The demand for total abstinence from the use of intoxicating liquors among persons holding important positions of employment is increasing, and our great corporations are taking a lead in this matter. Commenting on this the Towanda Daily Review says: "The Lehigh Valley railroad has served notice on its employees that they must be total abstainers from alcoholic drinks or leave the service of the company, and it is quite likely that all of the other lines in the United States will adopt the same rule. It is only cumulative evidence that there are enough sober men in the world to do the world's work. The conviction is gaining weight everywhere that the temperance question is not only moral, but economic, and corporations are now one with the churches in the effort to suppress this great national vice."

School Opens Sept. 9th.

On account of repairs being made to the East Ward School Building, the opening of the schools has been postponed to September 9th.

Pupils will please take their report cards to the rooms to which they have been assigned.

The Seventh Grade will be accommodated in the East Ward building this year. The Grammar school room will be used for the Eighth Grade and the Freshman class of the High school. Parents having children to attend school for the first time in Emporium will please see to it that they have their vaccination certificates to present to the teachers on the first day of school. Pupils who have moved here from other places should meet the principal at his office on Thursday previous to the opening of the schools.

There will be a meeting of teachers and directors on Friday evening, Sept. 6th. The place and hour will be announced later.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, Aug. 24th, 1907.

The news that Secretary of State, Elihu Root, is at William Muldoon's Sanitarium, near New York, has given rise to a number of wholly unfounded reports to the effect that Mr. Root has suffered a nervous breakdown, has quarrelled with the President, contemplates resigning from the cabinet, etc., all of which your correspondent is in a position emphatically to deny. Mr. Root has had no quarrel with the President, and he has no thought of resigning from the cabinet, on the contrary, he expects to start next month for Mexico where he will be the guest of President Diaz for a short time. Neither is Mr. Root a nervous wreck, although it is a fact that he is worn out with the heavy responsibilities of his high position, and the great amount of detail work which devolves upon him because he has not been given competent assistants.

There is another reason, however, why Mr. Root deemed it wise to spend the few remaining weeks of his vacation at Muldoon's, and that is that despite the fact that he went to his summer home at Clinton, N. Y., with the hope of securing complete rest, hardly a day has passed on which one or more visitors has not arrived from New York. As Mr. Root's place is quite distant from the station, it was necessary to keep most of these over night, and the Secretary has set far into the night, evening after evening, talking politics, finances, etc., with his New York friends, many of whom were his clients when he practiced his profession in New York, and whom he was bound to treat with the utmost courtesy. Finding his vacation speeding to its close without his having enjoyed the complete rest which he so sorely needed, he determined to retire to Muldoon's and now no friend can get at him without first encountering Muldoon, and even now the ex-prizefighter would not be a pleasant gentleman to tackle. Mr. Root spends much time in the saddle, practically all his walking hours in the open air, and is thus able to sleep from ten to twelve hours out of the twenty-four. He writes his friends in Washington that he expects to return to Washington rested and rejuvenated and ready for the hard winter's work that is ahead of him.

Secretary Taft's western trip and the speeches in which he is announcing the platform on which he asks the presidential nomination continue to attract the attention of the politicians in Washington, and while the Secretary has not made any effort to capture his audiences by bursts of oratory or flights of fancy, and while his speeches have been as free from anything savoring of demagoguery as is the man himself, it is generally conceded that he is daily becoming better known and a more difficult candidate for the anti-Roosevelt faction to defeat. Mr. Taft has amply demonstrated his adherence to that body of political and economic propositions which are known as the Roosevelt policies; he has also displayed a judicial temperament and a respect for the constitution which are very attractive to some Republicans who have, unwarrantably, no doubt, feared that President Roosevelt was going too far in his efforts to correct all evils through the federal government.

It is generally agreed among the politicians that the loyalty of the people to Roosevelt and the desire of many that he should accept a third term are preventing that enthusiasm for other candidates which would be certain if it were accepted as a fact that the President would not accept another nomination. For Mr. Taft the situation has many advantages. For other candidates it is a detriment to their ambitions. It is a safe prediction, however, that when the proper time comes, probably about the end of this year, President Roosevelt will make a final and unequivocal statement completely and absolutely eliminating himself from consideration, and when he does so he will contrive in some manner to let the voters know that he regards Mr. Taft as the man most in sympathy with, most loyal to, and most capable of carrying the Roosevelt policies to a successful issue.

A Popular School.

The forty-fourth school year in the Rochester Business Institute will open Tuesday, September 3rd. The year just closing has been a phenomenal one, both in the number of students enrolled and in the demand for graduates from the school. More than 1400 calls have been received during the year for young men and women to fill excellent positions.

Stabbing Affray.

Dominic Pretrazieo, an Italian in the employ of the Emporium Powder Company, got into an altercation with another employee, named Howard Pennington, last Monday morning, about seven o'clock, the Italian cutting Pennington on the forehead with a knife, and made his escape. We understand Pennington had been told by foreman Haley "to let that Italian alone," fearing that what did happen would take place.

An Appeal.

I would like to say through your good paper to its readers, that we have commenced the erection of the Castle Garden church and there is much to be done and help is needed—both workers and money. This is a good opportunity for those desiring to do something for the Lord. If you cannot assist us with your hands you can send money. "Give and it shall be given unto you," good measure, pressed down and shaken together, and running over; not grudgingly or of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver. We are poor and must look for help from those whom God has prospered. All who have pledged to give are requested to send the amount in, as soon as possible, to Mr. J. O. Brookbank, or to myself, and the same will be duly acknowledged. Thanking you all in advance, I am,
Yours for the Upbuilding of the Church,

"The Seminary Girl."

Ben Mulvey, the clever young singer who appears at the Emporium Opera House in "The Seminary Girl" next Wednesday, Sept. 4th, is a boy and has been very successful on the stage. He tells the following rather good one on himself. He was playing some one night stands out west and was invited to a lawn party one afternoon. As he approached the house in question, he espied three little girls, the oldest not over nine, selling lemonade from a big wast tub outside the fence which separated the lawn from the street. As he approached the three children began to clamor: "Buy a glass of lemonade, only five cents," "only five cents a glass, please buy a glass, only 'five cents.'" As Mr. Mulvey was on the "water wagon" high and dry—the lemonade game appealed to him—as he fished out a nickel drank the lemonade and went in to the lawn party the children's thanks ringing in his ears. Returning from the lawn party an hour later he was again accosted by the children with: "Lemonade, only one cent a glass. Please buy another. Reduced prices, only one cent a glass." More to please the children than anything else, he fished out three pennies and drank three glasses one after the other. Just as he was going he turned to the oldest child and said: "I don't understand the reduction in price, my child. How is it you charged me five cents a glass a little while ago when I went in and now on my return it is only one cent a glass?" "Well, sir," said the child, "we don't think the lemonade is quite as good as it was. You see, just after you went away a dog fell in it!" Prices, $1.50, $1.00, 75c and 25c.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

Mr. Belasco has engaged some of the best obtainable talent for the special companies which he will send to tour the country next season in some of his most noted plays, including "The Rose of the Rancho," "The Girl of the Golden West," "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," and "The Darling of the Gods." All these attractions will appear in this city during the season.

A married couple were coming out of the house, he dressed to kill and she with a hairpin in her mouth and doing her best to pull on a pair of refractory gloves. "Why don't you dress in the house?" he growled. "I would as soon see a woman put on her stockings in the street as her gloves." "Most men would," she said sweetly, and then the silence was so intense that you could hear a chocolate drop as they hurried to catch the train.—Commoner and Glassworker.

We clip the following from a Niagara Falls paper, which refers to Thos. Cummings an Emporium boy who is playing ball at that place: "The Oakdales won the championship of Niagara Falls by defeating the Crescents for the third time this season by the score of 6 to 1. The feature of the game was the pitching of Cummings for the Oakdales, allowing only one hit in nine innings and only one base on balls. He had ten strike-outs.

"Turn the wrapper the other side out," said a lady to a dry goods store clerk the other day as he was putting her purchase in a printed wrapping paper. "I don't want to be a walking advertisement to your store. I read the papers as all intelligent people ought to do, and I think in them is the place to advertise your business. Instead of asking your customers, to carry your sign around with every purchase of goods, go and tell the people through the papers what you have to sell and how you sell it."—Towanda Reporter Journal.

It is getting so that there are but few people who pay any attention to newspaper bills. They seem to think that the sending out of bills is a sort of a health exercise that the publisher goes through, and not because he needs the money. There are some subscribers who never allow their subscriptions to run behind, and there are others who never think of paying until they have "been seen." The publisher appreciates the subscriber who pays up promptly and never waits for a bill to be rendered, and the prompt paying subscriber is the person who enjoys the paper.—Wellsboro Gazette.

A number of typhoid fever cases have been reported in Reading recently, and the Reading Telegrams, referring to the matter given an oft-repeated advice by urging all to boil their drinking water, an advice which should be heeded by all in every city or town where typhoid fever which is too often spurned with indifference. The telegram says: "Boiling water is fatal to the typhus bacilli. The worst infected water becomes safe after a thorough boiling. To be sure, boiling makes the water taste a bit insipid, although you won't notice this much if you cool the water after boiling. But better an insipid taste than a house full of typhoid patients, with risk of death."

There is a DuBois man who is just too mean for anything. For some unaccountable reason he has been laboring under the impression that he is "henpecked," and in order to get a little better usage at the hands of his better half he developed a beautiful plan that worked all right. The fellow hired six or eight boys to stand along the walk where he was going to take his wife for a walk the other night, and when he went past, the boys all tipped their hats and said: "Good evening, Mr. Henpeck." It cost him ten cents a piece for the boys, but he says it worked like a charm and the equal rights question is not being discussed in his home any more. Perhaps his wife felt sorry for him.—DuBois Courier.

Accidentally Shoots His Playmate.

Last Sunday afternoon, about 3:30 o'clock, a number of boys were playing in Plank Road Hollow, near the home of John Rutz, when a young lad named Albert Zwald, aged 12 years, came among the boys to exhibit his new 22 calibre rifle. Of course all the boys crowded around him to see the gun. Albert was proud of his rifle and was exhibiting its mechanism when he accidentally discharged it, the ball entering young Jacob Rutz, aged eight years, the ball striking his right breast and passed downward towards his stomach. The unfortunate lad is deaf and dumb and it was not until Dr. De Long arrived upon the scene that the parents knew how seriously he was injured. The injured boy is in a very serious condition and up to this (Tuesday) evening it is hard to tell what the outcome will be. The poor lad who made the awful mistake and wounded, possibly fatally, his little friend, is grief-stricken and deeply dejected the accident.

This accident should be another warning to parents who purchase, or allow their children to own or play with fire arms. Hardly a day passes that we do not read of like accidents.

LATER.—Dr. H. S. Falk, who has charge of the injured boy, informs the Press that, unless something unforeseen sets in, his patient will possibly recover.

List of Teachers.

The following is the list of teachers of Emporium Public School for term of 1907-1908.

EAST WARD.
Marion Larrabee, First Grade; Alvira Farr, Second Grade; Flora Schlecht, Third Grade; Anna Cleary, Fourth Grade; Mame Cleary, Fifth Grade; Caroline Lechner, Fifth Grade; Margaret Nickler, Sixth Grade; Estella Hoffman, Seventh Grade; Cora Barker, Sixth and Seventh Grades.

WEST WARD.
Nina Bryan, First Grade; Olive Malloy, Second Grade; Lena Bair, Third Grade; Rose Gayney, Fourth Grade; Gertrude Germond, Eighth Grade; Cordella Gray, Second Assistant; Laura McQuay, First Assistant; C. E. Plasterer, Principal; Bessie McQuay, Supply Teacher.

Base Ball.

The Citizens base ball team of the East Ward defeated the Driftwood team on the East Ward grounds yesterday by the score 11 to 2.

The game of ball played at this place last Saturday between Emporium and Ridgway was an exciting contest from start to finish. It required eleven innings to decide the game, Emporium winning 5 to 4.

The game played here on Tuesday between Emporium and Johnsonburg was the last game of the season in tri-county league, and was without any exceptions, the worst exhibition of the game ever witnessed here. The score was 16 to 0 in favor of the visitors. Emporium has one game to play with Johnsonburg yet at that place. The Emporium team will finish in fourth place.

Drawing the Jurors for Murder Trial.

Jury Commissioner John A. Wykoff, of Grove, came up yesterday to draw the jury for October court. The Jury Commissioners, Messrs. John A. Wykoff and Hon. N. P. Minard, Sheriff Swope and their attorney met at the court house yesterday and commenced the work. The jurors drawn at this time will try the murderer O'Dell and the utmost care is being exercised to have no mistake take place. Mr. Wykoff favored the Press office with a visit and renewed his paper as he has done for many years. Mr. Wykoff is one of Cameron county's most substantial and reliable citizens and has a host of friends in all sections of the county. We were pleased to meet our old friend.

A Blatant Demagogue at it Again.

Belleville Gazette.
August 7th, at Whitenight's Grove, in Columbia county, Treasurer Berry made a speech from which we quote as follows:

"If you want to have the politics of the State grow better just continue to keep a Democrat in the game. The people of this State have been buncoed to the queen's taste. I have had quite a job on my hands. I have been busy at Harrisburg, I had to be with that kind of a crowd. They have had your confidence. You have believed that what they said to you was the law and gospel and knowing they had your confidence they have done many things they would not have done under other conditions.

"Governor Pennypacker is a good old fellow. He is honest, and I don't believe he has a nickel of the money of which they robbed the State. He believed that the worst thing that could happen was the defeat of the Republican party and so he allowed everything to be smoothed over.

"Governor Stuart and those with him have the same disease. I am a member of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings; I am the only mechanic on the board and yet when it came to a point the subcommittee and the heads of the various departments bearing the mechanics, I did not even get a look in. The gang did the work. They named the people who should fill these offices and they are the ones who were appointed. They are men without exception who know nothing of the offices they fill. All this is going on under the present administration and its doing its duty in the Capitol steal because it must. With this exception the some old methods are in vogue at Harrisburg. If it had not been for the opening of the lid and the discovery of these facts the Republican party would not have had a candidate for Governor such as Governor Stuart."

So far as the fact stated that a fraud was perpetrated in the furnishing of the new Capitol, there seems to be but little doubt. The report of the investigating Committee in its report shows who were the persons guilty of wrong doing.

Berry claims for himself all the honor for "lifting the lid."

Let us see.

Mr. Berry went into office in May 1906. He admits, he discovered that the State was being defrauded in the furnishing of the Capitol. As a Member of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, he, notwithstanding his admitted knowledge of the wrong being done the state, did approve bills, and paid out as Treasurer, large sums of money therefor. He never pretended to protest until he started his foghorn, about the forepart of October, in a most extraordinary and sensational manner—purely for partisan political effect. Had he been honest in what he believed to be a fraud committed against the State, why did he not have the honesty and manhood to publicly protest at once? But he was more desirous to make political capital that might aid in winning a partisan victory. As a political demagogue, he was willing to be a silent partner to the fraud that was being committed under his eyes, and was willing to let the fraudulent action go on it by so doing he could use it to a political advantage. He cared more for his party and its success than he did for his interests of the State and the people.

This "Brick-yard-Berry," when prattling about the short-comings of others, and proclaiming his own honesty, ought to be honest enough to explain to the people why the State deposits were increased in a certain bank several hundred thousand dollars, and whether said increase of deposits had anything to do with said bank going upon his bond as Treasurer at what was considered as "a mere nominal charge."

He might also explain to his hearers, why said bank became the trustees in a certain mortgage for $50,000 on Mr. Berry's old, dilapidated brick plant, stated at that time to be worth from $12,000 to $14,000. Let him tell the truth as to these matters before he boasts so much of his self-righteousness and pharisaical honesty.

Before plucking the mote out of his brother's eye, let him take the beam out of his own eye.
