Amount of Rainfall.

Recent authorities assure us that if all the rain which falls upon the earth were allowed to accumulate in a basin of the same area of the terres-trial surface, it would almost be a collection of eight feet deep at the end of the year. The heaviest rainfall known upon the earth occurs upon the mountain slopes beyond the head of the Bay of Bengal and amounts upon the average to 610 inches, or nearly 51 feet, in the course of the year. One inch of rain implies a fall of 101 tons of water upon each acre of ground.

A Frenchman has invented a system of making glass so tough that a piece one-tenth of an inch in thickness will withstand heavy blows from a metal hammer. This will enable people who live in glass houses to throw stones without thinking seriously of the probable consequences.

Early Use of Spoons.

In France the use of spoons was not general until toward the end of the fourteenth century, according to common belief, but there is a question about this, for the will of Saint Remi, who baptized Clovis in 496, disposes of several implements supposed to have been spoons.

INSANE MAN KILLS FIRST OF 8 ON LIST

Robber and Deputy Die in Fight and Policeman Kills Man who Wounded Companion-Cowboys Shoot Up Town.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Because the name f Franz Stendts stood first on list of eight which Charles Strohl, a baker's employe, intended to kill, Stendts was shot and instantly killed in the reading room of the public library here by Strohl, who has been pronounced insane. The shooting came without warning and almost caused a panic among the people in the room. The murderer rushed out of the building, pursued by several persons and turned into an alley, exchanging shots with his pursuers, one shot striking an officer in the hand. Strohl was cornered and caught in a harness room.

To the police Strohl told an impossible story of persecution by Stendts and others. He had a list of eight persons, all of whom he said he in-tended to kill. Stendt's was the first name on list. Strohl's delusion was that before coming to America from Germany, Stendts had carried him into a dark room and tied him to a table There, aided by others, Stendts had drilled holes in his head and extracted nerves from his body.

RETAIL TRADE STILL EXPANDS

Cold Weather and Opening of Holiday Buying Stimulates-Some Hesitation in Wholesale Lines.

New York City.-Bradstreets says: Colder weather and the approach of the holiday season have continued to stimulate retail trade and measurably improve reassorting trade with jobbers. Rains or snow while temporarily retarding country trade by making the roads bad, have checked excessive growth of, or insect damage to, winter wheat and given a good quantity of moisture to the growing plant, thus placing that crop in good shape to enter the winter.

In wholesale trade there are, how ever, some intimations of cross currents tending to restrict fullest activities. Industrial reports are generally of large, in some cases record, output for the season, though here again, as for instance in the case of iron and steel, undiminished activity in buying is noted in finished products, while the raw material market, particularly pig iron, is quieter. Production and shipments are at record heights.

As a result of the brewery compa nies' hearing recently the representa-tives of 45 companies decided that there were two questions which should be fought out in the courts in order to test whether the brewing companies were within their rights in disposing of ice as alleged: First, whether brew ing companies can furnish, give or sell ice beyond the point of delivery; sec ond, whether special charters must be taken out to manufacture ice for sale Some of the companies furnish ice only to point of delivery. Others give away what is left at delivery or sell it at a low rate. Both are contended to be violations of charter rights in
