WASHINGTON LETTER. [From our Regular Correspondent.] Washington, July 13th, 1907.

This is bad weather for monopolist in restraint of trade. No sooner has the government outlined the scheme of a receivership for lawbreaking trusts than there comes another announcement of a plan that the President has been working over for some time which is to make the government part owner of the railroads and have a government representative on the board of directors on each of the principal lines.

The plan as outlined by some of the people who have talked with the President at Oyster Bay is simple in the extreme. It is simply for the government to buy a certain amount of stock in the big roads in the open market. It would not have to be a large amount, considering the influence of the federal authorities to insure the election of a government director on the board of each of the big trunk lines.

Not long ago a new Turkish bath establishment was organized, and as is the custom the promoters went out to form a regular clientele. The accounts of what a Turkish bath would accomplish were most glowing. Among the men approached was a German saloonist. His complaint was obesity, as was shown by the fact that he was below the average height and weighed 200 pounds.

The late Senator M. S. Quay of Pennsylvania kept all the letters his constituents wrote to him asking for favors. He had stacks of them when his last fight for the senate came along. Then he sorted out the letters, eliminating those from people who were dead, and on the back of each letter wrote: Dear John or Bill—Do you remember when you wrote me this letter and do you remember that I did what was asked? I want your help now in my fight for the senate. Can I have it?

Monroe, Ft. McHenry and one or two other places. He has always had to be let go because there was no law to punish a man for making sketches of American forts. But it only shows how active Japanese spies are (in Jingo newspapers) for the same sort of a capture occurs almost regularly about three times a month.

The Jolly Jesters. "Mr. Middleman, Ah desires to propound a question." "Very well, Mr. Tambo." "Why do dey designate dat beautiful southern vegetable as ah watermelon?" "That's easy. Because it makes your mouth water."

Find the Answer. A certain young man took his best girl to the theater. During the evening she complained of not feeling well, and they left before the show was over. He took her home, and when he said good night the girl was pretty sick. Next day it turned out that she had diphtheria.

Definition of a Box Car. Not all the instruction given to young railroad men is intensely serious. The following definition was recently offered to a beginner: "A box car belongs to the fowl family. During the spring and summer months it can be found in nearly every part of the country, its favorite haunts being railway tracks, and it is easy to capture. In the autumn, however, like certain other fowls, it goes into hibernation or flies to other climes. Scattered instances are known where specimens are captured during the autumn months. A lasso or a well greased switch crew is sometimes used in snaring the box car, but main strength is the best weapon. In any case the hunter must be very wary, as any noise like the fluttering of a waybill will make the quarry disappear. Some railways own large flocks of domesticated box cars, but they are carefully guarded during the closed season. The wild box car when caught and fairly well loaded becomes perfectly stationary."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Losing Game. Not long ago a new Turkish bath establishment was organized, and as is the custom the promoters went out to form a regular clientele. The accounts of what a Turkish bath would accomplish were most glowing. Among the men approached was a German saloonist. His complaint was obesity, as was shown by the fact that he was below the average height and weighed 200 pounds.

Quay and His Letters. The late Senator M. S. Quay of Pennsylvania kept all the letters his constituents wrote to him asking for favors. He had stacks of them when his last fight for the senate came along. Then he sorted out the letters, eliminating those from people who were dead, and on the back of each letter wrote: Dear John or Bill—Do you remember when you wrote me this letter and do you remember that I did what was asked? I want your help now in my fight for the senate. Can I have it?

Who Fra Diavolo Was. Fra Diavolo was the nickname given Michele Pezza, a celebrated renegade monk and Italian brigand, who was born in 1760. It should be noted that the opera of Auber has nothing in common with Fra Diavolo but the name. Pezza was first a stocking weaver, then a soldier in the Neapolitan army, then a soldier in the pope's service, and finally he became a monk, but was expelled. In the mountains of Calabria Pezza took to brigandage, and such was his notoriety and so great were his cruelties that the people nicknamed him Fra Diavolo. It is consoling to know that he was eventually executed in 1806.—New York American.

Getting Rid of His Cards. The other day one of the members, raw to London, was introduced to a party of ladies in the dining room of the house of commons. As he left he gravely presented each lady with his card. A friend ventured to hint that this was carrying politeness too far for London customs. "Sure," was the reply, "it didn't matter. I had 200 of them printed. And I've changed my address anyway, so they're no use to me."—Leeds Mercury.

The Joke Was on Her. A woman member of the bar in New York gives to our correspondent the following correspondence with the reservation that no names shall be quoted. "I am one of the few women," she says, "who can see a joke even if aimed at myself. I do not feel that in this case I came off first best."

Dear Miss Blank—We agree to the compromise as proposed in your favor of this date. Not because your client has a just right to such settlement, but from the fact that we do not care to open a contest with a woman lawyer.

And the following letter closed the correspondence: Gentlemen—I note yours agreeing to a settlement, although I cannot congratulate you on your gallantry in bogging the question. Like the original Adam, you seem inclined to hide behind a woman's petticoat.

Dear Miss Blank—If you will turn to the early pages of Genesis you will discover that Eve did not wear a petticoat. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Find the Answer. A certain young man took his best girl to the theater. During the evening she complained of not feeling well, and they left before the show was over. He took her home, and when he said good night the girl was pretty sick. Next day it turned out that she had diphtheria. Then the young man began to wonder if he was booked for a siege with the disease too. He called on a physician he knew to ask about it.

The physician heard the young man's tale. "Well," said he at the conclusion of it, "I think your chances to catch the disease depend on how you said good night to the young lady."

The young man was quiet a moment. Then he said: "Doctor, I'm much obliged. If that's the case, I'm not in danger."

The young man went out. A minute later he stuck his head in the door. "Say, doc," he said, "diphtheria don't go very hard with strong, healthy young men, does it?"—Denver Post.

A Monster Rodent. The Brazilian capybara is a large, stoutly built rodent. Imagine a rat weighing 280 pounds with a huge head, an upper lip a foot long and close set eyes and one has an idea of the beast. He is the largest of the rodent tribe and has harsh, coarse hair, more like bristles than fur. This hair is mixed black and yellow, of dingy appearance. In his native haunts the capybara has a huge, fat stomach which almost drags on the ground. He is a water loving animal and can dive and stay under for eight or ten minutes at a time. The Jaguar of South America preys upon the capybara, and the Indians kill him for his flesh, which when smoked is said to be as delicious as a Kentucky ham, although it has a certain musky flavor. The capybara makes a sound when alarmed somewhat between a dog's bark and a pig's grunt. He was once called the hydrochoerus, or water hog, and lives on a vegetable diet.

Testing the Insane. Sir Douglas Straight told an amusing story at the dinner of the Journeymen Hairdressers' Trade society. He remembered, when a young barrister, going into a barber shop to be shaved. He was a little startled to see the woman behind the counter staring at him from time to time through the glass door. When he got outside the shop a policeman said, "I am very glad to find you have come out," explaining that his anxiety was due to the fact that the barber came out of a lunatic asylum the previous week, and as he had been acting queerly again his relatives were wondering whether they would have to send him back to the asylum.—London Standard.

A Standing Rule. Jones had just run over to see if Mr. and Mrs. Blank would go to the theater with them. Mrs. Blank was awfully sorry—she would so much like to go—but unfortunately Blank was out. Probably he was at the club. She would telephone. The following conversation ensued: "213A Gerrard, please. Hello! Is this the club? Is my husband there? Hello! Not there? Sure? Well, all right then. But hold on. How do you know? I haven't even told you my name."

What the Noise Did. Of the noise of London streets caused by the hackney coach Taylor, the old water poet, wrote: "It makes such a hideous rumbling in the streets by many churches' doors that people's ears are stopped with the noise, whereby they are debarred of their edifying which makes faith so fruitless, good works so barren and charity as cold at midsummer as if it were a great frost. By this means souls are robbed and starved of their heavenly manna."

A Curious Fact. "I have some very strong letters of introduction," said the caller. "My friend," answered Senator Sorghum, "I don't rely too far on communications of that kind. A man will give you a letter of introduction describing you as possessed of every noble quality in human nature and in the next breath refuse to endorse your note for $20."—Washington Star.

A Bad Outlook. Mother—Dorothy, I have to be scolding you all the time! Dorothy—Well, all I can say, mamma, is I'm sorry for the man who gets you for a mother-in-law.—Smith's Magazine.

A lazy man goes far, and he who slims labor labors doubly. —Greek Proverb.

Long Live the King. Is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds its the only sure cure. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
