if thou canst find out Sneak's noise. Mistress Tearsheet would fain hear some music," says one drawer to the other at the Bear's Head tavern. And just so Ben Jonson has "a noise of fiddlers" and "a noise of trumpets." The old word is wanted for many a gathering of musicians outside this writer's flat.—London Chronicle.

Writing on a Train.

"No matter how fast and rough the pace," said a brakeman, "you can write with perfect ease and comfort on a train if you hold a cushion on your lap. You rest your tablet and your arm on the cushion, and somehow or other neither jolt nor jar disturbs you. The soft cushion nullifies every tremor. Your writing is as legible as if it had been done at your desk at home. We railroaders have a good many accounts to make up while traveling, and hence we usually have a cushion handy. Drummers and other experienced travelers are great hands to borrow our cushions from us when they have a little correspondence to attend to."

"Talesman" in English Law.

A talesman, according to English law, is a juror summoned to fill a gap, and formerly, at any rate, this was often done by taking any suitable person who was present in court. "Tales de circumstantibus" ("such of the bystanders") were the first words of the order directing this process. Good Plekwickians may remember that, as only ten special jurors were present on a memorable occasion, Mr. Serjeant Buzfuz "prayed a tales," whereupon two of the common jurymen, one of whom was the unfortunate chemist, were pressed into the service.—London Standard.

The Very Worst.

Douglas Jerrold was seriously disappointed with a certain book written by one of his friends. This friend heard that Jerrold had expressed his disappointment and questioned him. "I hear you said — was the worst book I ever wrote."
"No, I didn't," came the answer. "I said it was the worst book anybody ever wrote."

Where It Snows in Summer.

Snow, it appears, only falls in the antarctic in summer and on those rare occasions at other seasons when the wind blows almost due south, and, strange to say, these south winds are warm winds, raising the temperature to 50 or 60 degrees F. They seem akin to the snow melting Föhn winds of the Alps.

Fully Posted.

"Could you do the landlord in 'The Lady of Lyons?'" asked the manager of a seedy actor.
"Well, I should think I might. I have done a good many landlords."

It Might Speak.

The Artist—Oh, ze madam has ze grand face. I shall make ze speaking likeness. Henpeck—Er—well, old man, you needn't go so far as that, you know.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Traitor.

"They say that he fell overboard as the ship rolled on its side."
"You might say that he left the ship in the lurch."—Yale Record.

RHEUMATISM

Old Mr. Rheumatism hangs on tight and bites and pinches when he takes a job to shake him off. It's quite a job to shake him off. It's hard to believe that all the pain and trouble he causes comes from such a little thing. Just a tiny bit of acid in the blood the kidneys haven't taken care of. But the kidneys aren't to blame. I used to think they were. Now

LAWRENCE TUSCANY.

I know better. It's that over worked and over crowded stomach giving the kidneys part of its work and the kidneys can't do it. I found this out with Cooper's New Discovery. It puts the stomach in shape, that's all it does, and yet I have seen thousands of people get rid of rheumatism by taking it. That is why I am positive that rheumatism is caused by stomach trouble. Here is a sample of letters I get every day on the subject.
"For a long time I have been a victim of sciatica and inflammatory rheumatism, and my suffering has been too great to describe. For weeks I lay helpless with every joint in my body so tender and sore that I could not bear to move. The slightest touch would cause me the greatest agony. Several doctors treated me but they failed entirely. I tried many remedies but nothing seemed to reach my case, so I continued to lay helpless. My kidneys and stomach were affected also. I could eat but little, digest less and gradually my strength left. I lost flesh rapidly."
"I began the use of the famous Cooper medicines of which I heard so much. To my surprise and delight I improved immediately, and after using several bottles I felt like another person. My strength and appetite returned. The pain and soreness left me and now I feel better than I have for months." Lawrence Tuscan, 1122 Aldrich Ave., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

We sell Mr. Cooper's celebrated preparations.

KNACK

When you speak of "knack" you mean that a person has a way of doing things which is different, sometimes you can not understand it. Often the person himself cannot tell you what it is, but still it is a good thing to have, and if once we find out we have it we need not set about to find the reason.
We don't know all there is to be known about running a grocery store—there's always something to learn—but we have the "knack" and the Day Grocery Store is distinctive because of this "knack" an indefinable something which has put it in a class by itself. Try us.
