Shaking off the Dust.

Both Lock Haven and Renovo are buckling down to street paving. Lock Haven has paved a long stretch on Church street, which cost them less than $1.60 per square yard. Renovo have received bids for the paving of two streets, the lowest bid being $1.99 per square yard for paving and 60 cents per lineal foot for curbing. Renovo paving is to be completed by August 28th. The Lock Haven Democrat while speaking of the work already done, pays the "Calder" brick, manu factured by the Penn Vitrified Brick Co., at Cameron, the following tribute: "As a matter of comparison with the contract price, $1.99 per square yard, which Renovo will pay, the paving job on East Church street, this city, which was put down last summer by the city, Brady, making a double play and a under the direction of Superintendent C. F. Keller, cost a fraction less than $1,60 a square yard. Calder brick were used on a concrete foundation and it is conceded by competent authorities that a better job of brick street paving cannot be found anywhere."

Pleasant Trip.

Mr. E. G. Coleman, who retired from active business some years ago, when he sold his holding in the Climax Powder Company, in which he was one of the original incorporators, left on Monday for New Bedford, Mass., accompanied by his son Edwin, who has made his home with his aunt at Olean, N. Y., since the death of his mother. They expect to visit many points of interest, especially Nantucket Island. Mass., Mr. Coleman's native town. Nantucket is situated thirty miles in the ocean. Nantucket Island once contained 10,000 inhabitants but is now reduced to 7,000. It is now purely a summer resort, one of the most popular. The Island is five miles wide and twenty-two long. No doubt the many memories of boyhood days will be in teresting to both.

Advices from all sections of the country unmistakably indicate that prosperity is returning. The resumption of business is gradual, not sudden and conservatism marks every move. which is all the better for ultimate solidity of trade. The reduction of 100,-000 in the number of idle cars in two months is another proof of a revival.

Boys Brigade Camp Near Ridgway, Pa.

July 14, 1908. The boys are all doing splendidly and are apparently having a good time.

Many have never camped out before. and with the exception of a few "quitters" and "grumblers" that are bound certain occasions, their ability to adapt themselves to new conditions inflects great credit on their intelligence and manly qualities.

There has been practically no sickness in camp, the boys are all well and this morning at Roll Call, out of the 112 present, one hundred and twelve reported themselves ready to perform their share of the duties and exercises

The boys are under perfect discipline and there has been no rowdyism what-ever. We have had many visitors in camp and they have all been very enthusiastic in their praise of the young gentlemen who constitute the personnel of the 3rd Battalion, United Boys Brigades of America.

Our cooking is being done at the farm, and, while the variety is possibly not what the boys are used to at home, the quality is excellent and the quantity is now more than sufficient.

The parents at home need have no fear or worry, everything possible is being done for the welfare and comfort of their boys.

On Friday we break camp and the boys will all return home sun-burned and possibly a little dirty, but with apetites that from experience I can truthfully say will require much food to satisfy.

B. TH. BLISS, Major Commanding Camp.

A Distressing Accident.

Miss Blanche Logue, daughter of Mr, and Mrs. Wm. H. Logue, of Huntley, Pa., met with a serious and painful accident while employed at the Lakeside Hotel, at Eaglesmere, Pa., on the morning of July 10th. Miss Logue was working in the laundry department and while putting a table cloth through the mangle rollers, in some way her left hand was caught between the rolls. Her hand was drawn into about an inch above the upper knuckles, and in trying to extricate the hand, tore the skin and a good portion of her fingers crushed. Her right hand was also caught nearly to the middle joints. The machinery was stopped at once but in spite of this the hands were burned considerably. A doctor was at once summoned and ordered her to be taken to the Pniladelphia Hospital which was done at once, Miss Kirk ac-companying her. J. S. Kirk & Son, proprietors of the "Lakeside" are doing all in their power to give the afflicted lady every comfort and we hope for her speedy recovery. Miss Logue is one of Cameron ccunty's most popular young ladies.

"Our Boys' at Camp."

A visit to the camps of Company M of our Boys' Brigade, found their tents pitched on the meadow lands of Money Farm, together with Companies I, L, and K, of Ridgway.

The Money farm lies seven miles west of Ridgway, on Bear Creek, one and a soldier.
Your Loving Father of the most picturesque spots in the valley. On the south side of the field the four companies have their tents so pitched as to form four complete streets, at the head of which you find the tents of the officers, and on the opposite end are situated the mess tables. On the north side the staff is quartered, over which waves "Our Nation's Pride."

All the boys are detailed to do differ ent work, such as guard duty, assist ing in the mess tents, keeping tents in order, etc. At six o'clock in the morning all are aroused by bugle call; at 7:30 breakfast, and the rest of the morning is spent at drills. After the noon day meal, field sports are indulged in At six p. m. all assemble at the call of the bugle for dress parade, in which Company M, was judged by the visitors as the best drilled and making the finest appearance.

The boys are under the careful guidance of Major Bliss of Ridgway and Rev. Robertson, their Chaplain, of this city who see to their needs, as well as to the discipline.

All the boys appeared to be enjoying camp life, and enduring the hardships like brave soldiers, excepting a few "knockers" who deserted the camps before even getting acquainted with "knockers" who deserted the camps before even getting acquainted with the grounds and layout Our future heroes are made of such sturdy lads as those who stuck to the camp.

GOOD ADVICE TO SON.

Emporium Father Writes Manly Letter to His Boy, Who is With the Bear Creek Campers-Wants Him to be Strenuous.

Ridgway Daily Record.
Some of the members of the company from Emporium at the Boys Brigade camp on Bear Creek have complained about the fare. Not being accustomed to camp life, they had expected something different. Probably thought they would have pie for breakfast, dinner and supper, instead of just good plain, substantial food, such as they have been provided with. Consequently they complained to their parents, and some of them either went home, or were sent home. But there is one father in Emporium who didn't want to hear any complaints from his son, and so wrote him the following letter, which is certainly good enough to print, since it has the right ring:

to print, since it has the right ring:

Emporium, Pa., July 11th, 1908.
Dear Joe:—Some of the boys have come back and are making a whole lot of noise about the food and the werk and all sorts of things.

I am told, however, that they were sent home for disobedience and bad conduct in camp
However, that may be, I hope that you will show that you are made of better stuff than that.

You did not go there to feed on roast turkey and be carried around in auto-tions.

Do as you are told and be a gentleman and I will guarantee that things will be all right.

If you don't get all you think you ought to have to eat or have to work more than you think you ought, stand up to it like a man.

Remember that your Urcle Frank ate his breakfast on the morning of July 1st before going into the battle at Santiago, that he ate his next meal on the 5th and that he had to kill a Spaniard to get even that That when volunteer scouts were asked for to penetrate the Spanish lines, he went, although he did not have to, into what was almost certain death.

He did what he found to do and ate what he got without complaining.

He did what he found to do and ate what he got without complaining. What was the result? On the morning of the Sixth his name was read at the head of the army and he was complimented in general orders for conspicuous bravery on the field. His superior officers being all either dead or wounded, he was in command of his company although only a sergeant. When he reached Montauk Point, all the general officers being incapacitahis company although only a sergeant. When he reached Montauk Point, all the general officers being incapacitated for duty, the war department had faith enough in him to leave him in command of the regiment. Congress gave him what in America is the equivalent of the Victoria Cross in England—a congressional medal—Generals Shafter, Grant, Bell, McArthur and Fauston wrote personal letters to the president asking that he be commissioned in the regular army and when the Chinese trouble was on he was sent on a confidential mission to the Mikado.

He stood up like a man and a soldier, and he was recognized beyond any other enlisted man in the Spanish war simply because his superior officers knew he could be depended on to see the thing through, no difference how dangerous, how difficult, or how disagreeable.

Your mother and I expect our boy to be as brave as his uncle and to do his whole duty without complaining, no difference how hard it may be or may appear. I am sure that Mr. Robertson will not see any of you starved or be overworked. Be a man and a soldier.

Friendly Society Pic-Nic.

The Friendly Society of the Presbyterian Church, held its annual pic-nic last Tuesday, at Sizerville, and it was a great success, as there was a lot to eat and plenty of fun. The storm some what dampened things for a while, but the darkness was soon dispelled by the sunshine and a fine game of ball followed, sides being chosen by the Rev. Dr. Johnson and Charles Wiley, which resulted in a victory for Dr. Johnson's nine. The shouting from the grand stand was deafening, as some grand slides were made for the bases. The picnic was attended by about twenty persons and all report a most glorious time.
