

Democratic State Ticket. FOR AUDITOR GENERAL: HON. CHARLES E. BOYLE, Of Fayette County. FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL: GEN. WELLINGTON H. ENT, Of Columbia County.

REMOVAL. We design removing the Freeman office to the building recently occupied by Mr. D. A. Conrad, dec'd, on High street, and may find it impossible to issue a paper next week, but shall do our best to accomplish that feat.

Political Cleanings and Nothings.

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that the required majority was not obtained for the new Constitution of Alabama, Congress has determined to admit the State into the Union and receive its Senators and Representatives without further parley. So goes the work of reconstruction. Anything that promises to keep the Radicals in power will be done by the Rump conspirators, though common decency and common sense, to say nothing of the Constitution and laws of the country, are outraged by such proceedings.

The Harrisburg Patriot and Union very pertinently suggests that the Radical Convention committed a great oversight in neglecting to exact a pledge from Auditor General Hartranft and Surveyor General Campbell, requiring a closer attention to official duties, if elected. Monthly visits of a few days are hardly sufficient for the high salaries allowed.

WENDELL PHILLIPS, in a letter to the Anti-Slavery Standard, says that "to have impeachment fail, would be a national infamy, in the black darkness of which the mere annihilation of the Republican party would be but a trivial matter." It is a pity, observes the New York Times, that Mr. Phillips is not in the Senate.

The Democrats in New Hampshire, at the late election, reduced the Radical majority one thousand and forty-two votes, gained for their own ticket over four thousand, and made a net gain of twenty-four Representatives in the Legislature.

What will be the inevitable results of a continuation of the present revolutionary party in power? First, chronic riot, then loss of confidence, then decay of capital, then blood, then segregation of sections, or else a military empire.

STANTON offered to draft a veto message for the President, showing the unconstitutionality of the Tenure-of-office Bill, under which he now claims to hold his place.

The Radical State Convention, which assembled in Philadelphia on Wednesday of last week, re-nominated Hartranft and Campbell, by acclamation, as candidates for Auditor and Surveyor Generals, and declared its preferences for Grant and Curtin as the nominees of the party for President and Vice President.

The New Hampshire Election.

Last year the Republicans carried the State by a majority of 3,140; now they have carried it by a majority of about 2,000. Full returns have not been received, but enough is known to show that the Republican loss is about 1,000.

Notwithstanding this great falling off in a little New England State, situated in a remote corner of the Union, having scarce any intercourse with the other States, and to which there is no emigration, the Republicans are everywhere rejoicing at the result, and showing by their joy that they were looking for a total overthrow.

As the Republicans lose in the stiff, unyielding Granite State, they will lose more largely among the quick, various, mobile, and mercantile populations of the Central and Western States.

At the same time that we have been making small and slow gains in New Hampshire, the general drift of the town elections in New York and other States shows great Democratic gains, won without eloquence and without effort.

The N. Y. Journal of Commerce thus concludes an article upon the result of this election: "Practically, as we have said, the result of the election will have no weight in the settlement of the great questions before the country. If the Radicals had made up their minds before the election to impeach Andrew Johnson, they will impeach him now; and as they would have impeached him if the State had gone Democratic, the party necessity for the act might have appeared all the more desperate had the Democrats been victorious.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON THE SUPREME COURT.—A bill taking from the Supreme Court all original and appellate jurisdiction in cases arising under the reconstruction laws was hurried through both Houses of Congress on Wednesday.

A very important measure passed both Houses to-day which demonstrated beyond doubt the general belief of the Radicals that the Supreme Court will decide the reconstruction acts unconstitutional; but the manner of its passage is probably without precedent.

In the House late this afternoon the Judiciary Committee reported back a Senate bill regulating appeals to the Supreme Court in certain internal revenue cases, with an amendment substantially providing that the Supreme Court shall not have original or appellate jurisdiction in cases arising under the Reconstruction laws that may be now before it or to come up in future.

In 1867 the House of Representatives of New Hampshire stood: Radicals 292; Democrats, 128; Radical majority, 74. In 1868 the same body stands: Radicals, 192; Democrats, 138; Radical majority, 54. A Democratic gain of twenty members of the lower house in one year is a portion of the Radical victory in New Hampshire, which they are calling upon their adherents to celebrate.

The New York papers describe the distress existing in that city as vast and heart-rending. The number of persons in receipt of out door relief is upward of forty thousand, but the measures adopted, which they fail to meet the need, are actually increasing the amount of pauperism and are demoralizing the district.

Two boys, respectively about fourteen years of age, stole a yacht at Portland, provisioned it well and set sail for England, but were picked up about five miles outside the harbor by the revenue cutter and brought back.

Ben Wade, and So Forth.

If Andrew Johnson should be removed from office, Benjamin F. Wade will not only serve as President for a time, he will be made the Republican candidate for Vice President; and if the Chicago Convention were put off for a few months, he would contest the nomination for the first place on the ticket with General Ulysses S. Grant himself.

When a man talks that way look him in the face and you look in the face of a penitentiary bird. I would not trust such a man as that in my sheep pasture after dark. None but a Democratic demagogue would have the face to propose such a thing.

He added, however, that if money matters should become easier so that we could take up the old bonds and issue new ones, he would prefer that they should be taxed.

As to Wade's opinion of Grant, we quote from Mack's letter, dated at Jefferson, Ashtabula county, November 2, 1867, "A day with Ben Wade." "Referring to Presidential matters, Mr. Wade said it had looked to him for a year past as if the Republican party would take Grant up for President, and run him in with a hurrah. He was sorry to see that disposition, and believed no good would come of it."

"I have tried to do it," said he, "but I never could bring him out. When I saw the popular current beginning to run in his favor, I thought I would like to know how he stood on the great question before us—whether he was for Johnson or Congress, or what the devil he was for; but I never could get anything out of him. As quick as I'd talk politics he'd talk horses, and he could talk for hours on that without getting tired. Well, horses are very good, but in these times a man may be all right on horse and all wrong on politics!"

The Radical "Star Chamber" convened in Washington yesterday, and the President appeared by counsel, and made application for a delay of forty days, in order that the defense might be prepared in a proper manner. This reasonable request was opposed by Mr. Bingham, the lead inquisitor, who urged immediate action.

A Louisville paper says: "The discovery of a new gold mining region, superior to that of California in its palmist days, within fifty miles of Louisville, in Kentucky, will shortly create an excitement far beyond anything ever witnessed in this section. We are not at liberty to name the locality at present."

A LOND CAPTIVITY AMONG THE INDIANS.—The Emporia (Kansas) News says: "Jane Proctor, who was captured by the Cheyenne Indians about twenty years ago, while on the road to California, is now stopping at the house of Norvel Kelley, a few miles east of this place. She is twenty-four years old, being captured at the age of four. At the late fight between the Cheyennes and Kawas, near Fort Laramie, Jane made her escape, and came down to this region with the Kawas. Of course she had suffered a great deal, but was with the Indians so long that she became accustomed to their mode of living. She has been sold often, and has spent her time with various tribes, roaming over the country and leading a terrible life. Her brother, who was older, remains with the Indians, having married among them. Miss Proctor says there was always a number of captives with the Indians, and hence she has preserved a tolerable knowledge of the English language. Miss Proctor thinks some of her family live in Southern Kansas, somewhere, and would like to have information concerning them. Her father's name is B. B. Proctor."

Some persons at Acton, Ohio, took a half-idiotic lad belonging to Cincinnati, and after stripping him, blacked him from head to foot, then nailed him up in a box labelled "live stock," and despatched it by express to Cincinnati. On the way the poor creature made a noise which attracted the attention of the expressman, and he was taken out nearly dead from suffocation. Such inhuman wretches deserve to be wiped from the face of the earth.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

A tract of good Virginia land was recently sold at $1 per acre. —January was the coldest month in Minnesota for forty-eight years.

—Barnum gives notice that he has retired forever from the museum business. —The people everywhere, with the exception of those fellows who expect office from drunken Ben Wade, condemn the Rump impeachment infamy.

—An old gentleman named Lewis, aged seventy-two, was married in Peoria, to a Mrs. Parker, on Thursday evening last. The latter is in her sixty-ninth year.

—It is a singular fact that no President, except those chosen by the Democracy, has, since the time of John Quincy Adams, lived out the term for which he was elected.

—Col. Shepherd, of Washington county, Texas, has realized $30,000 from an investment of only $900 in sheep five years ago. Sheep raising is profitable in the "Lone Star" State.

—Grant's father tells the Ledger that Ulysses once worked for four years on a farm given him by his wife's father, and at the end of the time was poorer than when he began. Uncle Sam's farm does not need that treatment.

—Congressman Washburne, of Indiana, who had his trousers captured at Memphis during the war, delicately describes a Democratic speaker as "a man so low down that it would require a miracle of the Almighty to raise him to the level of total depravity."

—The annual election in Casco, Maine, held on the 9th, resulted in the choice of a board of officers for the ensuing year, all of whom are Democrats.

—Ritualism is bearing fruit in England. A London journal announces that a few weeks since "seven ladies belonging to an Anglican Sisterhood in the northeast of London were received into the Catholic Church, and that the establishment to which they belonged will have to be broken up."

A Louisville paper says: "The discovery of a new gold mining region, superior to that of California in its palmist days, within fifty miles of Louisville, in Kentucky, will shortly create an excitement far beyond anything ever witnessed in this section. We are not at liberty to name the locality at present."

—It having been stated in a Detroit paper that large numbers of young men in that city were out of employment, a gentleman just across the Canada line writes that he will employ one hundred of them in cutting wood at five shillings a cord in gold, and others will do as much.

—The largest pendulum in existence is said to be that which regulates a new clock at St. George's Church, New York. The pendulum in question is 35 feet long, and vibrates in three seconds. The weight on it is 300 pounds, and is 4 feet long by 7 inches in diameter. The clock has only three wheels in what is called the "going train."

—On Sunday afternoon the rear car of a construction train on the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad ran off the track when about eight miles north of Grand Rapids. The car contained about thirty passengers at the time, eight or ten of whom were injured. Alfred Mayhew, of Grand Rapids, undertook to save himself by jumping from the train, when he was caught under the car as it was overturned, and instantly crushed to death.

—A novel law suit came off a few days ago, at Miles Point, Carroll county, Mo., before a Justice of the Peace, to decide the ownership of a colt. Fifteen witnesses were examined on each side, and all swore positively to the ownership. The verdict of the jury was to put up the colt and sell it to the highest bidder to pay costs. The colt brought forty dollars, costs thirty-eight dollars. The surplus was divided equally between the plaintiff and defendant.

—The Canton Republican publishes the following: "James G. Rothenswite, of Bucyrus, Ohio, while chopping in the woods Monday morning knocked a wedge out of a partially split log, but neglected to take his fingers out at the same time. The log closed upon his hand and held Mr. R. all day until sundown, when as he was beginning to yield to the drowsiness preceding death by freezing, he was rescued. His hands and feet were badly frozen."

FARM FOR SALE.—The subscriber offers at Private Sale his valuable FARM, situated in Cambria township, two miles east of Edensburg, on the road leading to Loretto. The farm consists of 80 Acres, more or less, about 54 Acres of which are cleared, under good fence, and in good state of cultivation.
