He is a pleasant, active and industrious young man and his many admiring friends (including the ladies, of course) wish him well.

THE COUNTRY STORE.

In former years it was better known than now, and better appreciated. It was much of the life of every rural hamlet and district. It was and to a certain extent is yet the best school for every countryman who has reached the age of maturity. Our common schools and academies and colleges teach nothing as to government, and if they do, it but reaches minds too young to comprehend. It is the conflict of mind which teaches government, and upon the counter and around the stove of the country store it is best taught. There is always someone there who is in contact with public men and public documents, who is posted. He gives out his knowledge; it is questioned by bright but generous minds, and the truth is reached at last. This leads others to imitate the best informed man, and the result is the education of all the surroundings of the country store in the art of government. The boys are there ready to walk or ride home with their fathers or uncles after a well spent evening. They thus acquire an ambition not dreamed of in any school, and as they grow older they apply it and become certainly useful citizens, and frequently men of distinction.

Daniel Webster extolled the country store as the best school known to New England. There he learned to think, and these thoughts led to the finest language known to our history, and to the most patriotic. Clay gathered his greatness, not in forums but at the country store. So did Henry Wilson, the cobbler of Massachusetts. Alexander Stevens, of Georgia, loved the country store, visited all in his State, there learned the many idioms peculiar to the South, and this knowledge was the foundation of his great good sense and his masterful popularity. Lincoln found his first inspiration in the country store, and when he rode his lawyers circuits these were his favorite stopping places, and here he would swap his quaint stories with those from the counter. All of our early rural great men were indebted to the country store, first for information, next for political support.

It is a pity that the power of the country store was ever impaired. It was the best educator, and is yet. You learn nothing of government and its practical application in the Churches, nothing whatever. The minister who touches upon, puts his foot in it because his education has been upon wholly different lines. The constitution learned by minds too youthful in the schools is comprehended only by contact and discussion with more and broader minds. The colleges are mainly given to other subjects. Schools and colleges aid but do not ripen.

Half a century ago the country store was in its community the best lyceum. It is yet in rural districts far removed from great cities, and we trust its power may return to all of the counties of Pennsylvania. The great power was first assailed by Local Option legislation passed in 1870. Many of the rural districts voted for Local Option; none of the cities. What was the result? Men who saw in this drastic legislation an infringement of their personal liberty, transferred their custom from country and hamlet to the cities. There they could buy all the whisky needed, and cover it in baskets filled with groceries and dry goods.

This was a blow to every country store. It led to lessened receipts, to corresponding loss of stock and supplies. Prior to 1870 everything was kept in the country store, from pins to silks, from pills to pargoric. The demand for dry goods ceased, as it did for many things. The Local Option of 1870, the same as that proposed last year was repealed by an indignant people after three years, and the country store did its part in the repeal. There were few taverns or breweries to aid.

Now invention comes to the aid of the country store and the old-fashioned country inn, an institution, which was really a public benefit. The automobile is more than a fad; it has come to stay. It seeks the country road side and patronizes the country store and country inn. It traverses great distances.

Pennsylvania's best days were when the country store flourished, as England's best men were contemporaneous with the wayside inn.

A blow against the country store was attempted in the Pennsylvania Legislature in 1903. The Bureau of Pharmacy, which had taxed for its own use all druggists, tried to subject the country store to examination and fee. Cooper, of Delaware County attacked the Bill in a ten minute speech filled with exposures, and after a winter's lobbying it was defeated by a vote of 182 to 12. This proved the death of Bureau fees. Cooper represented the Country store. Other men will rise to repeal mercantile taxes and foster an institution which never died.

A Humane Appeal.
A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind. Mr. U. D. Williams, 107 West Main St., says: "I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me and fully comes up to the proprietor's recommendation." It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as a cough and cold cure the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, hoarseness, and phthisic, stops hemorrhages of the lungs and builds them up. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

What Our Reporter saw in New York
A recent visit to one of the largest paint factories in the world disclosed machinery that was producing 10,000 gallons of Paint, and doing it better and in less time than 100 gallons could be made by hand mixing.
This was the celebrated L. & M. Paint. The L. & M. Zinc hardens L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. Paint wear like iron for 10 or 15 years.
4 gallons L. & M., mixed with 3 gallons Linseed Oil makes 7 gallons of paint at a cost of less than $1.20 per gallon.
If any defect exists in L. & M. Paint, will repaint house for nothing.
Donation of L. & M., made to church.
Sold by Harry S. Lloyd, Emporium

The are a great many people who have slight attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia nearly all the time. Their food may satisfy the appetite but it fails to nourish. The body simply because the stomach is not in fit condition to do the work it is supposed to do. It can't digest the food you eat. The stomach should be given help. You ought take something that will do the work your stomach can't do. Kodol for Indigestion and Dyspepsia a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids, digests the food itself and gives strength and health to the stomach. Pleasant to take. Sold by R. C. A Paper's "Tooth" is the trade name, which is used to indicate the slight roughness of the surface, which to some extent retards the sliding of the pen upon the page.

On paper that is too smooth the pen runs away, and the writing surface is not satisfactory.

Eaton's Highland Linen

has just the right amount of "tooth." The pen glides easily but not too rapidly. Many styles of hand-writing appear to best advantage on this paper.
