III Health is More Expensive Than any Cure.

This country is now filled with people who migrate across the continent in all directions seeking that which gold can-not buy. Five-tenths of them are suffering from throat and long trouble or chronic catarrh resulting from neglected colds, and spending fortunes vainly trying to regain lost health. Could every sufferer but undo the past and cure that first neglected cold, all this sorrow, pain, anxiety and expense could have been avoided. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its eures of colds, and can always be depended upon. Use it and the more serious diseases may be avoided. For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

Daily Thought. You leave an impression with every thought you think. Like tiny ripping rills of water they steal unconsciously out to mingle in the Great Ocean of Thought on which mankind travels.

Mrs. S. Jones, Claremont, N. H. writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy. It cured me of a severe case of kidney trouble for several years standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine and I heartily recommend it." For sale by all druggists.

How One Doctor Successfully Treats Pneumonia.

"In treating pneumonia," says Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., "the only remedy I use for the lungs is Chamber-lain's Cough Remedy. While, of course, and difference of the same set of the set of I would treat other symptoms with dif-ferent medicines, I have used this remedy many times in my medical practice and have yet failed to find a case where it has not controlled the trouble. I have used it myself, as has also my wife for coughs and colds repeatedly, and I most willingly and cheerfully recommend it as superior to any other cough remedy to my knowledge." For sale by Gco. C. Taggart.

You'd better put in nearly all large sizes. You see, I am starting out as economical as I can be. I think it must be so discour-aging for a man to have a woman spend his money on frivolous things. Now, as I was coming down the street I saw a big sale of hats-men's hats. They had been in the window and were a little soiled, but I found such a nice clerk, and he said if I got some of that "1910" soap it would make them look like new. Mr. Harris is very particular about his clothes. He won't wear trousers unless they are pressed. So I bought three of those hats. Don't you think they will last "Mr. Floorwalker, where are the gloves? Gentlemen's? Well, I hope he is, Why, he is my husband. Ob, I see what you mean! Yes, I want them for Mr. John Vincent Harris. "FIS year," said Cartwright firmly, "there are going to be no Christmas surprises in my I do not think in all this world its happy home-none of those like has ever been. No matter what I try to do, in spite pleasant little attempts at playing

Santa Claus which begin with sur pense and effort and end in mortiner tion and disappointment. I am going to take my wife downtown and let be pick out anything she wants within the limit of my spending capacity, and then I'm going to let her take me around and fix me up with a pair of pmbroidered suspenders or gold cuff links or any old thing she likes and that will make her happy. Neither of us has quite got over the effects of the last holiday season yet.

"You see, we had been married just long enough last Christmas to wear and most of our wedding gifts. Things were looking a little shabby around the house, so we both agreed that in selecting our little remem-brances for one another we ought to confine ourselves to something which would be mutually useful and attractive. Both of us had been secretly longing for a morris chair, one of those mission things with big leather cush lons that swallow you up in a delirium of comfort. Mrs. C. wanted it for the beauty of the library and her aft-ernoon slestas, and I wanted it for vening recreation.

"Months before the Christmas season I began putting by a little sum weekly, with the morris chair in mind. I wo weeks before the 25th I went down to a dealer's to look at chairs. I had been looking casually for weeks before, but it was not until I came apon this particular shop that I dissovered what I wanted. It was a beauty in the darkest and finest of weathered oak, with all attachments and a pair of fat, greeny brown leath-er cushions that fairly felt like pipe froams, laced with leather strappings and tied to the woodwork with thongs. The minute I saw the chair I knew it was for me, but the price was rather staggering. The dealer wanted $95 for it at first, and when I had got him down to $80 he acted as though he were giving the thing away. I thought it best to hold out a little, so I merely requested that he give me a day's op-tion on the chair and paid a small de-ing every penny, cutting down on the grocery bill and keeping me on cheap meats with Christmas in view. It seems that the, too, had a morris chair on the brain. On the afternoon of the same day on which I discovered my prize she strolled into the same shon The first sight of the chair was enough for her, and she offered to buy it on the spot. The dealer was inconsolable. He had sold the chair, he believed; at
