Spinning on the Common.
That historic bit of ground known to the world as Boston Common has been the background of many a strange and picturesque scene. Surely not one of the varied events which have been acted upon it presents a quainter pic ture than one which took place about 1750. Mr. Francis Drake describes the occurrence in his article in "The Memorial History of Boston" on "Life In Boston In the Provincial Period."

In 1720 an attempt was made in Bos ton to encourage the art of spinning and to establish schools where the process could be taught to the poor. It was recommended that twenty spin-ning wheels should be provided by the town for the use of children sent from the almshouse and a premium allowed of £5 for the first piece of linen spur and woven.

In 1747 a society was organized for the encouragement of the industry, and the fourth anniversary was publicly

"In the afternoon," says an old ac count, "300 young female spinsters, decently dressed, appeared on the com mon with their spinning wheels. The wheels were placed in three rows, a female at each wheel. Weavers also appeared in garments of their own weaving. There was an immense number of spectators."

The Size of Great Men.

The Iron Duke has always been a mystery. I have read that he was six feet four inches tall. I have read also that he was only five feet six inches. Historians tell us he was anywhere from five feet six inches to five feet eleven inches. There are some things seemingly very simple which it is impossible to establish. This is one of them. Historians are still guessing the height of Julius Caesar, the size of Hannibal's head, the weight of Alex ander the Great and the general di-mensions of Solomon. Why, we are not even sure of the stature of George Washington. It might be believed that Napoleon, Alexander the Great and Jay Gould were of the same size, three bumptious little chaps. And it is com-mon belief that Charlemagne, Erling the Bold, Frederick the Great, Robert Bruce, Sir William Wallace, General Winfield Scott and Richard Coeur de Lion were all top notchers, "Old Fuss and Feathers," formed in the prodigality of nature, leading in girth and weight .- New York Press.

"Dis yer day an' time," said Brother Williams, "is too much fer me. Ef dar wuz a Joshua livin' who could make de sun stan' still he do it so he could save on de gas bill, an' ef Jonah wuz livin' now an' a whale didn't have any mo' sense than ter swaller him he'd lan' dat whale high an' dry an' sell him ter de ile trust, an' ef Lot wuz gwine 'long wid his wife an' she wuz turned into a pillar er salt he'd buil' a fence roun' her an' 'lect hisse'f president er a salt trust! Hits de rushin'est, grab all age I ever wuz in. Dey not only rides de lightnin', but dey done staked off de stars, an' dey knows des how many hours a day de fireman in de sun works, an' dey is slick enough ter tie tin cans ter de tails of de comics what go blazin' roun' de sky! We is so wise on our own account dat wisdom itse'f looks foolish. Whar we'll fetch up I dunno. All I does know is dat we gwine fast enough ter make yo' head swim!"-Atlanta Constitution.

A Telephone Opiate.

The elder's wife was seriously ill, and the doctor advised rest and quiet. But the lady was very devoted to church work and worried herself into hysteria because she could not attend services and hear her favorite pastor preach.

"She must not leave the house," warned the doctor, "but you can easily arrange to have her hear the sermon by telephone."

made the necessary arrangements for transmitting the sermon into his wife's

At noon on the Sabbath the doctor called and asked, "How did it work?" declared the elder, rubbi his hands gleefully. "Ten minutes after the sermon began she fell sound asleep."-Philadelphia Ledger.

His Criticism.

Robert Louis Stevenson once took an eccentric acquaintance of his to hear Sir Charles Halle play the piano at St. James' hall, London. Sir Charles was a musician of the most correct and severe British type, though a German by birth. After the concert was over they walked as far as the Marble arch, neither having spoken. Arrived there, the friend stopped and delivered him-self thus: "The manner of the elderly statesman at the plano was somewhat austere and chilling." And then they walked on.

Taking No Chances.

A farmer who took much pride in the looks of his fattening pigs ence purchased a pair from a neighbor. Upon delivery at the usual age of eight weeks they seemed to him rather

Eying them dubiously, he remarked dryly, "Guess I had better keep the cat shut up for a few days."

A Hard Stunt.

Mamma—Good gracious, Georgie!
What is the matter with Freddie
Jones? Is the child having a fit?
Georgie—No, mamma. You know Fred-Georgie—No, mamma. You know Freddie stutters, and we bet he couldn't say "altitudinosity" before Bobbie ran twice around the block.—Puck.

Evelyn—He's a very learned man.
You wouldn't think so, would you?
Natica—Oh, yes! I suspected it at once.
Evelyn—Indeed? Natica—Yes. He makes me so tired!--Illustrated Bits.

No Wonder He Fled.

A tall, solemn looking young man entered the restaurant with a mild. apologetic air and seated himself at a vacant table near the middle of the vacant table hear the middle of the room. It was evident that he dreaded to intrude. He wanted to get as far away from other people as possible. He even blushed painfully when he gave his order, and the most casual observer could have told that he was bashful. Just as his dinner was brought to him a buxom looking woman with seven small children entered the place. The head waiter swept the field with his eye, pounced down upon the table where the young man had sought solitude, motioned to the moth-er, who clucked to the chickens, and a moment later they were all around

That young man's face was a serial story.

Other people entered the restaurant, glanced at the group, smiled signifi-cantly and seated themselves.

"He doesn't look it, does he?" queried a pleasant faced old lady in an audible "She looks at least ten years older than he," murmured a girl at the next

He flew to the hatrack, tossed a half crown to the waiter and tried to go through the door without opening it.—London Telegraph.

A Wasted Opporunity. "Ole Bill" Foote and "Ole Bill" English were political traveling compan ions, and many stories were told of their joint journeying.

The two hardy Democratic campaigners were doing southern California one election time and got into the country at the back door of Los Angeles. One night they reached a farmhouse where they had expected to find lodgings. The farmer had nothing but two armchairs. Foote and English pleaded for beds-cots, trundle beds, anything that looked like a bed. Nothing doing.

The campaigners, like Napoleon or Grant or like Washington at Valley Forge, slept in their chairs.

When the first advance agents of dawn scudded out of the west, the politicians laboriously got out of their chairs and went out for fresh air. They met the old farmer milking the cow with the crumpled horn.

"Do you know, gentlemen," he said blandly and without contrition, "you could have had a bed, after all? I was expecting two Democratic orators here last night and saved the beds for them. but somehow or other they never show-ed up, dang 'em."—San Francisco Call.

The King Had Rights.
Once when Macready was performing at the theater at Mobile, Ala., his manner at rehearsal displeased one of the actors, a native American of pure western type. This Claudius in "Ham let" resolved to "get even" with the star for many supposed offenses, and in this way he carried out his purpose When in the last scene Hamlet stab bed the usurper he reeled forward and after a most spasmodic finish stretch-ed himself out precisely in the place Hamlet required for his own death. Macready, much annoyed, whispered

'Die farther up the stage, sir." The monarch lay insensible, upon which in a still louder voice the Hamlet growled:

"Die farther up the stage, sir." Hereupon the Claudius, sitting up,

"I believe I'm king here, and I'll die where I please. The tragedy concluded without more Broke Up His Speech.

Judge Norton was solemn, stern and dignified to excess. He was also egotistical and sensitive to ridicule. Judge Nelson was a wit and careless of decorum. He did not like Judge Norton. At a bar supper Judge Norton in an elaborate speech, referring to the early ic manner a thunderstorm which one overtook him in riding the circuit. scene was awful, "and," said the judge "I expected every moment the light would strike the tree under which I had taken shelter.

interrupted Nelson, "why in thunder didn't you get under another tree?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Snow Hurricane.

The buran, or snow hurricane of the Pamirs, is a meteorological phenomenon of great interest. Even in mid-summer the temperature during a snow buran frequently falls to 14 de-grees F., while in one winter it dropped to 45 degrees below zero at the end of January. The buran comes with star tling suddenness, the atmosphere grow ing dark with whirling snowflakes where scarcely a minute before the sky was perfectly clear.

One of Life's Little Tragedies. He seized her, drew her to him and deliberately struck her. She made no sound. Again and yet again the brute repeated the blow, and still she gave no sign of suffering, but when, with rapidly growing anger, he struck het for the fourth time she shrieked aloud, and her head flew off. She was only a match.-Bohemian Magazine

Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervous s, headache, constipation, bad breath ness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural julces of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tomic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all atomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach. Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:

"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

Kodol Digests What You Eat. Bottles only. Relieves indigestion, sour stomach, beiching of gas, etc.
