Goat skins have been Tariff free all these years, but has any one taken note of the fact that kid shoes are any cheaper than other shoes?—Cedar Rapids "Republican."

Behind the Free-Trade Hearse.

The alleged Republicans, who joined hands with the Democrats, in fighting the Payne-Aldrich law (and their supporters) are a very, very small part of the grand old party, fortunately. They are no more Republicans, in the strict sense of the word, than are those Democrats in Congress who openly plead and worked for Protection for industries in their respective localities. It is funny to hear Democrats taking about Republicans following their "party machine" and "voicing platform and principles," when one considers the long march of the Democracy behind the Free-Trade hearse. They have learned nothing by a long succession of hard knocks on that proposition.—Tiffin (O.) "Tribune."

In the Old Germanic Wilderness.
Leaving Mummelsee on a misty morning, you enter a green underworld of strange dew bediamond brilliance, skirt the head of a deep southward looking valley and emerge upon a sunny open plateau beyond Eckle and look down upon Wildsee, circled by the dark pines of an untouched forest that stretches away to the blue and distant hills. It is easy here to imagine yourself back in the heart of the old Germanic wilderness, in the heroic days when Hagen slew Siegfried with a coward's blow. The morning sun glints upon bright spear tops among the trees and the wind brings snatches of rough war songs shouted by barbarian voices. Your heart swells with the lust of battle and the chase, and if you have German blood in your veins it calls back through the dark middle ages to that dim and mystic youthday of the world when heroes met at the Ravena Schlacht. Within the hour you find yourself back in the twentieth century among motorcars drawn up beside the hostelry at Rubenstein, where the Hohenweg drops into the common-place and crosses the government madam before climbing the steep side of the Rothe Schilfkopf.—From "A Black Forest Pathway," by Frederick Van Beuren, Jr., in Scribner's.

Verdi and Bismarck on Titles.

The composer Verdi was offered a title of nobility by King Victor Emmanuel. It was intended that he should be created Marquis or Comte de Busseto, after the estate upon which he lived. The composer refused the offer energetically. He considered that Verdi was somebody and that the Marquis de Busseto would be nobody.

Even Bismarck was unable to parry a blow of this character. When the young emperor broke with him he conferred upon him the title of Duke of Lauenbourg. Bismarck received the parchment with this exclamation: "A pretty name! It will be handy for travelling incognito."

Some days after a parcel arrived at Varzin bearing the address "Mme. la Duchesse de Lauenbourg."

Bismarck, to whom it was delivered, being then at table, arose and, offering the letter to his wife, remarked ironically:

"Duchess, enchanted to make your acquaintance!"

Faithful to His Trust.

I was waiting near the elevator in the factory building for my friend to come down when I noticed a small boy sitting in one corner of the hall holding a large, thick sandwich. He eyed the sandwich lovingly for a long time, then he carefully lifted off the top slice of bread, took out a piece of dill pickle, ate it and replaced all as before. In a few seconds he again removed the top piece, extracted a piece of pickle and a piece of meat and replaced the top. Again and again the performance was repeated until all the pickle and almost all the meat were gone, the sandwich, however, appearing intact as in the beginning.

"Why don't you eat up your sandwich and not pick at it in that way?" I asked the boy with some curiosity. "Why," he answered, looking up with great innocence, "it ain't my sandwich."—Woman's Home Companion.

Where Women Swim Best.

"The Korean women are the best swimmers in the world," said a life guard. "The Korean pearl diving is in their hands. They swim—they don't boat—they swim out to the pearl fisheries of Quelpart, lugging baskets with them. After this swim of half an hour they dive down fifty feet and fetch up queer one shelled pearl oysters as big as babies. They dive till their baskets are full—the baskets are corked to keep them afloat—and after three or four hours' work they swim back home with their catch. The big one shelled oysters are valuable as pearl mines and as food too. A half dozen Koreans will sit down to an oyster as gayly as you or I sit down to a broiled lobster. Sometimes when the great shellfish is eaten raw it quivers and moans slightly as the knife is plunged into it."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Man and the Lion.

"When I was once in danger from a lion," said an old African explorer, "I tried sitting down and staring at him, as I had no weapons."

"How did it work?" asked his companion. "Perfectly. The lion didn't even offer to touch me."

"Strange! How do you account for it?"

"Well, sometimes I've thought it was because I sat down on a branch of a very tall tree."

Very Queer.

"My husband has been out late every evening this week attending important club meetings."

"Yes, so has mine. They belong to the same club, you know."

"Why, how queer! My husband says he hasn't seen your husband in six months!"—Cleveland Leader.

The Way She Dressed Him.

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" was asked of a small boy by the visitor.

"Oh," said he, "I want to be a man, but I think mamma wants me to be a lady."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Experienced Father.

Wife—My dear, the nursery needs re-decorating. What would you suggest for the walls? Husband—Corrugated iron.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Food Expert.

"What is a food expert?" "Any man who can make his wages but enough for the family table."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Autumn Arbor Day.

HAIL TO THE TREES.

"Patient and generous, mothers of mankind. Arching the hills, the minstrels of the wind, Spring's glorious flowers and summer's balmy tents.

A sharer in man's free and happier sense The trees bless all, and then, brown mantled stand The sturdy prophets of a golden land."

During May of last year meetings were held at the White House in Washington for the purpose of promoting the conservation of our natural resources. These meetings were attended by many of our leading statesmen, scientists and captains of industry. In the opening address the President said:

"We began with an unapproached heritage of forests; more than half the timber is gone. We began with coal fields more extensive than those of any other nation, and with iron ores regarded as inexhaustible, and many experts now declare that the end of both coal and iron is in sight."

The ultimate failure of the supplies of iron and coal is not more of a menace to the future of our nation than the gradual destruction of the soil by floods and freshets and its exhaustion by improper methods of farming. We derive most of our food from the fields and the streams, from the garden, the orchard and the forest. The want of fuel may be supplied by the use of water power to generate electricity that can be changed into light, heat and motive power. On the other hand, it takes decades of growth to reproduce an orchard, or a forest, and ten thousand years to form soil a foot in depth.

It is claimed that forests help to condense the vapors of the sky into clouds and rainfall. They surely aid in regulating the flow of the water in our streams and rivers, and in lessening the size and frequency of the floods and freshets which carry off silt and soil and thereby diminish the fertility of the land.

The value of trees for shade, for beauty, for fuel, for timber and for other economic purposes should be emphasized by every teacher. The planting and care of trees, their protection from fire, insects and other enemies, the wonderful processes of budding and grafting should be taught in every school. The sin of robbing or marring a tree, a shrub or a flower unless it has something to give which one needs, should be pointed out again and again. Verily, there is abundant reason for observing Arbor Day in the fall, as well as in the spring of the year.

To perpetuate the custom of observing Arbor Day at that season of the year when all the schools are in session, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1909, is hereby designated as Autumn Arbor Day; and all who are connected with the schools are urged to observe the day by the planting of trees and by other suitable exercises.

State Supt. of Public Instruction,

To unquestionably prove to the people that Indigestion and Dyspepsia can be permanently relieved and that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will bring about this result, we will furnish the medicine absolutely free if it fails to give satisfaction to any one using it.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the high degree of scientific skill used in devising their formula as well as to the care in their manufacture, whereby the well known properties of Bismuth Subnitrate and Pepsin have been combined with Carminatives and other agents.
