Kidney Diseases are too Dangerous for Emporium People to Neglect.

Every move I made caused me severe pain. I was unable to rest at night and in the morning would be worn out and tired. My kidneys were very active and the secretions caused me much annoyance and embarrasement. I used many remedies but was unable to obtain relief until a friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. Prof. H. A. Howell, of Havana, Cuba, Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value antil now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3d our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was neces sary to have him in the arms every moficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now three days later he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by L.

A Lesson in Grammar.

In a certain mountainous region the teachers are appointed with little question concerning their grammatica orthodoxy. Occasio ally, however, a wave of school referm sweeps through the valleys, and unlesired examinations are thrust upon embarrassed pedagogues.

It was during one of these periods of intellectual discomfort that the follow ing sentence was given; "The bird flew over the house." Accompanying it was the query, "Is 'flew' a regular or an irregular verb?"

One teacher after another shook his head hopelessly despite the slow, thought inspiring fashion in which the examiner repeated the perplexing fact that "The - bird - flew - over - the -

Finally a man rose in the rear, and, with the assurance of one who puts his trust in logic and a practical knowledge of natural history, he volunteered a solution. Said he:

"If that bird which flew over the house was a wild goose, it went in ${\boldsymbol a}$ straight, regular line, so the verb is regular. But if it was a peckwood that flew over the house, then it went in a crooked, zigzag line, and so the verb is irregular."

All but the grammar bound examiner were satisfied with this sensible and rational explanation. - Youth's Artistic Slips.

It is a frequent matter of lamenta-tion on the part of artists that one of their number may spend genius and time on a piece of work, only to fail conspicuously in small detail.

There is a story that one Royal academician gave a hand five fingers and a thumb and that another painted a live lobster bright red.

The clever Goodall had been engaged in painting a number of laborers dragging a huge stone across the desert when a man of science entering the studio said to him: "I say, Goodall, if you want those fellows to pull that stone you must double their number. It would require just twice as many for the task."

But it is not modern painters alone who slip up on points of accuracy Even Albrecht Durer in a scene repre senting Peter denying Christ painted one of the Roman soldiers in the act of smoking. Turner put a rainbow beside the sun, and in another picture he got fearfully tangled in the ship's rigging.-Chicago Record-Herald.

Fixing a Photografter.

Senator Stone of Missouri once made himself unpopular with a certain photographer. The latter individual appeared at the senator's room at the capitol and announced that he was there to take a picture. Stone expostulated, but in vain. A few days later the photographer again appeared and presented the pictures and also a bill for $10. Remembering how hopeless was his argument against having the would be still more useless for him to decline to pay for them. So he wrote a the check he wrote the word "Photografter."

When the man presented the check at the senate disbursing office for payment, he was required to indorse the check and write after his name, just as it was written on the face of the check, the word "Photo-grafter."-St Louis Republic.

A Limit to His Power.

A curious historical anecdote is handed down from the time of James I. James, being in want of £20,000, ap plied to the corporation for a loan. The corporation refused. The king insist ed. "But, sire, you cannot compel us," said the lord mayor. "No," exclaimed James, "but I'll ruin you and the city forever. I'll remove my courts of law, my court itself and my parliament to Winchester or to Oxford and make a desert of Westminster, and then think what will become of you!"
"May it please your majesty," replied wherever you please; but, sire, there will always be one consolation to the merchants of London-your majesty cannot take the Thames along with

Will it be Knox? Washington, March 2--"The little town of Brownsville in my state has produced two of the country's great statesmen," remarked Congressman E. F. Acheson, of the Twenty-Fourth, Pennsylvania district, to-day. "I refer to James G. Blaine and Senator Philander C. Knox," he continued. Blaine spent his boyhood days at Brownsville, attended Washington and Jefferson College and after his graduation went to the lord mayor, "you are at liberty to remove yourself and your courts to in Kentucky, he wrote a series of letters on the slavery question, which were printed in a Washington, Pennsylvania, newspaper. Some of his observations regarding slavery and its political effects were prophetic. Although he was bling to witness the execution of a living in another state at the time criminal. "Who is he?" asked the of his great public service, Pennliving in another state at the time sylvania always claimed him as her own and he was the idol of our people. Senator Knox also spent his boyhood days at Brownsville. He worked in a bank and earned the money to pay his expenses at college. He attended Mount Union college at Alliance, Ohio, graduating from that institution in 1872. Now the people of Pennsylvania are demanding his election to the presidency as they formerly demanded the election of Mr. Blaine. In our state one hears no talk of a second choice. We are for Senator Knox and we believe he will be nominated and elected. Where can the country find a man who will carry out President Roosevelt's policies with so much vigor and ability as Senator Knox? Will he win? There is not the slightest doubt of it. Senator Knox is involved in no factional differences and there is absolutely no reason why any man who believes in the Roosevelt policies should not support him with enthusiasm. His candidacy is receiving support in all sections of the country and the following he will have in the Chicago convention will prove surprising to the other candidates.
