DAYLIGHT HOURS.

The movement to change the daylight hours of work might well be encouraged. The plan proposed is that, from May 1 to October 1-practically the summer months-the hands on the clock shall be set back two hours says the Milwaukee Sentinel. Or, in other words, the daylight workday shall begin and close two hours earlier each day. There are many advantages in this proposed innovation. Early morning hours are the best for work in the summer months. Early closing of labor means longer and better hours for rest and recreation. Better physical condition and better mental powers will result. A healthier moral tone ought to prevail. More and better service should be rendered. The consequent relaxation from the stress and strain of the long, hot summer months could not help but produce a more wholesome and contented body of men and women everywhere. At the first some inconvenience might be felt while the readjustment is being made; but the advantages of the proposed reform are certainly attractive enough to win it favor, as in England.

Influenza or grip, followed too often by pneumonia, has spread rapidly during the past week of dust and high winds throughout the city. Dr. Walter Bensel, sanitary superintendent of the health department, announces that the fatalities from this cause have resulted in an alarmingly high death rate, says the New York Times. Yet with reasonable care no one need fear this infectious disease. It is in the throat that the germs of influenza find lodgment; thence their poisons filter through the mucous membrane into the blood. They immediately affect the digestive tract, the lungs, the kidneys and the inner membranous passages of the head. Hence the pains in the various parts of the body, the acute swellings in the head and face, fever and marked general prostration All may be avoided by the cleansing and keeping clean of the mouth, teeth, tonsils and nose, and by some attention to the raiment during the shifting state of the weather. Excesses, such as overeating and overdrinking, are particularly dangerous.

Cities all over the union will follow the example of New York in making war upon the house fly. The best way to deal with the pest is to keep him out with screens guarding windows and doors. However, there are times when he will get in. A poison for Mr. Fly that is said to be not dangerous to human beings is made with bichromate of potassium. A seven per cent. solution of this chemical mixed in water and sweetened with sugar may placed in shallow dishes throughout the house. It will attract the flies and every fly that drinks it will per-

Peace by disarmament receives a notable impetus from the order of the war department discontinuing the sale at auction of obsolete firearms discarded by the United States army. If our friends in Central America are too poor to buy new guns when the notion seizes them to set up a revolution and overthrow a government, they must perforce keep quiet and let the existing government alone if they can no longer buy cheap, but good, old guns from us. Thus does war become more and more a luxury reserved for the Iowa has followed New York with a law against immoral theatrical performances. The outbreak of the "Salome" craze has aroused public opinion, apparently, to the extent of de manding legislative interference. As American public opinion is, in the main, a healthy growth, the late flood of pruriency on the stage has brought about its own correction.

Society women in New York who wanted to put on masculine attire to play polo were not allowed to do so but a Connecticut woman was permitted to work in overalls, on a public road, breaking stone. The ideas of womanly decorum seem to be rather mixed or, perhaps, are geographically

STRANGLED TO DEATH

PARTLY DECOMPOSED BODY OF A YOUNG LADY FOUND.

The Body, Which Was Packed in a Dilapidated Trunk, Believed to be Gen. Sigel's Granddaughter.

New York City.-Elizabeth Sigel, daughter of Paul Sigel of this city, and granddaughter of the illus-trious Franz Sigel, the German war-rior who enlisted his services with the Union army during the civil war, is, according to all indication, the victim of one of the most sordid murders in the history of New York. If she is not the victim, the police are confronted with a remarkable series of coincidental facts.

Taken from a trunk in a room of a Chinaman above a chop suey restaurant in the Tenderloin, the body, in a state of decomposition which makes identification difficult, lies in the morgue, while detectives are collecting the threads of a tangled story involving the girl and her associations with Chinese. An envelope addressed to the girl, found in the room where the body lay, a locket bearing her initials, her disappearance on June 10, and a note found in the room, signed "Elsie," all seem to indicate that Franz Sigel's granddaughter was mur The body was partially stripdered. ped of its clothing, tied with ropes, wrapped in a faded blue blanket and crammed into a dilapidated old trunk, where it lay for a week at least before the odor crept through the building, arousing the suspicions of the phlegmatic proprietor of the restaurant below, who summoned the police and instituted an investigation.

Sun Leong, proprietor of the restaurant, who also conducted the rooming house above, disappeared shortly after the discovery of the murder, adding further to the mystery. The case has many unusual features, notable among which is the fact that a Chinaman has been known to call at the Sigel home, presumably with the sanction of the parents. Elizabeth or Elsie, was 20 years old, and was greatly interested in work among Chinese.

Later.- Mrs. Paul Sigel, when shown the jewelry found in the trunk containing the body of the murdered girl in a Chinese rooming house in Eighth avenue, identified it as that worn by her daughter Elsie. A woman settlement worker in the meantime had identified the underwear as that worn by the girl.

WRIGHT BOYS GET MEDALS

Entire Population of Dayton, O., Turn Out and Celebrate the Event-Presentation Impressive.

Dayton, O.-Wilbur and Orrville Wright, the aviators, have received the medals awarded them by act of congress, by the legislature of Ohio, and by their home city of Day-One hundred and twenty thousand people, the entire population of Dayton, celebrated the event.

Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer, representing Secretary of War Dickinson, presented the national medals; Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio the Ohio medals, and Mayor E. E. Burkhart of Dayton the local medals. The presentation ceremony, which was held in the fair grounds, was impressive. Behind the Wrights, on rising tiers of seats, sat 2,500 school children, dressed in red, white and blue, and arranged to represent an American flag. Troops and brass bands gave a military aspect to the imemnse throng

Beside the aeroplanists sat Miss Katherine Wright, their sister; Bishop Milton Wright, the father, who delivered the invocation, and other mem-bers of the Wright family. Others on the platform were Lieut. Lahm of the army signal corps; Carlos Garcia Velez, the Cuban minister. Baron Kogo Takahira, the Japanese ambassador, who was present at the opening, was suddenly called to Washington before the conclusion.
