JOHNSTOWN, May 4, 1868. Dear Freeman-Under the combined influence of Forepaugh's circus and pay-day at the Mill our town was reasonably lively last week, and the customary little set-to's 13 Osborne & and big drunks were among the usual order of exercises. A light-fingered female was sent up in default of bail for robbing a lady on the street of her pocket-book, which con tained about two dollars in money.

Two birds were caged on Saturday night for taking on a rather elongated cargo ef lightning benzine. Being daly repentant next morning, they were permitted to depart after making a deposit of several dollars each in the hands of the Burgess.
