Big Fortune in Sunken Logs.

When the old boom between DuBois town and Nippona park, in the West Branch, is demolished at the end of the Branch, is demolished at the end of the present season, a fortune amounting to an estimated equivalent of a million dollars, may come to the state. Within limits of 10 miles of cribs, millions upon millions of feet of pine, oak and hemlock timber, lie imbedded in the sand and mud of the river bottom—the accumulation of nearly half a century's derelict sticks. Who is to have claim to this has become a question of interest and of riches to be had.

The Pennsylvania forest of Clearest and of riches to be had.

The Pennsylvania forest of Clearfield, Clinton, Cameron and Potter counties yielded pine trees as fine as ever cut anywhere, and a hundred of them if they be found lodged in the river bed would pay for the dredging of the entire boom space. In Cameron county some time ago the Central lumber company got $600 worth of lumber out of a single pine tree; at this rate the old boom promises a golden yield.

But the very interesting question is to whom does this sunken lumber belong? At no time have the logs been the property of the Susquehanna Boom company whose corporate functions are to catch, hold and deliver to their rightful owner all floating logs, levying thereon for a certain salvage. Some of these old logs when they have been raised, will have on them the mill marks of firms and individuals that have long since gone to their reward, and the contention is made that the profit from these must revert to the state.

If the work of recovering the sunken

If the work of recovering the sunken logs is once begun the probability is that there will be a keen lookout for sticks bearing the marks of owners who hope to reap a late day harvest from the long lost derelicts.—Ex.

Sheatz Broke Records to Pay Off Schools

Over $4,000,000 Paid Out By Treasurer As Fast As Asked.

JULY PAYMEMTS NEARLY $5,000,000

Tremendous Business Done at State Treasury During July.

State Treasurer John O. Sheatz has broken all records for the payment of the state school appropriation, the total disbursements for this object alone in the sixty days between June 1 and August 1 aggregating the magnificent total of $4,069,141.78, or $1,670,-723 more than paid in the same period last year.

According to the statement of business at the Treasury for the month just closed, the receipts of the Treasury were $3,152,541.45 and the payments $4,955,819.90, over half of which went for school purposes. The general balance in the Treasury at the close of July business was $11,943,796.04, of which $9,426,525.35 was in the general fund and $2,517,270.69 was in the sinking fund. Of the balances $523,000 is held by the Allegheny National Bank which closed.

The payment of school money is considered to be notable on Capitol Hill, as it goes far beyond any record ever made in the preceding administration. In addition there was drawn warrants for over $500,000 more by the Department of Public Instruction which did not reach the Treasury in July. Mr. Sheatz stood ready to cash them. In all 1,811 of the 2,580 districts were paid.

Improvements by Property Owners.

Emporium property owners continue to improve their property in a very substantial manner.

Mr. J. Pitt Felt is adding a fine concrete porch to his beautiful residence on North Broad street; when completed will add greatly to the appearance of his home in connection with other improvements he is making.

Dr. H. S. Falk is having a concrete walk laid in front of his Fourth street home, which will be a great improvement and highly appreciated by our

R. Seger continues to improve the appearance of his property at the junction of Fourth street and Allegheny avenue. The tenement flat on Fourth street is nearing completion.

Johnson & McNarney have brightened up their law office on Broad street by putting on a fresh coat of paint.

The remodeling of the St. Charles hotel in the East End, adds greatly to the appearance of that part of town and shows what can be done to beautify that section if the property owners would only be up and doing.

No Nebraska for Us.

On June 4 last the inhabitants of Buffalo County, Nebraska, and particularly of the town of Kearney, were besieged by no ler han seven tornadose besieged by no ler an seven tornadoes.

That a number of houses should have been wholly and in part destroyed is naturally to be expected of any cyclone that is at all violent. But that it should pick up a caster from a table, twist off the handle and drive the spindle through the branch of a walnut tree is surely no common occurrence.

Mr. Bricker assures us that before the storm the caster found a place on the table of Mr. G. F. Franks, that it was intact with the bottles in their intended positions; yet after the tornado the base was found in a walnut tree limb. The wind had unscrewed the top and taken off the turntable. One of the bottles was found with twigs densely packed into its neck, without a leaf stripped. The bottle, however, was broken.

Base Ball.

Base Ball.

The much talked of game of ball between the Old Stars and the regular Emporium team was pulled off last Friday and up until the fourth inning, the game was very evenly played. In this inning the Old Stars commenced to weaken and the younger blood continued to gain until at the end of the ninth inning the score stood 11 to 1 in favor of the regular team. The Old Stars were outclassed in this game in every particular. Overturf pitched for the regular team, and certainly put up a neat game. Hemphill pitched for the Old Stars, and the number of runs scored against him is no fault of his.

Last Saturday the Emporium team was defeated by the Ridgway boys at Keystone Park, 11 to 9. The boys played a snappy game throughout. The features of the game were a one hand catch by Burhans and a neat double play by Overturf and Farrel, and the exceptional good work of Farrel at first base. The Ridgway boys had thirteen hits, the fast work by our boys robbed them of several more, which ordinarily would have been counted safe.

The First Campaign Poet.

The First Campaign Poet.

Campaign poets are beginning to pipe their lays. If all shall sound as clear a note as J. W. Foley, they will be warmly welcomed by the newspaper mending public, which includes everybody nowadays. Mr. Foley in the New York Times, which may be dedescribed as "Taft Democratic," cleverly pictures the attitude of the prosperous farmer, prosperous under Republican policies, toward Mr. Bryan's appeal for subscriptions to combat "predatory wealth." First we have the graphic description of the farmer's solvency:

Crank up the auto, Jonathan; put in more gasoline.

ank up the auto, Jonathan; put in more gaso line; We'll take a spin about the fields, where things look fresh and green; Call up the town by telephone and order those repairs;

Go bring me in my Daily Times—I'll just see how my shares
Are selling now; tell Ben to get right out there in the corn—
That cultivator makes it jump, as sure as you are born.

And bring my check book, Jonathan; the times are growing ill.
Since predatory wealth's afoot—I'll send a check to Bill.

A second stanza tells of the comfortable circumstances of the worthy farmer's children, while the third brings us to the climax, with the farmer's keen realization of which side his bread is betteral. bread is buttered:

Oh. I've had some hard times, I know; some short crops and some long;
Bu! I saved some when things went right to Tell Ben start that engine up, we'd better grind some up, we'd better for seed! Ben grind some plow in the field to fallow it for seed:

it for seed:
It's lone some without mother here, but she's a right to go
Up in the mountains when it's hot as any one

I know.

We've got the money for it, too, and times are not so ill;
On second thought I'll send the check down to the other Bill:

This little poem as a campaign docu-This little poem as a campaign document is worth columns of ponderous prose. The fictitious incident thus related will be repeated in real life thousands of times. Bryan appeals to the discontented. And the contented and prosperous farmers will vote for "the other Bill."--Pittsburg Times.

Old Soldiers Read.

Dear Frend Mullin:—The Confederate soldiers, who participated in the battle of Dry Creek, will hold a reunion on the battle field, Aug. 29th. It is their desire to have all the surviving Union Soldiers, who engaged in this battle, as well as other Union Soldiers, to come and participate in this reunion.

The old soldier is getting old indeed, and within a short time they will be with us only in history and affectionate memories. For this reason the promoters of this re-union believe this will be the only one on this battle field, in which the old soldier will be able to attend. It is a fitting tribute to the occasion for the old soldiers, of both sides, to meet in love, joy and peace on this spot, where as young men they engaged, brethren and against brethren, in the deadly conflict of Civil War This will be the last grand rally.

The Committe of arrangements have requested me to hunt up the Union Soidiers of this battle and get them in communication with the Committee.

The famous White Sulphur Summer resort is on the edge of the battle field and will be in full blast at the time of the reunion. The "Grand Hotel" of the resort, as well as a nmber of other hotels in the village, will provide ample accomodations for all classes of people. If you know of any information that will put me in touch with the Union soldiers who participated in the battle of Dry Creek, W. Va, under General Averills, I will be pleased to have it.

Yours very truly,

Northern Central Sued for $6,000.

Through her attorneys, Don M. Larrabee and N. M. Edwards, Esqs, Sarah J. Kleese has brought suit against the Northern Central Railway Company, for the death of her husband, William Kleese, asking for $6,000 damages.

In the statement filed on Monday in the Prothonotary's office, it is alleged that on or about September 26, 1907, Kleese was hauling wood with a horse and wagon, from a sawmill near the railread, between Haleeka and Powys, to his home, about a mile distant from the mill, the railway being between the mill and his home; that it was necessary to cross the tracks in the hauling of the wood, the crossing, known as "Waltz' Crossing," being near the mill, and kept and maintained by the railway company and being a much traveled road for forty years or more.

While Kleese was crossing the tracks, it is alleged, an engine and train, southward, "without warning" struck and fatally injured him and he died in a few minutes. It is further alleged in the statement that there is an obstructed view of south-bound trains, and that no warning whistle was sounded or notice of the train's ap-

Remains of Chas. Drangle, Embalmed One Year Ago, Baffles Skill of Egyptians

Chas. Drangle, who Sept. 27th, 1907, fell from a supply wagon, near Emporium, breaking his neck, being dead when found. From papers found on his person it was learned that his former home was in Stockholm, Sweden. His remains were taken to Geo. J. LaBar's undertaking establish ment, when Chas, W. Rishell, the undertaker and embalmer prepared the body for burial. Correspondence was opened with the relatives through the Swedish Counsel at Philadelphia, when it was learned that Drangle was connected with one of the most prominent families of Sweden. No final arrangements having been made Drangle's remains were held pending final instructions. The body may yet be shipped to Sweden.

remains were held pending final instructions. The body may yet be shipped to Sweden.

This case has excited a great number of expert embalmers in all sections of tha country and hundreds have called at Uudertaker LaBar's morgue to view the remains. Embalmer Rishell's secret has puzzled the "frat" how he he could keep the body in such excellent condition, when they were informed that not a drop of blood was drawn from the body and no disemboweling performed. All who have called to examine this wonderful case agree that Embalmer Riishell has put the Egyptian mummy preservers clear in the shade.

Drangle was one of those big hearted fellows, as most woodsmen are, and when he had a good "stake," as he often had, his money weat mostly for the entertainment of his friends. His gererosity was his "doing" finally, the had resided in Cameron and Elk counties about twenty-five years.

New Military Company.

"The new Military Company, organized last week, had its first drill last evening, and has every indication of being a credit to the town. There are now forty-two members enlisted, and it is hoped to bring the membership to sixty, if possible. The Company is independent of all organizations, but is drilling under the United States Army tactics and the Pennsylvania National Guards' regulations.

The Rector of the Episcopal Church very kindly offered the use of the Parish House as a drill room, until such time as other arrangements could be made. The boys would like to use the Opera House, but as the organization is self-supporting, it is desired to keep the expense as low as possible, and the above offer was thoroughly appreciated.

The Company will drill every Wednesday evening, falling in at 7:30."

The Lock Haven State Normal School sent out a large class of young men and women at its last commencement. Their excellent training thoroughly eqipped them for the positions of teachers and it is gratifying to know that they were all fortunate in securing schools. Its patronage during the year just closed greatly exceeded any previous years. Address the Principal for illustrated catalogue.
