Dr. W. H Mitchell, Dentist, Emporium, Pa. Over Vogt's shoe store

Everthing looks good on the Hill for "Willie T.,", but its cold feet for Willie "B" in November. Uncle George Hill

We all will vote for "Willie T, But not a vote for "Willie B."
While "Willie B." may be all right,
There's none but "Willie T." in sight.

Grove Hill solid for Taft. Mrs. Geo. Hill made a business call at Driftwood Saturday.

The supervisors have repaired the hill road in good shape. The road has been so bad that parties passing over it had to carry a plow in the wagon to cut their through. Some used axes and dynamite.

Telegrapher F. G. Hoag has a fine flock of Rhode Island Red chickens of which he is justly proud. He resides on the Isaac Wkoff property and has a fine chance to raise poultry.

Allie Lord, who has a five acre field of cucumbers has been bothered greatly with woodchucks eating the vegetables. Accordingly he set 15 steel traps and caught 25 of the animals in two nights, besides four rattlers who had come to swallow the woodchucks. This account is vouched for by Fred Comley, who helped to set the traps.

Shoemaker Christ has the finest tomato patch in the county, having sold five bushels on July 4th. He has a fine trade here in the cobbling business and is a credit to the community.

Telegraphers Hoag and Krape, while picking berries in Hunts Run Saturday, stepped on a rattlesnake and spilled all their berries in the getaway. Fortunately neither were bitten. Allie Lord killed the snake shortly after. Allie says: Two bravo young men of Cameron went out to

They filled their pails with this fine fruit and felt exceedingly merry; But O! Alas! while coming home, grim fate did overtake, For as they went to jump the fence, they woke a rattlesnake.

The snake did rattle loud and long, the boys

from there did hike,
Frank lost his gold spectacles and Ellery lost his pipe;

The berries flew both east and west, the boys cared not for that, Frank lost off his russet shoes and Ellery lost

So down the road they swiftly flew and Ellery says "by cat,"
I did not think that one old snake could thus crimp up my slats;

And then Frank spoke and you can bet his breath was coming short,
"If I crave berries any more I'll pay ten cents a

Yet Going Downtown In Madeira Is an Exciting Event.

Madeira is populated, yet is one of the quietest as well as one of the most beautiful places in the world. Al-though the roads are paved with round beach stones, there is nothing to remind one of the fact, because, as David G. Fairchild, agricultural explorer of the department of agriculture, ex plains in the National Geographic Magazine, there are no horses or job ing wheels

All vehicles in Madeira are on runners. If you go calling it is in a bullock sledge with canopy top and comfortable seats. If you move a bank a "stone boat," or sledge of poles, and you may have to get forty oxen to pull it. If you are in a villa on the hillside running car and slide down over the

Two strong men, each holding a guide rope, pull your car over a bag of grease to grease the runners and then give you a running shove and jump each on a runner behind as the car shoots down at a breakneck pace over the cobblestones.

The men yell, hens and dogs scam-per, foot passengers cling close to the wall of the narrow street, the runners get hot and fill the air with odor of burning wood as you shoot round sharp corners, down the busy thoroughfare, past gergeous masses of flowering the private villas that border your

But, oh, the change when you get to the bottom! You are obliged either to walk or take a carro, drawn by slow moving bullocks, squeaking and slipping over the stones.

Queer Auctions.

A Dutch auction at Cape Town is frequently exciting. If a house is to be sold, the auctioneer offers "50 golden sovereigns for the man who first bids £5,000." Nobody bids. A pause, and then "50 golden sovereigns for the man who first bids £4,900." This is kept up until a bid is secured. But it by no means follows that the house is sold to this bidder. No, the auctioneer is then at it again. Say that £4,400 is the first bid. The auctioneer cries, "There are 25 golden sovereigns for the first man who has the courage to bid £4,600." Perhaps no one has Then £25 is offered for a £4,550 bid. If there is eventually no bid above the £4,400, the man who made that bid is saddled with the house. Otherwise he pockets his bonus and gets off free of it all .-- Westminster Gazette

Gone to Hongkong. Some time ago a large tea shop was opened in a town near London. To attract customers it was announced that each purchaser of a pound of tea would receive a check for a shilling to buy goods on a certain date. The proprietor did a flourishing trade till the day came for the checks to be presented. Crowds of customers came and were drearily disappointed to see the shutters down and on them a big poster, which read: ³Our compliments to our customers, and we beg to state that we have gone to Hongkong for more tea."-London

Mannish. Mr. Dubley-How awfully mannish she is! Miss Smart—She is, indeed. Mr. Dubley—Yes, and the funny part of it is she thinks people admire her for being that the being that way. It's queer she doesn't realize that people are only laughing at her. Miss Smart—Well, she's mannish even to that extent.

Philadelphia Press. The Modern Animal a Cross Between

Two Ancient Breeds. In Wissen fur Alle Professor Koenig discusses in some detail the origin of the horse of today. He finds that the horse of neolithic times was not spe-cifically distinct from the horse of the present. While there is no doubt that the horse of that period was used by man for food, there seems to be no con-clusive evidence as to whether it was domesticated or not. His own opinion, however, is that it was probably do-mesticated.

meshcated.

The horse of that time was closely allied to the tarpan or semiwild horse that lived in southern Russia up to a century ago. This was a "hog maned," short legged, large headed beast. It seems probable that the domesticated horses of the Germans of Caesar's time were derived from this breed.

The Egyptians had horses as early as 1900 B. C. These were long maned, more like the Arab horses, and came from Assyria. Where the Assyrians obtained them is unknown, but it was probably from southern Asia, where this long maned breed has been developed in all probability as the result of long continued domestication. modern horse is a cross between these two breeds, with a further mixture of the Arab horse. This Arab horse, too, was itself a descendant of the earlier long maned horse.

The origin of the long maned horse is a matter of doubt, but Professor Koenig thinks it may have been from av extinct Indian species.
