Even were this not the case, I would not consent to a bill which is based upon the assumption either that by an act of rebelion of a portion of its people the State of Arkansas secoded from the Union, or that Congress may at its pleasure expel or exclude a State from the Union, or interrupt the Government, by arbitrarily depriving it of representation in the Sonate and House of Representatives. If Arkansas is a State not in the Union, this bill does not admit her as a State into the Union. If on the other hand Arkansas is a State in the Union, no legislation is necessary to declare her entitled to representation in Congress as one of the States of the Union. The Constitution already declares that "each State shall have at least one Representative," that the Senate "shall be composed of two Senators from each State ;" and "that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage. in the Senate." That instrument also makes each House the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and therefore all that is now necessary to restore to 'the Government is a decision by each presenting their credentials, claim seats in the plain and simple plan of the Corstitution, and believing that had it been pursued when Congress assembled in the month of December, 1865, the restoration of the coal barges swept away. States would long since have been complenot only of at least doubtful constitutionality, and therefore unwise and dangerous as a precedent, but is unnecessary, and not so about to be admitted as one of the United States, than a State which has occupied a place in the Union for upwards of a quarter of a century. The dumb candidate and representative of the bandholders, General Grant, is said to be getting restive and occasionally reaches for an inkstand. This is checked by his trainers, and the policy of "wouldo't you like to know" remains for the people. It is said he will be hurried off to Utah or some other out of the way place until after the election. What a pitiable condition a party must be in, with a candidate too stupid or afraid to give an opinion, and the party itself afraid or unwilling to speak out. They may think they are humbugging the people, but they
