WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, May 16, 1908.

Congress is making rapid progress toward adjournment and everything now points to a conclusion of the session on May 23. The House has passed the Vreeland financial bill and the Senate has substituted therefor a modified form of the Aldrich bill, which is believed to be of far greater merit. Both houses have appointed their conferees and the measure which will be finally enacted, if any is passed, will be framed by them. In order to secure favorable action on the Vreeland bill the House had to repudiate its Banking and Currency committee and the Fowler-ites, as they have come to be called, are in blind rage. There is an old saying that, "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad," and the members of the House have paraphrased it to read, "Whom the Speaker would destroy he first appoints to the Banking and Currency committee."

Of the thirteen great supply bills of the government, all but two have passed both houses. The calendars of the two houses are practically clear and House committees have finally acted on two measures which the President regards as of the utmost importance. One legally creates the Inland Waterways Commission, provides a salary for its secretary and quarters for its offices, and the other makes the government liable to its employees engaged in hazardous labor for injuries incurred in the service. Any such so injured shall receive a year's pay, should he remain unable to work for so long, and should he die, his heirs pay shall go to his family.

All hope of anti-injunction legislation has been abandoned at this session because of the extravagant demands of the labor union leaders. The President favored a moderate bill and there were able members of both houses who were prepared to carry his recommendations into effect, but the labor leaders were so insistent in their demands for legislation which neither the Chief Executive nor his supporters in Congress could conscientiously advocate, that Mr. Roosevelt has advised them to let the entire matter drop.

would prove an ideal boom while the work lasted.

We might suggest a street car line. This is quite badly needed and would be very beneficial as well as an improvement, adding to the looks and welfare of Emporium. I could go on for pages on the booming of our little town. The thoughts crowd in upon me faster than I can put them down. However, Emporium will be just what we make it. If we make an effort we can succeed in making of the little Metropolis, one of the thriftiest little towns in the state. It is up to the populace. Let us be up and doing.

MARCELLA QUINN.

How to Boom Emporium.

There is much to be said on this subject so vitally interesting to all good citizens of the town. Much that might be suggested is impracticable, and still more is not only practical, but necessary to the growth of the town.

Cameron county has vast undeveloped natural resources at her command. Her mountains, though now denuded of their forests, carry in their bosoms, not only the coal and gas already in use, but also, sand glass, clay for building and fire brick and petroleum.

Very few people realize the beauty of our mountain scenery. A summer resort built near the end of the road generally spoken of as the "new road" would be a material aid in building up the fortunes of the town. One obtains the most beautiful views of the town and surrounding mountains on a trip up this road. If a traction line could be built connecting this beautiful spot with the Sizerville Mineral Springs and passing through Keystone Park, beautified and kept in order, it would undoubtedly attract large numbers of desirable people. The idea of building a health resort at Sizerville is not a new one, but it is surely a feasible plan.

Then what might not be accomplished by improving the appearance of the town. All the squalid, unpainted wooden structures might be removed to make way for modern business buildings. A Government post office is surely not an impossibility in a town of this size. Then our jail should be more in keeping with the beauty of the court house. We have a just cause for pride in that edifice, with its beautiful lawns and terraces, but what a vast improvement a modern stone jail would make in its appearance. Our public streets in some portion of the town are veritable mud holes all the year round. Much has already been accomplished in this direction, but there is still room for improvement.

Another factor in the prosperity of the town is home trade. So many people buy almost everything they use from mail order houses when they ought to keep the money at home. If everyone could be induced to buy what they need at the local stores, perhaps the high prices, of which they complain, would be reduced.

In the way of manufactures there is an excellent opportunity for a stove factory, which would utilize the product of the iron foundry. There is an almost unlimited supply of glass sand in which might furnish material for a glass plant, and the clay in this vicinity is said to be among the best in the world for the manufacture of building and paving brick. Though little or no coal has been discovered in Emporium, there is said to be a rich deposit at Beechwood, which is not so far away from town that the opening of a mine there would benefit us.

Then the railroads could do a great deal toward improving the town. Even a new station and beautiful grounds at the junction would be a great help. So much depends on a first impression one receives of a place. But more than this might easily be accomplished. The old Emporium and Rich Valley Railroad which once extended to the tracks of the Pittsburg Shawmut and Northern could easily be rebuilt and improved, thus connecting the P. S. & N., with Emporium.

The methods by which the prosperity of the town might be enhanced are almost innumerable, but these few will serve to show what Emporium might be like if her natural resources were developed. Let us hope that sometime in the future, we of the younger generation, for our posterity will behold Emporium as a bustling, thriving and beautiful city.

JEAN L. MACNARNEY.

When you think of indigestion think of Kodol, for it is without doubt the only preparation that completely digests all classes of food. And that is what you need when you have indigestion or stomach trouble—something that will act promptly but thoroughly; something that will get right at the trouble and do the very work itself for the stomach by digesting the food that you eat and that is Kodol. It is pleasant to take. It is sold by R. C. Dodson.
