LEZAH ATSUGA.

Making an Acquaintance.

In illustration of the ways of the east side of London the following true story is told: A certain club for working girls in the east end of London had recently elected a new member, and one day the secretary happened to look out of the window and was surprised to see the new member rush up to a strange lad in the street, punch him violently on the head and then run away. The secretary remonstrated with her sharply, to which the new member made reply: "I'm very sorry. I won't do it no more if it's agin the rules, but perhaps you won't mind telling me, then, how am I ever to get engaged?"

Knew Their Ways.

Walter, aged seven, is a wise son who knows not only his own father, but his mother as well.

"Now, Walter," said the teacher, "if your father can do a piece of work in one hour and your mother could also do it in one hour, how long would it take both of them to do it?"

"Three hours," answered Walter, "counting the time they would waste in arguing about how it should be done."—Chicago News.

And He Probably Did.

"What can I do," roared the fiery orator, "when I see my country going to ruin, when I see our oppressors' hands at our throats, strangling us, and the black clouds of hopelessness obliterate the golden sun of prosperity? What, I ask—what can I do?"

"Sit down!" shouted the audience. —New York Times.

Bear Brand Story No. 29

Verses and Drawings by Forrest Hull, aged 14 years, Ceder Grove, West Virginia.

Little Tim, so we suppose, Was very, very hard on clothes.

Although his folks were very poor, Tim wore out stockings by the score.

His mother tried all kinds of goods But Tim wore them out in the woods.

One day his father in his snare, Caught a great old grizzly Bear.

He tanned its hide and dried it out, And made Tim a pair of stockings stout.

No matter what he went about These stockings Tim could not wear out.

They wore so well the little man, Always called them good Bear Brand.

Though not of skin, they are made today But just as good in every way.

They are made for girls and made for boys By the Paramount Knitting Co., Chicago, Illinois.

There is no danger of blood poisoning resulting from an injury when Chamberlain's Liniment is applied before the parts become inflamed and swollen. For sale at Taggart's.

This is the variety of rheumatism that usually attacks the larger joints, knees, hips and shoulders.
