The Model Army of the World.

What army was the strongest of its time? Judging by results, the Roman army was so from the fifth century B. C. onward until the division of the empire. Its fighting organization was as complete as and possibly more practical than that of any army of today. It was based on a territorial system which maintained the comradeship of locality without bringing it into antagonism with that of the corps, for each of the thirty-five Roman "tribes" was required to furnish to each legion four "centuries" of 120 men, each of which worked together as a local unit. The legion was divided into five cohorts or battalions, of which three were troops of the line, two were a kind of militia and the fifth was a depot battalion. For almost eight centuries the army thus constituted not only conquered the then known world, but acted as explorers beyond its limits and at the same time made and unmade kings and emperors in Rome itself.—Pearson's Weekly.

An Appeal.

MR. EDITOR:—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a word about the Rev. Z. A. Jones, B. D., and the Friendship College of Rock Hill, that he is representing. Rev. Z. A. Jones has greatly aided our school by traveling in your state and elsewhere and laying our needs before kind friends, who have greatly assisted us per him. This school was formed by the colored people of upper S. C., in the year of 1891, with the present management at its head. Our annual enrollment is something over three hundred, and would be five hundred if we had enough room. We have sent out more than two hundred teachers and more than one hundred preachers. We own and operate a small farm and printing office. The work of each is done by student labor. The State Board of Education, of which the Governor is chairman, has placed our school on the list of accredited colleges; our diplomas are therefore recognized in granting teachers certificates. We wish to erect a large building for the fall and we are praying that God may raise up friends to help us to fight our battles. Any amount that any friend will give will greatly assist us and be gratefully received. Rev. M. F. Forbell, of Sunbury, Pa., has visited our school. I am your obedient servant,
M. P. HALL,
President of Friendship College, Rock Hill, S. C.

The LaReine Corset

There will be many hot days this summer and very likely you may sit around at perfect ease without wearing a corset during many of them but just the same there will be some days when a corset becomes obligatory and if you happen to have a LaRein No. 971 which means a garment of batiste but with enough ventilation to make it as cool as can be desired, you certainly will not be so reluctant to dress for such occasions as might otherwise be the case.
