When D. W. Eastman called the roll at the mill the morning after Christmas it was found that sawyer E. D. Parks was absent. However a telegram was received from Coudersport announcing a visit from the stork at his home leaving a beautiful ten pound daughter as a Christmas gift. We are not surprised to hear this pleasing bit of news as he has always agreed with President Roosevelt on the race suicide question. Friday Mr. Eastman received a letter from the happy father saying that all concerned were doing well, and also the following verses were enclosed expressing the proud father's happiness. With his permission we will submit them to our readers, with apologies to Henyard Kipling and Honest Abe:

The cynics and the pessimists must now take a back seat,
The growlers and the grumblers are forced to say they're best,
No more will I, their tales believe,
With pleasure, my brain whirrs,
For I'm the happy father of a bouncing baby girl.
The monkey panic or hard times, my feelings cannot change,
In truly thankful for the way the good stork has arranged:
My cup of joy is brimming full,
What more could mortal ask,
I feel that I have double strength to do my daily tasks.
Potter county beats the world and Coudersport is fine,
We're all against race suicide, with "Teddy" we're in line;
With my violin, my wife and girl,
I'm happy as a lark.
Three cheers for Teddy Roosevelt, long live the name of Parks.
