An unexpected bit of information is sometimes elicited by this literal understanding of questions, as when a Sabbath school teacher was attempting to teach a very small boy the meaning of wages in the passage, "The wages of sin is death," and asked him, What does your father get on Saturday night!" "Drunk, ma'am," answered the boy, without any hesitation.

This same literal turn of mind which I have been illustrating, is sometimes used intentionally, and perhaps a fittle malicious-ly, and thus becomes the property of wite instead of blunderers. Thus we hear of a very polite and impressive gentleman who said to a youth in the street, "Boy, may I inquire where Robinson's drug store is? "Certainly, sir," said the boy, very respectfully. "Will, sir," said the gentleman, after waiting awhile, "Where is it?" "I haven't the least idea, your honor," said the urchin. There was another boy who was accosted by an ascetic, middle-aged lady with, 'Eoy, I want to go to Dover street," "Well, ma'am," said the boy. "why don't you go there then ?"
