Great O. A. B. C. Demonstration.

Perhaps no present-day movement among the Protestant Evangelical Churches has created a wider attention and interest than the one characterized by the initials, O. A. B. C., which stand for Organized Adult Bible Class. The movement is connected with the Sunday Schools of the country and is endorsed by all denominations. Our sister State (Ohio) on our western border leads the movement in the number of such classes.

Pennsylvania is a very close second. Within the last two years, 2,150 classes, with a membership of 66,844, have been organized. Bible study with the view of a personal, practical every day application, is the object.

A rally of the representatives of these classes will be held Friday, October 14th, at Altoona, in connection with the Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, October 12, 13, 14.

A street demonstration of the men's classes will be a feature of the day. It is expected that ten thousand men will participate. Ex-Governor Hanley of Indianapolis, Ind., will address the mass meeting following the street demonstration. His topic will be "Civile Evolution." Every County in the State will be represented in this demonstration.

Contents for October.

"The Life Story of J. Pierpont Morgan," which begins in the October Metropolitan, is described as a biography of the financier, rather than a theory of Wall Street or an argument about the money power. The first instalment gives many hitherto unpublished facts about Mr. Morgan's ancestry and early life. Another feature of the October issue is a new serial, "Mrs. Maxon Protests," by Anthony Hope. An authorized statement of President Taft's views on conservation introduces H. J. Whigham's article on "Guarding the People's Property," an account of what the Taft administration has accomplished for conservation. In "Fishing for Compliments" Wallace Irvin humorously describes the American craving for favorable comment on country from unsympathetic foreigners. What the working girl regards as proper and improper is picturesquely described by Miss Elizabeth H. Westwood in "Working Girls at Play." In "The Middleman," H. W. Collingwood shows the plight of the former under the present system of marketing his product. A well-illustrated art-article describes the work of one of the younger artists, J. Louis Mora. There are stories by Stephen French Whitman, Margareta Tuttle, Lily A. Long and Gerden Backus, and the usual departments of "Notes and Pictures," Humor, Books and Drama.
