The Fair.

The county fair held last week at Keystone Park was fairly well attended considering the disagreeable weather, as it rained the first three days and a large number of our people were kept from attending. The fair was a success as to exhibits in the line of horses and cattle, poultry, fancy articles, vegetables, etc. The vegetables were not so numerous as on other exhibitions but as to appearance they were as nice a lot of exhibits as could be found anywhere, and for an off year, as is claimed, they were as good as any we have ever seen.

Mrs. T. F. Moore carried off the first prize in the spelling contest—a trip to Jamestown Exposition.

On Wednesday afternoon the High School base ball team defeated the St. Marys High School team 15 to 3.

On Thursday afternoon the Emporium first team defeated the Renovo nine 7 to 6. The game was a "kick" from beginning to end, only five innings being played on account of darkness.

The game on Friday afternoon with Ridgway was a pitchers battle between Hemphill and the Ridgway pitcher. Emporium won by the score of 2 to 1.

Teachers' Institute.

The forty-first Annual Teacher's Institute will convene in Emporium, October 21st to Oct. 25, 1907. The best instructors available have been secured. Schmuoker, "Chauntauque's favorite" and also a favorite in Cameron county, will spend the week with us. Prof. H. F. Stauffer, Superintendent of the Millville, New Jersey schools, who for ten years was Principal of Emporium Schools, will be one of the instructors at the Institute. Prof. Stauffer's many warm friends will gladly welcome him back to Cameron county.

The evening entertainments have been selected with the greatest care and can not fail to please the public.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c per bottle. Tree Planting and Forest Preservation in Pennsylvania.

Reforestation on a commercial scale and economic purposes is receiving much attention now in Pennsylvania and many individuals and large corporations realize the seriousness of the future timber supply question and have begun extensive planting operations.

The H. C. Frick Coke Company's recent plantings on its holdings, principally in the Connellsville coke region, amount to 60,000 trees, consisting of the red oak, catalpa, chestnut, and European larch. Forest planting operations of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Pennsylvania have been under way for some time and this year the company set out 791,000 trees to supplement its former plantings. Other corporations which have also begun planting on a large scale are the Westmoreland Coal Company of Irwin, which has lately completed the planting of 50,000 trees and the Keystone Coal and Coke Company which has planted 25,000 trees.

The Johnstown Water Company has carried out a series of plantings for improving and increasing the municipal water supply for Johnstown. Some of the region from which the water comes consisted of old farm lands, the drainage from which was not conducive to the best health conditions. The farms have been bought and planted with chestnut, Scotch pine, white pine, and red oak.

Other large companies and corporations in Pennsylvania are considering planting and some of them have already taken up the work. Among these corporations which have made plans for reforestation on an extensive scale is the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company which will plant on tracts aggregating between 9,000 and 10,000 acres in Carbon and Schuylkill counties. This work is to be done for the protection of the company's water supply and the production of timber for mine props, boat poles and other uses.

Prominent among the individuals who have begun the reforestation of considerable areas of land is Richard Knight, New York who will plant over 700 acres in Northeast Pennsylvania. Mr. Knight already has a fine planting station in operation and will use about 1,000,000 trees in reforesting his tract. The Forest Service, in accordance with its policy of assisting States, corporations, and individuals in tree planting and forest management, has prepared planting plans for a number of companies in Pennsylvania. These plans include an examination of the land, study of the soil and drainage, recommendations of the best kinds of trees to plant, and suggestions for their cultivation and care.

The trees which have been found adapted to the best growth in Pennsylvania are Scotch pine, European larch, chestnut, red oak, Norway spruce and white pine. Experiments have also been made with catalpa and the short-leaf pine will also be tested out in some of the planting operations.

The State of Pennsylvania has recognized the necessity of preserving its remaining timber tracts, and of replanting denuded areas, and it has put in operation a forest policy which includes the purchase of large bodies of land, fire protection, a forestry school, and extensive reforestation.

Many of the railroad and mining companies own land in large tracts, from which the timber has been cut or burned, and they have undertaken to grow trees there again, by planting or protecting the young growth which springs up naturally. They are providing for the needs of future years when the pinch of scarcity shall be felt even more severely than at this time.

The sudden and disastrous floods of recent years, in central and western Pennsylvania, have been attributed to the removal of the wooden cover from the mountain slopes which formerly stored and held back the excessive storm water, permitting it to flow off gradually. A restoration of this forest cover is one of the purposes held constantly in view. The welfare of the people of the State demands it, and it is of almost equally vital importance the cities and farming country along the lower valleys beyond the Pennsylvania line when periodic floods of great severity follow extensive rains or the sudden melting of snow.

Stole a Gun.

Last Thursday while W. L. Thomas' family were absent from their home on Whittemore Hill, some one entered the house and stole Jackson Thomas' gun. Watterson's Warning Against "Isms."

An Eloquent and Able Speech.

Colonel Henry Watterson made a speech at the opening of the Bluegrass Fair in Lexington in which he warned the people of his State against the intrusion of certain "isms," and counseled them to live without hypocrisy by adhering to the standard of morals of Old Kentucky.

WARNING AGAINST "ISMS."

"I protest against that religion which sands the sugar and waters the milk before it goes to its prayers. I protest against that morality which poses as a saint in public to do as it pleases in private. As the old woman said of the old man's swearing, if there's anything I do hybominate it is hypocrisy. In my opinion these things which threaten Kentucky are not the gentlemanly vices of the race course and the sideboard, but perfidy and phariseism in public and in private life.

"The men who made the Bluegrass famous, who put the brand of glory upon its women, its horses and its vintage, were not ashamed to take a drink nor to lay a wager, though they paid their losses and understood where to draw the line. They marked the distinction between moderation and temperance. They did not need to be told what honor is. They believed, as I believe, that there is such a thing as pretending to more virtue than honest mortals can hope to attain.

"I warn our people against the intrusion of certain 'isms' which describe themselves as 'progress,' and muster under the standard of what they call 'God and Morality,' but which, fifty years ago, went by a very different name; 'isms' which take their spirit from Cotton Mather, not from Jesus Christ; 'isms' which, where they cannot rule, would burn at the stake, 'isms' which embrace the sum of all fanaticism and intolerance, proposing that, instead of the rich, red blood of Virginia, ice water shall flow through the veins of the people; 'isms' which, in one word, would blot Kentucky out of the galaxy of stars and recreate her in the dread image of Maine and Kansas.

NO ANGELS BY LEGISLATION

"I refuse to yield to these. Holding the ministry in reverence as spiritual advisers, rejecting them, as emissaries of temporal power, I do not intend, if I can help it, to be compelled to accept a rule of modern clericalism, which, if it could have its bent and sway, would revive for us the priest-ridden systems of the Middle Ages. I do not care to live in a world that is too good to be genial; too ascetic to be honest; too proscriptive to be happy. I do not believe that men can be legislated into angels, even red-nosed angels.

"The blue laws of New England, dead letters for the most part, did more harm to the people, while they lasted, than all agencies united. I would leave them in the cold storage to which the execration of some and the neglect of all consigned them long ago, not embalm and import them to Kentucky to poison the meat and drink and character of the people. I shall leave my home life, my professional career and my familiar associates to say whether I do not place, and have not always placed, the integrity of man, the purity of woman and the sanctity of religion above all earthly things; but I hope never to grow too old to make merry with my friends and forget for a little that I am no longer one and twenty! When the time arrives for me to go to my account, I mean to go shouting; to go with my flag flying, and as I never have lied to the people of Kentucky, please God I never shall, I have told them a great many unpalatable things.

FOR OLD KENTUCKY.

"I have met their disapproval full in the face. I have lived to see most of my admonitions against this, that and the other vain hope vindicated by events. I want to live yet a little longer still to tell the truth and shame the devil, but if obscurity and adversity and neglect shall overtake me will be a comfort even in the valley of the shadow of death that from first to last I fought not for the speckled gospels of the short-haired women and the long-naired men of Babylon, but for the simple manhood and lovely womanhood of old Kentucky—never New Kentucky, but always and forever, Old Kentucky—your birthright and mine."

Beautiful Church Wedding.

One of the most beautiful church weddings ever celebrated in Emporium took place at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, at eight o'clock last evening, when Mr. Edwin Mead Floyd, of Olean, was wedded to Miss Jane Kaye, second daughter of our esteemed citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kaye. Promptly at eight o'clock the bridal party arrived at the church, when the strains of Lohengren's Wedding March, (Mrs. W. H. Howard presiding at the pipe organ) was notice for the approach of the party. The groom assisted by his best man, Mr. Geo. Amsden, of Buffalo took their places in the chancel, when the procession, headed of Miss Florence Floyd, Maid of Honor; Miss Hazel M. Floyd and Miss Marie Garvin, Bride's Maids; Miss Sara Kaye, Miss Christie Edwards and Miss Helen Housler, Flower Girls; bride leaning upon the arm of her father approached the altar and took their places before Rector Robertson when the beautiful Episcopal ceremony was celebrated in apple pie order.

The bride was elaborately gowned in Duchesne Satin, trimmed with baby Irish lace, wearing a long veil and carried a bouquet of white roses; the groom and best man wore the conventional evening suits; the Maid of Honor, sister of Groom, wore a beautiful gown of crepe de chene trimmed with baby Irish lace; the bride's maids, three handsome young ladies, wore pink chiffon voile, trimmed with Irish lace; the ushers, Messrs. Charles, Elmer Kaye, and John T. Howard were conventionally attired and very creditably filled the position; the flower girls, looked just as sweet as they are, dressed in pure white and lace. All looked lovely and the bride "was just to sweet for anything" and stood the ordeal admirably. It was certainly a handsome wedding and we regret the lateness of the hour prevents a more elaborate account at our hands. The bride is an energetic lady and will make a helpmate to the excellent husband of her choice, who is connected with the Novelty Incandescent Lamp Co., of this place, coming to Emporium from Olean, where his respected parents reside.

A reception was held at the handsome residence of the bride's parents on Sixth street; from nine to eleven o'clock, when an elaborate course dinner was served the invited guests under the direction of Mrs. Kaye, ably assisted by Mrs. Wm. Robinson, caterer. The palatial residence, large, handsome and handsomely furnished added to the important function.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd left on midnight Flyer for eastern cities to be absent until Oct. 12th, after which they will be at home on Sixth street.

The presents were numerous, handsome and costly.

The following guests were present from out of town: Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Floyd and the Misses Floyd, Olean, N. Y.; Mrs. J. Howard Kaye, Pilschuck, Wash.; Mrs. Wm. Howard, Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. Walker Haffley, Renovo; Wm. Tell, St. Marys.

Hughes—Cumming.

A very quiet wedding took place at half after two this afternoon when Miss Perdita Cumming became the bride of Mr. Charles Hughes. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fred E. Walton of the Westminster church at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Cumming, 17 Davenport street. Only the immediate family witnessed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Elizabeth Hughes, sister of the groom of Emporium, Pa., and the best man was Mr. Glen March, of this city. The bride was prettily gowned in lavender taffeta with trimmings of duchess applique lace and her attendant was gowned in white albatross.

After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served. Covers were laid for six. The table was attractively decorated with lavender asters and sweet peas and the same flowers were tastefully arranged throughout the house. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes left on a late afternoon train for a wedding journey to New York and other points. They will be gone two weeks and on their return will make their home in this city.—Hornell, N. Y., Tribune, Sept. 18.

DEATH'S DOINGS

GRIFFITH.

Robert Lloyd Griffith, the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Griffith, who has been seriously ill for the past few weeks, passed away at the home of his parents at Hicks Run, Dr. Merrill, of Hicks Run, and Dr. Mook, of Medix Run, carefully attended the little fellow, but all their efforts were in vain. After a short and impressive sermon the little treasure was laid in the Hicks Run Cemetery.

RICHARDSON.

Frank E. Richardson, of Driftwood, died on Saturday last, aged 58 years. His remains were taken to Union City, his former home, for burial, last Tuesday. Mr. Richardson, a pleasant gentleman, kind father, husband and citizen, was employed for years as engineer on Low Grade R. R. We regret his death and extend our sympathy to the bereaved family.

LEWIS.

We regret to announce the death of our old friend, Thomas M. Lewis, postmaster at Sterling Run, which took place last Sunday. He was 68 years old. His funeral was held on Tuesday.

SIMPSON.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. C. E. Simpson, at Eldred, Sept. 18th, in her 59th year. Deceased resided here many years and was highly respected.

The Barrel and the Keg.

The way to make a barrel of money, according to The Louisville Courier-Journal, is to spend a keg in advertising. The recipe is infallible, provided the keg is spent judiciously. But just as some millionaires with little knowledge of art have been known to invest vast sums in collections of paintings which turned out to be mere rubbish, so it is possible for ill-advised seekers for publicity to load up with gold bricks. The exploiter of merchandise who doesn't know how himself must enlist the aid of the expert.

Enter "The Toymakers."

"There are strange things in Toy-shops" was the wise and witty saying of the olden time and Charles Felton Pidgin has brought out once more the force of the adage in his new and wonderfully comic opera of "The Toymakers," a musical presentation of his book under the same title and for whose merry and always melodious score the well-known Boston composers, Charles D. Blake and John A. Bennett, are sponsors. At Emporium Opera House, Friday evening, Nov. 1.
