The Republican party has nothing to be ashamed of in the new Tariff. It is an achievement that it can point to with pride, as time passes. Some few Republicans have simply lost their reason and the much talking of these few has given the country entirely erroneous ideas of the Tariff.—Cedar Rapids Republican.

War Veterans Club For Tener.

At a meeting of the War Veterans Club of Philadelphia, held at Logan Hall, Philadelphia, on Saturday, Oct. 1st, 1910, the following Preambles and Resolution were unanimously adopted:

Therefore be it

RESOLVED: That the War Veterans Club of Philadelphia hereby endorse Hon. John K. Tener for Governor, Hon. John M. Reynolds for Lieutenant Governor, Hon. The Delineator for November.

With its November number the Delineator celebrates its fortieth anniversary. When the magazine issued its first number to illustrate the fashions, women wore hoopskirts and shawls, queer bonnets and quaint coiffures. Some of the early pictures are reproduced in the current issue of the magazine, which has developed marvelously along all lines until it now offers the best in literature, while it speaks authoritatively concerning all that pertains to the art of dressing well.

In this anniversary number, Mabel Potter Daggett recalls incidents "When the Delineator Was Young," beginning with the story of how Mrs. Butterick stopped sewing on her baby's dress, one evening long ago, to suggest to her husband that women would be glad to have patterns for their children's clothes. Charles Hanson Towne reviews the "Noted Contributors to the Delineator," among whom are many of lasting fame, and Honore Willis describes "The Street The Delineator Lives On"—a street in which numerous historic characters once dwelt.

Erman S. Ridgway in his editorial department, "Conversazione," announces that in celebration of its fortieth anniversary the Delineator will make a thorough investigation of the legal status of dependent children in every State as a step toward improving conditions.

One of the leading articles of the month is "The Passion for 'As Good As,' by David Graham Phillips, a startling arraignment of extravagant women. Louis V. DeFoe writes of "The Actor's Other Self," and Anne Forsyth tells about her third "place" in her venture, "Seven Times a Servant."

The fiction includes "From Generation to Generation," by Kate Jordan, and "Lovers," by James Oppenheim.

Why Not Make it Unanimous?

A Democratic neighbor at our elbow asked us recently "Why cannot we make Hon. Josiah Howard's election unanimous" by giving him the solid vote of this county in return for the good will he has manifested for the up-building of our county, his liberality and almost daily labor in our behalf. He could sit down and attend to his large business affairs and make more money, but he elects to work, in many ways, for a greater county and for every cause that will help his neighbor.

The position he occupies to day in legislative affairs, by hard and incessant work, has fitted him for honors of a higher sphere and it is now up to Cameron county voters to help our county by voting solidly for Hon. Josiah Howard for Assembly, regardless of party, knowing that he will manfully represent every citizen of the county, regardless of party.

A Demagogue in Action.

The citizen who forms his opinion in politics deliberately and with regard to the facts has been hampered somewhat in the present campaign by abuse and misrepresentation from the third party candidate for Governor. The tempestuous Mr. Berry has endeavored to confound the voter with a view to forcing him to base his judgment not upon the issues nor upon the relative merits of the candidates, but upon sensational charges and other specious and deceitful arts employed by the office-hungry demagogue, says the Philadelphia Star.

Berry's campaign is an insult to every self-respecting Republican in this State. By skillfully made charges, insinuations, innuendoes and reckless falsification he hopes to deceive the people and secure an office. Instead of meeting the voters with honest discussion of the issues he appears as the apostle of abuse and invective. Throughout the campaign his methods have been those of a demagogue. After the most reckless statements he will shrewdly admit, "Now, I am not prepared to furnish evidence that would stand in any court of justice."

Repeatedly Mr. Berry has said: "John K. Tener was nominated at the dictation of the liquor interests."

This statement does not contain a syllable that is true. John K. Tener was nominated by a convention of delegates representing the great Republican hosts of this Commonwealth. These delegates did not act at the dictation of the liquor men nor of anybody else. They nominated Mr. Tener because they knew him to be able and honest and because they considered him the most available candidate for the office of Governor. He was nominated without a dissenting vote and the liquor interests had absolutely nothing to do with the convention's action.

The alleged protection of vice in Philadelphia is another favorite theme of the office-hungry candidate. His charges are vague. He merely repeats the scandalous statements of others and smaller office-hungry candidates who have endeavored to do in Philadelphia what Mr. Berry is now attempting to do in the State. But, even if Mr. Berry's charges possessed an element of truth, the fact would remain that John K. Tener is not a candidate for the office of Mayor of Philadelphia, but a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania.

Berry is following the same line of attack he utilized when a candidate for State Treasurer five years ago. In that campaign the people of Pennsylvania were stricken aghast at his charges of amazing corruption in city and State. From newspaper and stump the wild dissemination of scandal went on until a majority of the people elected Berry State Treasurer.

He received their votes under pledge to reveal and correct the abuses that he alleged existed. One by one the scandalous statements he had made on the stump were proven to be without foundation.

A Generous and Charitable Wish.

The Farmers For Tener.

The most satisfactory political meetings Representative Tener is attending on his tour of the State are those at which his audiences are composed largely of farmers. Mr. Tener has delivered several addresses at county fairs and at other gatherings patronized by farmers and dairymen. These meetings have been notable for Republican enthusiasm. The Pennsylvania farmer understands perfectly the issues of the campaign, and, therefore, is entirely unresponsive to the blandishments of the demagogue. This year, as usual, an overwhelming majority of the rural voters will support the Republican Party. That party in Pennsylvania and in the nation invariably has responded to the demand of the farmer for legislation that will advance his welfare.

This will be a big year for the farmer. He is assured of fine crops and good prices. The industrial supremacy of the Keystone State and its tremendous mining interests overshadow its agricultural importance. Many Pennsylvanians do not realize that this is one of the largest wheat growing States. This year, according to the estimates, the wheat crop of Pennsylvania will amount to thirty millions of bushels. This production will be exceeded only by the five great wheat-growing States of the North-west. In this State are 225,000 farms and many farmers do not raise wheat. Only two or three States exceed Pennsylvania in the value of its dairy products.

The duty of the Pennsylvania farmer this year is perfectly clear. He should talk for the Republican ticket until November 8th and then vote for it. In the revision of the tariff the farmers demanded protective duties on agricultural products and got them—from the Republican party. No other American producer was so well cared for in the revision of the tariff. Naturally, the farmers of Pennsylvania are grateful for what has been done for them by the Republican Party, and they are anxious to give expression to their appreciation. They can do this in an emphatic manner by joining the Republican hosts who will record an unprecedented majority for the Republican ticket.

Mr. Tener's candidacy has proven very popular among the Pennsylvania farmers. His home is in a rural county and he understands thoroughly the requirements of residents of rural districts. He is an earnest advocate of the general extension of the good roads system and other projects with which the farmer is directly concerned. In the majority for the Republican ticket every farmer in Pennsylvania should be included.
