Death of Col. Lucius Rogers.

Col. Lucius Rogers, aged 81 years, postmaster at Kane, died Tuesday morning, at 9:20 o'clock. The death of Col. Rogers removes one of the most well known and highly respected characters of this section of the state. His death is sad news to all who knew him. Services will be held at his late residence at Kane, at 3:30 this afternoon. Interment at Smethport Friday at 11 o'clock, and no doubt many of our citizens would attend the last sad rites of the popular gentleman and the friend of all who knew him, were the railroad facilities such that they could reach Smethport in time.

RULE OF THE SEA.

Old Whaling Law Applied to a Twice Caught Cod.

That etiquette is observed among the fishermen that journey to the fishing banks was discovered by an amateur angler on his first trip.

The amateur hooked a codfish, but his line parted just as the fish was above the water. Back fell the codfish, carrying with him two sinkers and the hook.

Twenty minutes later another angler cried out that he had captured a cod with two sinkers and a hook. The amateur went up to the angler, who appeared to be an old salt, and asked for his hook and sinkers, which had his name stamped on them. He was surprised when the old salt told him to take the fish also.

According to the rules generally followed on the fishing boats, the second angler was entitled to the fish, but the hooks and sinkers should be returned to their owner. The old angler explained why he wanted to give up the fish.

It seems that he had followed the sea a great part of his life. When a young man he was a whaler, and, according to whaling law, a dead whale belongs to the ship whose name appears on the harpoon that killed it. Therefore the old salt figured that the amateur owned the codfish he had taken.—New York Sun.

Euler's Wonderful Memory.

Leonhard Euler, who was born in 1707 and died in 1783 at St. Petersburg, where he spent his life as a teacher of great power and as a prolific writer, was an instance of the genuine mathematician endowed with almost superhuman powers. He left more than 200 manuscript treatises on his favorite subject, and the bulk of the works published by his academy between 1727 and 1783 were from his pen. In his old age he was totally blind. Then he carried in his memory a table of the first six powers of the "series of natural numbers up to 100." It is related that on one occasion two of Euler's students attempted to calculate a converging series. As they advanced they found they disagreed in the result by a unit in the fifteenth figure. The question was referred to Euler, who decided to make the calculation. He did this mentally, and his result was found to be correct.—New York Tribune.

The Codmoppe.

Herrings are still eaten as much as in the days when Yarmouth had to send a hundred yearly to the king, baked in four and twenty pasties. But where is the codmoppe gone, and what was it like when kings dined off it in Lent? "Codmoppe sauce Hollandaise" would sound most intriguing on a Savoy menu. More original still would be the "rostitid perpes" of a Henry V. banquet, which was the "sea swine" of the unrefined Saxon, the "porco marino" of the mediaeval ecclesiast. A maister coke gives an early receipt for "pudding of purpasse," another teaches how to "salte porpysse and seele," another how to "undertraunche that purpos." From which it may be seen that enterprise extended also to the spelling of the porpoise.—London Chronicle.

Candymakers' Tricks.

An Atchison man went into a candy factory. He was surprised to see one of the candymakers reach with his bare hand into a pot of boiling candy. He brought out a handful of the boiling fluid. He was testing its consistency. He first put his hand in a pail of water. After he had jerked out his hand he put it back in the water. The Atchison man tried the same thing and did it without getting burned.—Atchison Globe.

Another Boring Question.

"I say, pa, is a man from Poland called a Pole?"
"Yes, my son."
"Then, pa, why isn't a man from Holland called a Hole?"—Comic Cuts.

Insult Added.

Big Man (with a frown)—Will you be so kind as to get off my feet? Little Man (with a bundle)—I'll try, sir. Is it much of a walk?—Cleveland Leader.

Mice and Music.

She (reading)—Mice are fond of music and will get as close to it as they can. He—Just cut that out, and I'll send it to the girl in the next flat.—Yonkers Statesman.

Gentility is nothing but ancient riches.—Burlleigh.

MEMORIAL.

The Northern Blue—The Southern Gray.

BY DAMON HARVEY.

Wherever comrades may repose, free from the bugle's call,
As heroes, they in memory live, torn, scar'd by steel and ball;
There let us meet and mingle tears in unison to-day,
And scatter floral wreaths, alike, upon the blue and gray.

The few remaining "Vets." with pride and trembling, tottering tread
All join to decorate the graves of our heroic dead.

The breach of peace (that once prevailed, from age, has died away,
The tears of love are shed the same upon the blue and gray.

With din of battle on their ear, the scenes of war in mind,
Our brave defenders, aged, gray, are dropping out of line.

E're long the "taps," will call the last true Soldier Boy away,
Who may have worn the Northern blue—perhaps the Southern gray.

No slab of granite mark the spot where many warriors rest;
No loving hands with garlands fair to lay upon their breast;

But yet the stars that guard each mound of consecrated clay,
Smile down with equal rays of love on both the blue and gray.

They laid their guns and swords aside with many a manly shout;
From earthly service, one by one, were gently mustered out.

And as the flowers of May adorn their silent graves to-day,
Our Nation clasps the hands of peace o'er both the blue and gray.

N. B.—If the reader of the above "Poem," will send five 2-cent stamps to the author, Damon Harvey, Clearfield, Pa., who is a helpless invalid, he will greatly appreciate the favor and will send in return, his photo and the poem, nicely printed on plate paper, suitable for scrap book or framing.

An editor recently wrote a "puff" for the belle of the ball saying: "Her dainty feet were encased in shoes that might have been taken for fairy boots," but the blundering compositor made it read: "Her dirty feet were encased in shoes that might have been taken for ferry-boats." The typesetter is still alive, but his recovery is doubtful.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Connor, of Hicks Run, wish to express their sincere thanks to the many friends who so kindly aided them during the sickness and death of their little daughter, FLORENCE.

Disinfect

Some disinfectants and germicides might be classed as drugs but, you do not want to be drugged just now with a bug killer. However, now is the time to think of getting after the rose bugs and currant worms.

We have a full line of the "remedies" for that class of pests. Also a non-poisonous bed bug exterminator in small cans.
