CONFIDENCE

Webster says CONFIDENCE means the act of confiding, trusting or putting faith in, as in reality of a fact or the integrity and veracity of another. We regard honest and straight-forward statements as one of the essentials of good advertising. We feel satisfied that the making of misleading statements in ads is one of the most unwise methods which any concern can pursue. It has always been our aim to tell the plain truth and nothing else in our advertisements. We never exaggerate values, and by these methods we have won and expect to hold your CONFIDENCE.

Sudden Death.

John Rorke, aged 44, who has resided in Emporium for a year, being porter at Commercial Hotel and conducting a pop-corn stand, corner of Broad and Fourth, died suddenly last Saturday. The poor man has been in poor health for a long time, his mind at times wandering. For protection it was thought best to place him in care of the Sheriff Norris. Undertaker LaBar took charge of his remains, at the request of Mr. Chas. L. Butler, proprietor of Commercial Hotel who made every effort to locate the man's relatives. His wife came here on Wednesday from Olean and went back home to make arrangements to have the body removed to Olean for burial. As we go to press his remains are yet at Mr. LaBar's. Poor fellow; he made every effort to get along in this world. Let us throw the mantle of charity over him.

Increase in Alien Convicts.

One prisoner in every four prisoners in the State prisons of New York today is an alien, and the situation has been growing more and more serious for several years past. From 1906 to 1909 the population of these prisons increased 930, and over one-half of the increase were foreign born. Parenthetically it may be stated that Italy contributes 473 of the 1001 aliens now confined in these prisons.

But this is not the problem of New York State alone. In the 1908 report of the United States Commissioner General of Immigration it is to be found the interesting fact that in the penal institutions of the United States there were, according to this latest census, 15,323 criminals not naturalized.—"The Alien Peril," in the June Metropolitan Magazine.

Taken to Reformatory.

Frances Getchel, who recently plead guilty to the charge of robbery, was taken to the reformatory at Huntingdon, Pa., last Sunday night accompanied by Sheriff J. W. Norris.

The Other Side of It.

"It's no disgrace to fall if you have done your best," said the philosopher. "That may be so," replied the man who had failed. "But it's pretty tough to have to admit that the best you could do was fail."—Detroit Free Press.

The June Metropolitan.

The June METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE touches what is perhaps one of the sorest spots in the public body of the American Republic today in its leading article, "The Alien Peril." It gets at the heart of the problem of foreign-born criminals and points a way to a solution. "Back to the Land" is an old theory that is being put into practice during the last few years with new vigor. H. W. Collingwood sets forth the subject in a thoroughly practical fashion, showing how the city man may become a farmer to his advantage. One of the most interesting world topics of 1910 is the Passion Play. Montrose J. Moses tells METROPOLITAN readers "How the Passion Play Has Been Preserved," a scholarly but readable history of this unique drama, past and present. "A Visit to Washington in 1861-2," by Jasper Alban Conant, the artist, describes Washington in the darkest days of the war and furnishes some new anecdotes of Lincoln and his cabinet. Charles Belmont Davis describes a rehearsal of the circus in Madison Square Garden, New York.

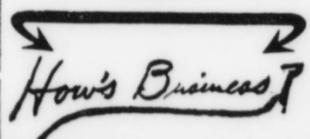

A special feature of the June METROPOLITAN is an increase in its number of stories which should give pleasure to summer fiction readers. Among the fiction contributors this month are: Stephen French Whitman, Mary Heaton Vorse, Leonard Merrick and Philip Hitchborn.

There are the usual departments of Books, Drama, Notes and Pictures, Humor and the World at large in picture.

TRADE MORAL—Introducing the buyer to the merchant is the purpose accomplished by our advertising columns. The integrity of both are vouched for.

THIS ad. is directed at the man who has all the business in his line in this community.

¶ Mr. Merchant—You say you've got it all. You're selling them all they'll buy, anyhow. But at the same time you would like more business.

¶ Make this community buy more.

¶ Advertise strongly, consistently, judiciously.

¶ Suppose you can buy a lot of washtubs cheap; advertise a big washtub sale in this paper. Put in an inviting picture of a washtub where people can see it the minute they look at your ad. Talk strong on washtubs. And you'll find every woman in this vicinity who has been getting along with a rickety washtub for years and years will buy a new one from you.

¶ That's creative business power.

LIKES THE SCHOOLS.

Prof. J. B. Johnson, a Veteran Educator Who Was Principal of Ridgway Schools 25 Years Ago.

Still Has Many Friends Here.

Ridgway Daily Record.

A little over a quarter of a century ago, the principal of the Ridgway borough schools was Prof. J. B. Johnson, a splendid teacher and a fine man, who still has many friends in Ridgway. Recently a lady in this place who was one of his pupils received a long and most delightful letter from her old friend Mr. Johnson, who is now seventy years old and retired from active life. He writes that he often thinks of his friends in Ridgway, and he hopes to come here for visit in a few months. Mr. Johnson went to the far west from here, where he bought some land on which he cleaned up enough profit to keep him comfortably the rest of his days. He is simply enjoying life now, and takes great pleasure in visiting schools. A recent issue of the Daily Idaho Press, of Wallace, Idaho, contains the following interesting story of Mr. Johnson:

Traveling from city to city and from schoolhouse to schoolhouse, with no other object in view than visiting all of the schools in the north-west, J. B. Johnson, an aged gentleman with flowing white beard, from Colfax, Wash., is in Wallace, making a visit to the schools here. He arrived last Tuesday and attended every session of the county institute, taking great interest in its work. This week he will visit all of the rooms in the city schools and observe the methods of teaching employed here.

Speaking of his journeyings this morning, Mr. Johnson said: "Well, sir, I just travel around and visit the schools for the pleasure I get out of it. I have been traveling for five years and during that time I have visited thousands of schools, and I see something new in each one. I taught school for 11 years and for nine years was county superintendent of schools in Pennsylvania. Moving to Washington, I was appointed by the school board there on a committee to visit and inspect the schools. I performed my task and liked the experience so much that I have spent my whole time since going from city to city in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California, and visited all of the schools. Before leaving this district I shall visit the schools in Mullan, Wardner, Burke and Mace, and possibly Murray."

"Do you expect to write a book telling of your experiences?" asked the reporter.

"No, sir, I just do it for the pleasure there is in it. When I go back to my home in Colfax the principal of the school there always asks me for a review of what I have seen and observed, but it would do no one any good so far as teaching is concerned. That must be seen and felt by the eye of the teacher and can not be read from books."

In appearance Mr. Johnson bears a clerical look, wearing a "Prince Albert" coat. He admits that many times he is taken for a Methodist preacher, but "I always plead not guilty to that charge," he said with a merry twinkle in his grey eyes.

He has retired from active duties of life and is just roaming through the country looking into the methods of imparting knowledge in different districts. He said people often think he is "crazy" for doing so, but he repeats that he derives great pleasure from it and expects to spend the remainder of his life with the same object in view.

[The above will be read with interest by many of our readers, "Joe" Johnson having for many years been a citizen of Cameron county. In fact he came here when he was a young man, married a daughter of Judge Freeman and took a lively interest in every publ matter. After serving here as County Supt. of Schools for three terms—nine years—he left here for Ridgway. Mr. Johnson was an energetic educational worker and "rooted" hard to make Cameron county forge to the front. His Teacher's Institutes were the talk of this section during those early dates, which we remember, being then a boy, with pleasure. His desertion of the grand old Republican party, in 1872, we will never forgive until he asks forgiveness from a higher power, and returns to his first love.]—EDITOR PRESS.
