

Besieged by Fabled Cats.

It is said an enterprising Yankee, having bought an island in the Ohio River, has stocked the same with black cats, intending to go into the fur trade. This reminds us of a similar experiment, which was made many years ago by a gentleman who resided in Maryland. The idea struck him that the fur trade was so lucrative it would be much better to raise animals nearer home than the regions of the North, and accordingly purchased an island in the Chesapeake Bay, stocking it with the blackest of black cats. He paid extravagant prices for felines, and all the boys in the adjacent country went extensively into the business of entrapping unsuspecting Tommies and Tabbies, which were immediately disposed of and sent to the aforesaid island.

The gentleman found the cats were prolific, and was soon compelled to employ two men to live on the island and fish with a seine, in order to supply them with food. At first, the fishermen had quite an easy time, and readily supplied fish in abundance for their charges; but the number daily increased, until whole legions of black cats trooped over the island home, devouring everything in the shape of food, and the men found it impossible to furnish the requisite amount of nourishment. At last it was determined that one of the men should take boat, and returning to the mainland, report the alarming state of affairs. During the absence of the messenger, the cats became exceedingly bold, and the remaining party, fearing for his life, locked himself up in his cabin and prepared for a siege.

The enemy, emboldened by his display of fear, and urged on by hunger, surrounded the house, climbed up the sides, staring in at the afflicted man through the windows and apertures, keeping up the while the most hideous cawing. He carefully stopped up every crevice save the chimney, but, hearing and seeing an ominous falling of feet, which disclosed a determination on part of the besieging force to effect a surprise, he closed that opening also, and Micawber-like, waited for "something to turn up." For two days and nights he was kept in this singular prison, with the dreadful howls of furnishing cats ever resounding in his ears, and with savage eyes glaring at him continually.

At length a party arrived with guns and succeeded in securing the man from his truly awful position, but so numerous were the cats, so fierce their aspect and threatening their demeanor, that both the rescuers and the rescued were only too glad to leave this pandemonium of jet black cats, gaunt and ferocious as they were from starvation. The animals, we believe, all perished, and thus ended one of the most extensive cat-rearing ventures ever recorded. The individual who has started a cat plantation on the island in the Ohio River may have the benefit of the experience related above, free of cost.

A BOILING LARE.—In Monitor Valley, California, a short distance from Humphrey's station, there is a singular boiling cauldron now known as Diana's bowl. In the centre of a low, round hill, composed of sedimentary matter, there is a natural bowl about seventy feet in diameter, and apparently sixty or seventy feet in depth. At the bottom there is a large volume of scalding water constantly in active ebullition. The water is so remarkably pure that a stone thrown into it is seen descending with a spiral motion to a great depth, being gradually drawn toward the point where the spring issues to be sent from the rocks beneath. The most singular feature about this hot spring is that it does not appear to have any outlet, and yet it does not seem to vary. The surface of the water is some twenty feet lower than the rim of the bowl, and can be reached only by the aid of a rope.
