Not the least of the benefits derived from the rural mail by any means is the responsibility it creates for the maintenance of good roads in communities that desire the service. At Atlanta, Mo., the government revoked a rural route because the people would not keep the roads along the route in good repair. It is not possible that there are many communities in Missouri where the people would part with their rural mail service rather than exhibit the enterprise necessary to make the roads accessible for the mail carrier. If it is understood that there will be no mail service where good roads are not maintained, as the government's policy at Atlanta ap pears to indicate, then hail to the rural mail carrier as the advance agent of better roads and consequent ly a better day!-Exchange

Inoculation is now suggested as a cure for typhoid, and some experi ments to that end have answered satisfactorily. But the proposition for a wholesale inoculation of school children if typhoid threatens a community seems rather premature, especially as the ordinary vaccination system has been attended with some terrible mistakes in the way of dangerous virus There is not the outcry these days that there used to be over new methods investigated by medical science, but there is even greater need of care and prudence in applying apparently successful experimentation.

The strike of 4,000 Canadian coal miners, reported from Winnipeg, is a more serious development than that of the 400 anthracite miners at Pitts ton, who have laid down their picks and retired to the surface; but it is of no more importance to coal consumers in the United States than the lit tle Pennsylvania blunder, because western Canada coal is not burned on this side of the boundary line, to any large extent.

CAMERON COUNTY PRESS. PAYNE BILL HONEST

MEASURE INDORSED BY NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

Chief Republican Organ in the East Asserts That It Carries Out the Pledges of the National Platform.

The Payne bill, as it goes to the senate, represents an honest effort to carry out the pledges of the Republican national platform. It effects a substantial downward revision of the Dingley rates and attempts to apply the protective principle scientifically In so doing it goes and rationally. much too far to suit the "stand-pat ters," who consider their own interests paramount to the general good On the other hand, it does not satisfy the extreme Cobdenites, to whom reasonable protection is more obnoxious than any other form of protection, because harder to discredit or overthrow. It is only from such a perverted point of view that the Payne bill can be attacked as 'a triumph of

A fair analysis will show that compared with the Dingley bill the Payne bill exhibits rational progress. It introduces the maximum-minimum principle, which will be of undoubted value in dealing with foreign countries which have adopted that principle, and will furnish us a means of secur-ing everywhere the most favored nation treatment which we are prepared to give. As our industries develop and e attain our natural place as one of the greatest of the manufacturing and exporting nations, protective duties must decrease and revenues from tariffs must diminish. To those, therefore, who hope to see customs duties gradually lowered and finally removed the Payne bill should be especially welcome, since in imposing a permanent federal inheritance tax it least points the way to a gradual shifting of basis of federal taxation.

We have already expressed our view that the Payne bill was improved by the limited consideration allowed it in the house. The changes made were on the whole, highly beneficial. It is to be regretted, therefore, that house did not have enough confidence in itself to go on record on more questions than were included in the provisions of the special rule governing debate on the bill. There does not appear to be any good reason why the house should not have voted on the maximum-minimum sections, the paragraphs increasing the duties on gloves and hosiery, the inheritance tax section, the free coal provision and other paragraphs and sections on which there were divisions of opinion. The house of representatives is vested by the constitution with the exclusive ought to exercise that right intelligently and deliberately, expressing its opinion on all points at issue and laying a firm foundation for any contest with the senate on changes plans for taxation. The consideration of the Payne bill was much more serious in character and more fruitful in results than was the consideration of the Dingley bill. But it could well have been more serious and more fruitful.-New York Tribune

Problem in Revenue Law.

The Republicans have, undoubtedly, a problem on their hands. A seriously defective new tariff law might cost them dearly in November of next year. A deficit in the treasury at that time, or the receipts running neck and neck with the expenditures, with a bond issue looming up, would make their congressional campaign drag heavily. The people want a comfortable balance in the treasury, and associate it with good times and a good tax law.

On the other hand, a successful new law, bearing not too heavily upon either producer or consumer, yielding Taft revenue enough easily to pay the government's way upon liberal lines of living, and while keeping up wages at home, opening up new markets abroad, should secure another house to the Republicans. The country does to the Republicans. The country does to the Republicans and popularity with congress tales of men, women and children killed and homes wrecked.

The tornado swept over into Arkanta tales of men, women and children killed and homes wrecked.

And as Mr. Bryan and his friends are advocating a tariff for revenue only, and as they are the Democratic party, the country must turn to them if it turns away from the Republicans next year except under the most extreme provocation .-- Washington Star.

Can Serve Country and Party. The Republican leaders in the senate have a golden opportunity to serve the people, the party and themselves by shifting the incidence of tariff taxation from necessaries to from weak shoulders to strong, and by insisting on a broad, scientific re vision on the labor cost differential principle—such a revision, in short, as an expert tariff commission would provide a basis for. We predict that the public is in for an agreeable surprise in the trend and spirit of the Aldrich substitute tariff bill.

Champ Clark Diplomatic.

Hon. Champ Clark showed the usual brilliancy of the minority house leaders in so loading down his motion to recommit the Payne bill with instructions as to make its success an absolute impossibility. Had he attempted might have accomplished something-at least forced a test vote on the gloves and hosiery paragraphs. But Mr. Clark was probably satisfied to lose on any terms, so long as he didn't aggravate the dissensions among his alleged "followers."

A tarin bill could be made that would please everybody, it would be a sign that the millennium was here and that we didn't need any tariff bill'-

SENATE WITHIN ITS RIGHTS.

Has Power Under the Constitution to Amend Any Bill for Raising Revenue.

Noting the general expectation that he new tariff enactments will be prac tically framed in the senate, the Chi-Daily News conceives it to be an infraction of the constitutional provision that all bills for raising revenue must originate in the house. That paper then delivers itself of the following bitter assertion: "The explanation of this degradation of the house to the point where it crawls humbly at the heels of the ate even as respects matters of legislation in which, under the constitution, it is suposed to be the superior body, is found in the words of Cannon and Cannonism." The assertion that the senate by amending a tariff bill, even so as to generally change the character of its duties, violates the exclusive privilege of the house to originate such bills, has very slight foundation. In the constitutional provision the right of the senate to "propose or concur with amendments" is as clearly stated as the right of the house to originate the measure. The has control of the subject in power to refuse to originate. When it has originated a bill it stands on equal terms with the senate as the acceptance or rejection of amendments

It is true that in the final issue on this as on other legislation the house has frequently shown less stamina in standing up for its views than the senate. Cannon and Cannonism may be fairly chargeable with several unedifying features of congressional politics, but this one is not easily traceable to that source. It is rather due to a more distinct usurpation the senate, through the perversion of the "advice and consent" clause so as to practically lodge the appointing power in the hands of individual senators. It is the dispensation of patronage by senators that makes many members of the house subject to the directions of the from their states. When there is an important test of strength be-tween the two bodies this makes the house prone to yield. Yet if house ever gets enough in earnest to assert its power by withholding appropriation bills until its wishes are met, it can bring both the senate and administration to its feet .- Pittsburg Dispatch.

For Honest Revision.

There is another force that is making strongly for honest, broad revision, and that is the persuasive, harmonizing influence, and quiet conciliatory yet massive insistance of President Taft, with the veto possibility in the background. Mr. Taft without outwardly appearing to try very hard, without the faintest show of hectoring and dictating, will get far more out of congress at a juncture like this than Mr. Roosevelt would.

There is every indication that both senate and house are sincerely desirous of framing a tariff bill that Mr. will like and that will help him with the country. Mr. Taft's influence ernment's way upon liberal lines of and personal popularity with congress were it sent to him, and congress knows it

AWFUL WORK OF CYCLONES AND TORNADOES IN SOUTH AND MIDDLE WEST.

PROPERTY LOSS OF MILLIONS

All Along the Path of the Storm Come Tales of Loss of Life and Whole Towns and Villages Wiped Out.

Atlanta, Ga.-An epidemic of cy clones and tornadoes, the like of which have not been known for years, swept through the south Thursday night and yesterday, leaving in their wake hungreds of dead and mangled bodies and the dismantled wrecks of property worth many millions.
While the storm, which reached the south from the upper Mississippi valshortly after midnight yesterday, left its scar on Mississippi, Arkansas Kentucky, Alabama, Missouri and more remote states, Tennessee perhaps suffered the most severely. is substantiated that 60 persons were killed, distributed among the follow ing towns: Youngs Crossing, 5; Fay etteville, 15; Noblesville, 1; Hardeman county, 1; Medina, 4; Clarksville, 1; Centerville, 1; Franklin, 1; Hillsboro, 4; Somersville, 3; Laconia, 2; Bells, Quito, 8; Giles county, 12.

Mississippi's most disastrous point was Horn Lake, where 18 met death. Arkansas reports a total of 12 dead and 90 injured. Alabama has four dead near Hartzell. Kentucky caped with much property damage but no deaths. Missouri has seven killed at Somerville and 11 at Golden. Georgia lost two lives when a boat capsized.

An exact list of the dead and an accurate estimate of the monetary loss may not be compiled for days, from all along the path of the storm come tales of fearful loss of life and descriptions of whole towns and villages completely wiped out.

The storm wave seemed to have had its origin in the north and swept from the lake region south in irregular fashion, now moderating force as though spent, now growing more turbulent and angry.

At Frank-lin and in Hillsboro there was loss of life. The latter town is said to be practically destroyed, while at Centerville and adjoining villages the damage is reported very heavy both in lives and property. Near Pulaski, in Giles county, the death list reached 12 and many were hurt.

In the vicinity of Chattanooga the storm was felt at its worst. As in other parts of the state, the telephone and telegraph wires were blown down and the movement of trains was greatly hampered. The hurricane followed the Cumberland valley, wrecking small towns and destroying farm houses. At Ebenezer 18 houses were blown down. At Knoxville the greatest damage was from interference with communication

At Charlestown the storm swerved up the Hiawassee river from the Tennessee valley, destroying much property. At Fayetteville three are known to have perished. At Cuba many to have perished. At Cuba many houses were blown down and at Giles town not even a shed was left standing. No fatalities were reported from either place, but information is mea-Memphis reports heavy ger. from towns within a radius of one hundred miles in three states.

Striking Alabama and headed in a southeasterly direction, the hurricane continued upon its course of destruc tion last night. At Danville, in Morgan county, Alabama, the storm struck with terrific force.

Fifteen Dead; 250 Houses Wrecked. Huntsville, Ala .- Fifteen are dead, score injured and 250 houses demolished as a result of the storm which struck Fayetteville, Tenn., and vicinity Thursday night, according to a reliable man who has just reached Huntsville from that section. The dead at Harms number five and many more are injured. The Harms flour mill was destroyed, as well as a number of other buildings in that vicinity.

Immense damage was done in Madison county by hail and lightning. Telegraphic and telephonic communication with Fayetteville has been sev ered since early Thursday night.
