Physician's Maladies.

A French newspaper publishes some statistics showing the causes of death in the medical profession. The figures are impressive, but there is no indication as to the source of the information. We read that 44 per cent. die of heart disease, 20 per cent. from nervous affections, 20 per cent. from the morphia habit, and 7 per cent. from tuberculosis. The prevalence of morphia is ascribed to the fact that a doctor knows when his malady is incurable, and morphia is sought to soothe the mind.

For Cleaning Ivory Ornaments.

To clean ivory ornaments, first brush them well with a soft luke-warm vater and a little soap; then rinse them in water of the same tempera ture, dry with a cloth and a brush till the luster reappears. Pour a little alcohol upon the brush, and should the ivory have become yellow, drying it in a gentle heat is recommended. I have tried this process many times, and have always had the greatest success. -Woman's Home Companion.

On the Track.

A Burlington passenger train coming into St. Joseph had to stop and remove a sleeping man from the track A brakeman was left to hold the man and when the train reached the station a policeman was sent to arrest the track sleeper. He was running down the right of way with the brake-man hanging to his coattails with all brakes set.-Kansas City Star.

WILL ADORN BENCH | KNOX'S IDEAS TO TRIUMPH?

HUGHES EMINENTLY FITTED FOR THE SUPREME COURT.

At the Same Time It Will Be Regretted That a Man of His Attainments and Probity Is Removed From Politics.

It is a great, surpassingly great, tribute to any American to say that his appointment to a place upon the bench of the highest judicial tribunal in the world strikes his countrymen as in some sense—or degree—a waste of precious stuff, something less than the fullest and most vital utilizing of a great force for civic righteousness and na-tional well being. In view of the enormous power and influence of the Su-preme court it might well be argued that no man could ask a loftier sphere of labor than it gives, and yet Charles Evans Hughes will pass out of the more active, more political, phases of public life into the quiet and dignity of his new sphere of service, leaving his countrymen in doubt whether he ought to be spared, even for so exalted a station.

Governor Hughes will take to the bench of the court which has always impressed European students of American affairs as being the strongest feaof the federal government of the United States, the fullest and highest confidence of his fellow-citizens. The country will rejoice to know that so just and strong and fearless a man, so rare a combination of the clear brain and the unbending conscience, is to in judgment on legal questions ich reach, time and again, to the very heart and soul of American national life. There will be general and deep satisfaction with Charles E. Hughes as a justice of the Supreme court, but it will not prevent much regret that he can no longer be reckoned with as a great force in the active hurly-burly of public life.

For the governor of New York is an almost priceless leader on the side of righteousness. He can ill be spared from the battlefields of national politics. There ought to be two of him-one for the court where he has chosen his sphere of service, the other for the hard fighting of politics and the strenious affairs of state. But of the wisdom of President Taft's selection there can be no question. He could find no better man for the Supreme court.

Today There Seems to Be Strong Probability of the Establishment of International Court.

Washington dispatches represent Secretary Knox as most hopeful of the outcome of his proposal for the establishment of a permanent interna-tional court of arbitral justice. Reports regarding the attitude of the powers are understood to be most encouraging, so much so as to justify the expectation that before the next peace conference at The Hague in 1915 the arbitral court will be an accomplished fact.

The secretary cites an apt illustration of the present state of interna-tional society when he compares it to the conditions that existed in Cali-fornia after the discovery of gold. Then in the absence of courts every man carried a pistol with which to seek redress for his real or fancied wrongs. That is precisely the condition among the powers today, the great war establishments represent ing the pistols of the forty-niners. This chaotic and anarchistic system of individualism on the Pacific slope led to the creation of self-constituted committees who enforced the elementary rules of social life in the mining camps until ultimately they came to have the force of law. The proposed arbitral court will, it is expected, cre system of international law by judicial decision in the same way un til the world has a code for international as well as individual relation-

Mr. Knox believes that this court will be the first step toward the removal of the burden of militarism. With the substitution of law for force, of justice for war, there will be a de-creasing need for armament until ultimately it becomes as obsolete as the pistols of the forty-niners in the higher civilization of the California of to Administrations change and issue change. It is narrow for any former official to assume that his way of doany successor who departs from it is in the wrong. Impression on Childish Mind Was What Mother at First Failed to Understand.

Robert Saltsman, a prominent citizen of Erie, Pa., was in town the other day long enough to relate the strange church-going experience of his son Chester. The boy had been in the habit of going to church with his mother, but one Sunday she was unable to go, and he persuaded her to let him go by himself. Well, when he returned from the seat of Gospel dis-pensation his mother was anxious to ascertain how closely he had paid at-tention. She asked him what had been the text for the sermon.
"Don't worry, you'll get the quilt," replied the boy promptly.

The father failed to see the connection. Once more she inquired about the text, and the boy repeated his remark: "Don't worry, you'll get the quilt.'

This about convinced the mother that her son was getting a bit too fresh for so small a child, and she made up her mind to punish him. Just then she saw a friend going home from church, and she called after her

Whole Country Is Stirred. One of the most interesting reports at the recent meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis was that of the executive secretary, Dr. Livingston Farrand, showing the growth of the anti-tuberculosis movement since May 1. 1909. The number of associations for the prevention of consumption has increased from 290 to over 425; the number of sanatoria and hospitals for the treatment of tuberculosis is from 298 to 400; and the special tuberculosis dispensaries from 222 to 265. During the year 1909, thirty-six out of fortythree legislatures in session considered the subject of tuberculosis, and in 28, bills were passed for the prevention or treatment of this disease. Since the opening of the legislative season of 1910, out of ten legislatures in session up to May 1, all have considered the subject of tuberculosis and every one of them has enacted some law that bears on this

If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted - where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.
