Benton and Barton.

In the "Thirty Years in the United States Senate," by Thomas Hart Benton, Missouri's famous United States senator, there is scant mention of Benton's colleague from Missouri, David Barton. The only place in which his name occurs is where Senator Benton gives the roll call of the senate, and Barton's name of course is therein contained. Benton undertook to punish Barton by ignoring him and thus relegate the first United States senator from Missouri to oblivion. Barton had brought about Benton's election to the senate. Barton was first named by the legislature, and there was a long contention as to the second senatorship. Finally Barton's friendship for Benton brought about Benton's election. Later the two quarreled over the appointment of an Indian agent in the far west and drifted further and further apart. Finally the relations between the two senators became such that they scarcely spoke to one another when they met.—Kansas City Star.

The Injured One.

A gentleman owning a sugar estate in Demerara went out to visit it for the first time. The day after his arrival he stood watching the punts bringing the cane home. A young negro boy who was driving the mules, wishing to increase the speed of them, struck one of them with his whip. The mule promptly responded by launching out with his heels and dealt the boy a kick on the head which stretched him on the ground, where he lay rubbing his woolly pate on the spot where the kick had been received.

"Is he hurt? Is he hurt?" cried the planter in alarm. A full grown negro, hearing the expressions of concern, sprang forward hastily and, raising the mule's heels, shouted out:

"No, boss! That mule him walk tendah fo' a day or two, but him no hurt!"—Chambers' Journal

Keep your Picnic Supplies on a "Picnic Shelf."

They who go a-picnicking must needs consider the question of lunch, and it greatly helps the preparations for a day's jaunt if all the packing material and all the favorite picnic recipes are kept in one place in the kitchen cupboard, just as one keeps an "emergency shelf" for company. When Summer approaches arrange also a "picnic shelf" and the preparing and packing of a lunch will lose all its terrors.

There should be some big sheets of heavy brown paper, one of which, neatly folded, should be put in the bottom of the basket. This is to be the tablecloth. Then there should be a supply of paper napkins, and also a supply of paraffine paper in which to wrap the eatables. If you do not live near a store which sells paraffine paper, save all the linings from your cracker boxes. There should be two inexpensive salt and pepper shakers, a corkscrew for the ginger ale bottles, some drinking glasses or cups and a few knives, forks and spoons.—The July Delinquent.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for pills. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Road Improvement. Calcium Chloride for Dust Prevention on Public Highways.

Much attention is now being devoted to the general subject of road improvement. Among other features that have received careful thought is the desirability of finding an inexpensive means of keeping down the dust on much traveled public highways, park roads, etc., other than by the use of water. Roads sprinkled with water require such treatment daily and often in hot dry weather, to keep them in good condition.

The use of oil on such roads was a marked step in advance; but this has certain disadvantages, among others the cost of application, the offensive odor and the fact that it injures the rubber tires on vehicles, etc., and has an injurious effect upon horses' hoofs.

The use of calcium chloride remedies these difficulties in an efficient and comparatively inexpensive manner. A road sprinkled with calcium chloride will, for a long period, remain damp and hence dustless; because having a strong affinity for moisture, calcium chloride absorbs, during the hours of evening and night, whatever moisture it may have lost during the day.

The suggestion for its use came from Brunner, Mond & Co., of Northwich, Cheshire, England, who operate the Solvay Process there and who induced the Surveyor or Engineer on the Northwich Urban District Council to make a series of carefully conducted experiments. These proving highly successful, the following report was made:

"The effect as a dust-layer is satisfactory. It has been my opinion for a long time that a cheap material which would allow of frequent application was the only one that would be acceptable to the public authorities, considering the present construction of macadamized roadway.

The liquor has the characteristic of absorbing the moisture from the atmosphere, and consequently the evaporation, which is a feature in the use of water, is eliminated, with the result that each night the road surface regains the amount of moisture, thus prolonging the effect of the treatment.

It also has a decided advantage over water when considering of the cost of maintaining and cleansing the roads, to say nothing of the advantage which might be claimed from a "Public Health" point of view."

The advantages in the use of this solution for race tracks, parade grounds, railroad and shop yards and other places where dust rises freely, must at once be apparent.

A 20 per cent. solution (1,200 specific gravity) is made by using 3 lbs. of

"Solvay" 75 per cent. calcium chloride per gallon of solution required; or a heavier solution of say, 40 per cent. could be made and used more sparingly, this, in course of time, becoming diluted to 20 per cent. Calcium chloride can be had for this purpose in several forms, among others, in the three here named:

1st. The 75 per cent. solid in 635-pound iron drums, which is stored at over 50 points in the United States and Canada.

2nd. The 75 per cent. granular in 325 pound wooden barrels, which can be had at about 30 storage points.

3rd. The 40 per cent. solution, in 4500-gallon tank cars, furnished by the shippers without charge and returned free when empty, by the railroad companies, and in 110-gallon iron drums, which are returnable for credit when empty.

The 75 per cent. solid is the cheapest form; the 75 per cent. granular costs a little more, but does not require to be broken up and dissolves more readily; while the 40 per cent. solution is the most convenient for use and, at all points to which the freight rates are not high, is reasonably cheap and on the whole the best especially where large quantities are needed.

Calcium chloride solution is applied with any ordinary watering cart.

A road to which calcium chloride has not previously been applied should be sprinkled thoroughly twice over with this solution an interval one day being allowed to elapse between the first and second treatment.

For the first treatment, a length of 100 yards of road 8 yards wide, that is 800 square yards, will require about 800 gallons of solution, 500 gallons for the first and 300 gallons for the second sprinkling on the next day. For subsequent treatments, one thorough sprinkling will suffice each time, using about 300 gallons of above solution per 800 square yards; this will probably have to be repeated during the ordinary sprinkling season about four times on an average; it is impossible, of course, to give a definite figure, because much depends upon the dryness or otherwise of the season, the quality of the road and the amount and character of the traffic.

The above solution, is highly endorsed by all who have used it. We publish the article by request.
