Miss the Easy Road.

Two young exponents of the strenuous life on Broadway were sitting in a hotel lobby the other evening discuss ing their plans for making some "big money" in the future. One of them confessed that his salary was "only $45 a week," and he was having a hard time of it in keeping the wolf from the door. Sitting near them was an old gentleman who overheard their conversation and was evidently interested.

"You fellows are making the mistake of your lives," the old gentleman said at last. "You are chasing the will o' the wisp while you have the means of wealth within your grasp. Why, I'm considered pretty well off financially, as you both know, and I never received a salary of $45 a week in my life. But I saved money when I was your age, and I found opportunities for investment that soon put me out of the salary class and made me a business man on my own account. The trouble with young fellows nowadays is that they can't see the opportunities that are given them. They have their eyes glued to the get-rich-quick idea so tightly that they pass by the only sure route to wealth."—New York Globe.

Handwriting.

As a rule, clear handwriting is more common with persons who do not write for a living than with those who do. Authors, for example, are creating something when they write; their mind is concentrated on this creative work; their thoughts are generally ahead of their hand, sometimes a whole sentence, and they hurry to keep pace with them. The result is bad hand-writing, but handwriting with individuality in it, if not character. There is a theory that plain writing is most easily forged. This is not true. Obscure signatures are most easily forged and the so called freak signatures, which nobody can read, easiest of all. The best signature and the safest for a man who signs checks is neither too prim nor too involved; just plain, everyday writing, done in the easiest way, according to his temperament. Such a signature expresses as much character as any handwriting can, but it doesn't tell us a thing about the man's moral makeup; not a thing.— Boston Globe.

Wanted His Dues.

A reservation Indian was disconsolate over the breaking of his ax handle. He laid his misfortune before the "farmer" of the reservation, who, through pity, took a new handle from his private stock and adjusted it to the The farmer then noticed that the ax was shockingly dull. So, motioning the owner to turn the grindstone, he expended a half hour's time in sharp-ening the blade. When the rehabilitated ax was given to the Indian he was childishly gleeful, but still lingered about, indicating by his actions that some feature of the transaction had not

There was a hopeful gleam in the eyes of the young man with a slightly retreating chin as he approached the father of his ladylove.

"Will you give your daughter to me in marriage, sir?" he asked in as firm a tone as he could muster. "I'm afraid you are not well enough acquainted with her, young man," remarked the father. "Why, I've seen her twice a week for nearly a year," said the astonished suitor.

"That may all be," said the parent, "but if you knew much about her character you'd have said, 'Will you give me to your daughter in marriage?"

A Poet's Slip. A correspondent of London Notes and Queries has "caught out" Mr. Kipling in an extraordinary blunder. He finds in an extraordinary blunder. He finds it in the "Last Chantey" in these lines: Then said the souls of the slaves that men threw overboard: "Kenneled in the plearoon a weary band were we, But thy arm was strong to save, And it touched us on the wave, And we drowsed the long tides idle till thy trumpots tore the sea."

"Of course," says the commentator, "the word Kipling meant to use was barracoon, the technical term for a slave pen. Picaroon means a rogue."

slave pen. Picaroon means a rogue."

Catching a Cobra.

A driver on the Avontuur railway,
South Africa, while staying at the Gamtoos caught a large cobra de pello alive. The cool way in which he did the trick, says a local paper, sent a cold shiver through every one who saw it. He simply caught hold of the point of its tail, gave it a sudden jerk toward him and caught it by the back of the head. He then placed it in a biscuit The snake was three inches in diameter and about four feet long.

Facts Versus Terms.

"I've a terrible toothache. What's good for it?" "Nonsense! You've no toothache. It's simply imagination."
"Well, confound it, what's good for imagination?"-Boston Transcript Horrible Suspicion.

Her Father (to young man who had asked for his daughter)—That's a very serious proposition. Can you support a family? Her Suitor—Great Scott! You haven't lost your job, have you?"-Philadelphia Ledger.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, April 25, 1908. In spiie of the vigorous protests of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association against the inaction in the House of legislation looking to the free listing of wood pulp and print paper, no such action will be taken at this session of Congress. Speaker Cannon is master of the situation and has successfully obstructed all legislation on this subject by the appointment of a special committee, "to make a full investigation touching the alleged combination of the manufactures of print

Although President Roosevelt failed to realize his heart's desire in obtain. ing four battleships, he won a victory in the Senate this week when Senator Hale announced a committee amendment to the naval bill making an appropriation, immediately available, of $7,000,000 for the construction of the two battle ships authorized by the bill. The fight for this consession was led by Senator Lodge was clearly intimated to the Senate leaders that the President would veto a bill which merely authorized two ships and made no appropriation therefor. While the bill ships at a cost of $6,000,000 each, it is estimated that not more than the estimated that not more than the $7,-000.000 available can be utilized before the first of next year. If this appropriation has been exausted by that time an additional sum can and will be made available.

There is no little resentment in the Senate over the action of the House in failing to make the necessary appropriation of funds for the construction of the two battleships it authorized, for the torpedo boats, the new submarines and for the submarines already in process of construction, appropriations, for all of which the upper house has been obliged to add. This course of the House is regarded in the Senate as a "grandstand play," enabling it to point to the increase of appropriations made by the Senate and to virtuously cry "extravagance," when, as a matter of fact the increases have been render. ed actually imperative by the House Entire harmony prevails between the Senate steering committee and the leaders of the House over the plans to be adopted for insuring financial legislation at this session of Congress. At the proper time a motion will be made to take the Aldrich bill from the Commitee on Banking and Currency and consider it in committee of the whole. The next motion will be to strike out all after the enacting clause and substitute the Vreeland bill, and finally an amendment creating a currency commission will be added. In this form the measure will be sent back to the Senate and from there it will go to conference. Representative Vreeland has completed practically his poll of the House to ascertain the sentiment toward his financial bill, and says he has found enough favoring the measure to pass it. The expectation is that the commission provided for will consist of five members from each house.

THE FORTY BEACHES OF NEW JERSEY

The one hundred and twenty-five odd miles along the New Jersey coast line from Long Branch to Cape May presents the greatest pleasuring section in the United

Upon the bluffs of the northern end and the gently shelving sands of the southern end are located forty resorts which entertain during the spring and summer season millions of pleasure seekers.

At no time in the year is this section more delightful than during the spring and early summer months. One who has not seen them at this season would marvel at their delights. The great pine belt, which extends through the center of New Jersey, fills the air with lifegiving ozone, which combined with the salty tang of the sea and the open air exercise possible at all times, is exhilarating and tonic to the highest degree.

Long Branch, with its beautiful cottage-neighbors, West End, Hollywood, and Elberon; Deal and Allenhurst, largely devoted to cottage life; Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, attracting thousands yearly; Avon, Belmar, Como, Spring Lake, and Sea Girt, are a galaxy of attractive places upon the bluffs where "the country meets the sea."

Then the Barnegat Bay section, where Point Pleasant, Sea Side Park, Island Heights, Barnegat City, and Beach Haven, with other smaller places nearby, welcome the summer sojourner.

Atlantic City, with its seven miles of beach and drives, and its charming suburbs, leads the island resorts, separated from the main land by the great salt marshes.

Ocean City, Sea Isle City, Avalon, and Stone Harbor; Anglesea, Wildwood, Holly Beach, and Wildwood

Crest also have a large summer population.

And Cape May, with its new million dollar hotel and its wonderful improvements makes a fitting climax and holds a high place among the forty beaches.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is the direct route to all of these resorts from all sections of the country. Its splendid train service makes each of them neighbor to all the rest and to the world at large. 241-10-2t.
