The Kaiser's Christmas.

ROBABLY no European court gives Christmas presents on so extended a scale as the kaiser's Every one gives presents to ev-one else, and for weeks before Christmas secret inquiries are made about the most suitable gifts to bestow. The empress and her seven chilmysteriously dash about Berlin and Potsdam, visiting jewelers, toy-shops and other establishments where something new or striking is to be had, and they hold a levee every morning of tradesmen whom they have no time

The kaiser does no shopping himself, but he is the greatest Christmas box giver of all, and his presents in every case exactly fit the desires of the happy recipient. Early in December he makes a list of the persons to whom he intends making presents. His wife heads the list, and at the foot is usual-ly some old pensioner or invalided housekeeper who has served the Hohenzollerns for half a century.

Soon before Christmas the royal mint sends the kaiser a bag of bright, new gold twenty and ten mark pieces and another of silver five mark pieces. His majesty fills his pockets when he goes walking in the parks at Potsdam, and the little children and old men and women who are fortunate enough to meet him or soldiers standing sentry stamping in the snow, are certain of a gift, accompanied not infrequently by

The kaiser's best side is seen at Christmas. There is a story current that once near the palace of Sans Souci the kaiser came upon a half frozen sentinel with very red nose and eyes. The sentinel, with stiff fingers, brought his rifle to the salute.

"Cold day," said his majesty. The sentinel did not reply, but his teeth chattered.

"How long have you been on duty?" asked the kaiser. Still no reply.
"Stupid!" said his majesty. "Why don't you speak when I address you?"

The sentinel moved his jaws and lips but no word escaped. The kaiser burst out laughing and, turning to his adjutant, said:
"Take this chap into the palace, put

"Take this chap into the palace, put-him before a fire, thaw him out, par-ticularly his jaws, see he gets a big hot drink and a big feed, and, here," turning to the sentry, "take this and drink my health and the empress!"

The soldier found value at last. He The soldier found voice at last. He bellowed out the one word "Majes The empress is always practical with her gifts. Every year her majesty grows more popular among the best elements of the people. Her unassuming ways, entire freedom from hauteur ways, entire freedom from hauteur, consideration for servants and kindly interest in the welfare of the poor and helpless endear her in ever widening circles of Germans. She is fond of presenting ladies with costly lace.

The young princes, headed by the crown prince, show little discrimina-tion in their gifts—scarfpins, rings, dogs, clgarette cases, matchboxes, and so on, being their staple gifts, varied sometimes by a book, a pleture or a statuette. Victoria Louise's gifts of dolls to her friends are numerous. To favored friends she does not mind pre-senting kitchen ranges and furnished dolls' houses. She is in close association with the matrons' and soldiers' orphanages at Potsdam, and the number of little girls who receive her gifts is enormous. Stores of oranges and honey cakes are collected by her for distribution on Christmas eve.—New York World.

An Old Christmas Custom.

A century or two ago there was a custom in Germany for all the parents in a town or village to send the presents they designed for their children to one chosen individual, who called at each house clad in a motley robe, a mask and a huge flaxen wig. Knocking on the door, he called in a loud voice for all the good children to appear and receive the gifts which the Christ Child, the Christ-Kindlein, had sent them. This was the primeval Kriss Kringle. Coleridge describes this custom and records that the bad little children had a rod left for their correction.-Brooklyn Citizen.

Christmas In Cactus Center.

WOMEN'S scarce in Cactus Center, and there ain't no bar-gain stores to start them Monday rushes that break down the stoutest doors, But we had some Christmas shoppin that the town ain't over yet, Jest because of one small woman and a drug store toilet set.

She was Cactus Center's teacher, and

She was Cactus Center's teacher, and she hadn't left the stage
'Fore she had the boys plum locced, and I don't bar youth nor age.
She was cute and smart and pretty, and she might 'a' been here yet If it hadn't been for Dawson and his drug store toilet set.

It was old and scratched and speckled, fer 'twas in his case fer years, But old Dawson, sharp and clever, put a whisper in our ears-

Lowed he'd sell that set at auction, an he says, "Now, boys, you bet This'll make a hit with teacherhere swell new toilet set."

IT WAS THEN BEGUN THE SHOOTIN'. Well, the biddin' started lively, and it got to gittin' hot, Fer every mind in Cactus on that sin-gle thing was sot. Purty soon I'd staked my saddle, worth two hundred dollars net,

Just to own fer one short second that blamed drug store toilet set.

It was then begun the shootin', no one seems to know jest how, And 'twas lack of ammernition that at last broke up the row,

Undertaking And thirteen of us was hurted, but the worst blow that we met
Was in findin' that some bullets had gone through that toilet set.

But we plugged the punctures in it, and we plugged the wounded, too,
And agreed we'd arbitrate it, and the bunch 'd see it through,
So we sent a gift committee, but they came back sorer yet, Fer the teacher 'd fluttered eastward, so we have that toilet set.

CHRISTMAS NEAR THE POLE.

Where Seal Meat and Whale's Blubber

Take Turkey's Place.

"I think Christmas, 1883, was my most memorable one," said General Greely, the artic explorer. "With my command I was proceeding southward in the hope of obtaining help, and about the 20th of October we ensconced ourselves in a little hut at Cane Sabine. Our supply of food was Cape Sabine. Our supply of food was running very low, and we were on very short rations, every one being allowed just food enough in each twenty-four hours to sustain life. Under amid the awful silence of the polar night the cheerfulness that we continued to maintain was remarkable.

"Christmas day came at last-Christmas in the arctic regions! At 6 o'clock we had our breakfast—thin soup made of peas, carrots, blubber and potatoes. Our Christmas dinner was served at 1 o'clock—first course, a stew of seal meat, onions, blubber, potatoes and breadcrumbs; second course, served one hour after first, a stew of raisins, blubber and milk; dessert, a cup of hot chocolate. One of our party had some tobacco still left, and he very kindly made a cigarette for each one in our little party.

"I will wager that in all Christen-dom that day not another present was given or received that gave such in-tense delight to the recipients as did those little rolls of tobacco and paper. They were quickly aflame and being puffed away at for dear life, and thus Christmas near the north pole-ended in smoke."-Pittsburg Dispatch.

In a letter to the employees of the Bourne mills of Fall River, Mass., announcing the regular profit sharing div idend on Dec. 24 last, Treasurer George A. Chase said: "The board of directors has unanimously authorized me to an nounce to you the experiment of a vacation week in August, 1907. The mills will close Aug. 24 and reopen Sept. 3, thus allowing you ten days of rest and recreation. In lieu of regular pay you will get an extra dividend on your wages, payable just before the vacation, to the amount of 50 per cent of the average weekly wages." This promise was faithfully kept.
