A Pair of Democrats.

Bolting Democrat Berry, candidate for Governor, is daily giving evidence of his unfitness for the high office. Up to date he has no excuse for inflicting his presence upon the political platform other than that he has an itch for office and was so indignant because the Democrats in attendance at the regular Democratic convention ignored his ambitions that he concluded to run anyhow. Personal spleen and inordinant longing for political position furnish no valid arguments for the people to consider, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

There is another Democrat who also is a candidate for Governor—one Grim. Mr. Grim has the excuse that he is the regular candidate of a regular party, but in arguments why should he be elected he is almost as poorly off as his antagonist, the Bolting Democrat. Of course, he has the stock Democratic cry of "down with the tariff," which he used when speaking to the farmers at Chestnut Hill Park, on Wednesday, but upon local issues he was lacking. He told his auditors that he ought to be elected because Republican Governor Stuart vetoed the educational code, reduced the appropriations for dirt roads, and because Dr. Dixon's Department of Health is altogether too active in trying to keep the people well. That was the best—or the worst—that Grim could do.

Governor Stuart did not veto the educational code. He vetoed a miserable makeshift which had been patched up out of the odds and ends that the Legislature had left of the original measure. And having vetoed this poor apology he appointed a commission to take up the whole subject, and that commission has gone carefully over the whole ground and its report in the shape of a new bill will be presented when the Legislature meets in January.

The Governor was obliged to reduce the roads appropriation, but he did this with reluctance. He had a plan of his own for a splendid highway stretching right across the State, but he gave it up when he was confronted with general appropriations amounting to several million dollars more than the Treasury possessed. When members of the Legislature shall make up their minds that the time has come to stop handing around millions to private charities and private hospitals and shall devote the State's money to public institutions, there will be money for all such things as good roads as well as for penitentiaries, insane asylums and the like, now a disgrace to the State.

But Mr. Grim shows a singular lack of appreciation of excellent work when he criticizes the Department of Health over which Commissioner Dixon presides. In a few years this Department has taken a high rank. Indeed, it is a leader in the United States in sanitary matters. Its fight against tuberculosis has been magnificently conducted the very fact that Mr. Grim makes light of the Department shows either lack of knowledge or an inability to understand the worth of it. In either event, Mr. Grim does not size up to gubernatorial material.

Regular Democrat Grim and Bolting Democrat Berry cordially detest each other. And yet there is one thing that they share in common—unfitness to occupy the Executive Mansion of Harrisburg.

A Fool Trick.

When a man puts new rafters in the roof of his house thinking thereby to strengthen the foundation, he does a fool trick. It is just as foolish to take other remedies when a person needs Sorex Pills. When you need a tonic builder, there is no use taking anything else; for Sorex Pills do it in half the time, and do it twice as well. Price $1 a box, six boxes $5. Absolutely guaranteed. Address or call on R. C. Dodson, Druggist, Emporium, Pa., where they sell all the principal remedies and do not substitute.

A Pretty Card Table.
 A decorative card table is made by covering the unsightly green top of the ordinary table with figured cretonne, the figures of which harmonize in tone with the color theme of the room. An effective but more expensive covering is made from green watered silk.

The simplest coverings are of tan, white or colored linen, which is laundered easily and which is secured to the table top by means of linen tape tied to the four corners and about the table legs.

A Steady Drain.
 Sick kidneys weaken the whole body—make you ill, languid and depressed.

Sick kidneys weaken the body through the continual drainage of life-giving albumen from the blood into the urine, and the substitution of poisonous uric acid that goes broadcast through the system, sowing the seeds of disease. Loss of albumen causes weakness, languor, depression. Uric poisoning causes rheumatic pain, nervousness, nausea, cricks in the back, gravel and kidney stones. The proper treatment is a kidney treatment, and the best remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Great Emporium cures prove it.

Lee Halderman, Allegany Ave., Emporium, Pa., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and have found them to be a cure for backache and pains in the loins. I also know that this remedy acts as a tonic to the entire system."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents, Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
