That Lame Back Means Kidney Disease

And to Relieve the Lame and Aching Back, You Must First Relieve the Kidneys

There is no question about that at all—for the lame and aching back is caused by a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder. It is only common sense, any way—that you must cure a condition by removing the cause of the condition. And lame and aching back are not by any means the only symptoms of derangement of the kidneys and bladder. There are a multitude of well-known and unmistakable indications of a more or less dangerous condition. Some of these are, for instance: Extreme and unnatural lassitude and weariness, nervous irritability, heart irregularity, "nerves on edge," sleeplessness and inability to secure refreshing sensation and sedation of the urine, inflammation of the bladder and passages, etc.

The Kidney and Bladder are an exceptionally meritorious remedy for any and all affection of diseased conditions of these organs. These Pills operate directly and promptly—and their beneficial results are at once felt.

They regulate, purify, and effectively relieve and restore the kidneys, bladder and liver, to perfect and healthy condition—even in cases of the most advanced cases.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill., want every man and woman who have the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder disease to at once write them, and a trial box of these Pills will be sent free by return mail postpaid.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dizziness around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.

THE LEGEND OF THE EGGS

CATHEDRAL bells with their low tones,
Their vibrant tones and their broken tongue,
Over the roofs of the city pour
Their joyous Easter music with joyous roar.

Till the soaring notes to the sun are rolled
As he swings aloft in his path of gold.

"Dearest papa," says my boy to me
As he merrily climbs his father's knee,
"Why are those eggs that you see me hold
Colored so finely with blue and gold?
And what is the beautiful legend that tells
Such beautiful eggs on Easter day?"

Tenderly mine the April skies,
Like laughter and tears, in my child's blue eyes,
And every face in the street is gay,
Why cloud this youngster by saying nay?
So I enaged my brain for the story he begs
And tell him the tale of the Easter eggs:

"You have heard, my child, of One who died,
Crowned with keen thorns and crucified,
And how Joseph, the wealthy, whom God reward,
Cared for the corpse of his martyred Lord
And piously tumbled it within the rock
And closed the gates with a mighty block.

"Now, close by the gate a fair tree grew,
With pendulous leaves and blossoms of blue,
And deep in the green tree's shadowy breast
A beautiful shining bird sat on her nest,
Which was bordered with mosses like malachite
And held four eggs of ivory white.

"Now, when the bird from her dim recess
Beheld the Lord in his burial dress,
And looked on the heavenly face so pale
And the dear feet pierced with the cruel nail,
Her heart with grief broke with a sudden pang,
And out of the depth of her sorrow she sang:

"All night long till the dawn was up
She sat and sang in her room wretched cup,
A note of sorrow as wild and sweet
As the lonesome wind when it comes the street.

"So fast she sang, so loud and true
That the spirit of the world was turned to dew,
"But soon there came through the weeping night
A brilliant angel clothed in white,
And he caught the strain from the tomb away,
Whence the Lord of the north and heaven came.

"And the angel, in the seventh hour,
And he bore the stone from the tomb,
"When he had done that act in the heart of the day,
He laid the stone in the garden of the day,
And he carried a sign on the middle of his breast,
Which showed the signs of the cross and the nail.

"The following night of the resurrection day
The angel came to the garden of the day,
And he laid the stone in the garden of the day,
Which showed the signs of the cross and the nail.

"And ever, my child, since that blessed night,
When the earth bowed down to the Lord of the light,
The eggs of that sweet bird changed their hue,
And burn with red and gold and blue,
Reminding mankind in their simple way
Of the holy marvel of Easter day."

—Fitz James O'Brien.

An Easter Transformation.
Lent's masques, clad in gray,
What a sort you are today!
Prim, demure or excessively shy,
Now your eyes turn toward the sky;

Easter merriment, clad in white,
What an onset is up sight!
In your eyes, smiles and merriment,
Now your eyes turn toward the light.

Easter merriment, clad in blue,
Once again a welcome you,
What a sort you are to see
Rejoice in the presence of me.

What Became of the Chicks?

On a certain day in the year there were a funny lot of little chicks out in the yard.

"Where did they come from?" asked Marjory.

The man who was digging in the culch beds said he thought they must have come out of the daffodils.

Then Marjory went into the kitchen to ask Mary Ann.

"Oh, sure, the moon sent them down on a little trip, they were so tired of eggs, even if it was game."

Marjory had always trusted her before, but somehow she was not quite satisfied, so she mounted the stairs slowly to the study.

"Where did they come from, papa?" she asked, pausing at the study door.

"Out of the everywhere into the here," quoted her papa dreamily.

Marjory turned away disappointed.

Papa, she knew, was in one of his whims. Sometimes she liked it very much, but today she wanted real things. She trusted up another flight of stairs to where her mamma was dressing the new baby.

Her mamma put her finger on her lips. "Hush, Marjory," said she, "come and tell mother quietly what it is." Marjory approached gently.

"The children, mamma?" she whispered. "where did they come from?"

Her mamma smiled tenderly. "Why," she said, "you seem to be very much disturbed about it. I think they must have come out of little shell houses.

"Then they are tried to be laid down my along about somewhere they want to break out of their little shells and get into the world. You know that's what you wanted to do all of the time as soon as it got over being winter. And so they try to get out into the garden day after day, just as you did when Mary Ann and I weren't looking."

"And where do you suppose they are going to, now that they are in the world, mamma?" said Marjory.

"Ah, Marjory, that is a very hard question," said her mamma. "Who knows, indeed?"

"Perhaps they will stay in the garden," suggested Marjory.

"Perhaps," said her mamma.

And if you want to find out what was really the final destiny of Mar-

Jory's chickens and what they at last become you can discover it by looking closely at the chickens' shell houses.

For the chickens believed in predestination, and their fate was written on their shells.

When you have found out the letters in which their fate was written put them together carefully and you will discover the chickens' destiny.—Alice Lathin.
