DEAR FRIEMAN-It becomes my painful duty to inform you of one of the most distressing occorrences which it has ever been our lot as a community to mourn over, for by it has been respected by all as few men are loved and respected in this selfish world. On Friday evenig last Peter Kinney, Jr., son of our venerable nd much esteemed neighbor, Peter Kinney, Sr. was returning from Johnstown, accompanied by his mother, when the team ran into a deep ditch by the road side, causing the wagon in which they were riding to upset, and the wagon attempted to raise the box sufficient to tion, for when found his head was proteuding from between the hind end gate and the bottom ping down of the end gate when he raised the lay partly on the box, soon put an end to his struggles. His mother, strnngo to tell, was un-

It would be useless for my humble pen to try to portray the gloom and grief this sad occurnce has brought to our entire community, for Mr. Kinney was widely known, and highly es teemed by all who did know him Upright, the two races, could easily have painted 'em | honest and straightforward in all his dealings, one color, if he had wanted 'cm to be one he won the confidence of those who had busi people. But when we come to the nearer and dearer associations of school mate and friend, we find a stronger and more tender chord snapped asunder than generally binds human beings together. His apparent study to avoid giving offence or causing pain. his manly method of advocating his avowed principles in his mild but firm manner, and his Murray Robert, laborer, Cambria township, close attention to his duty, be it what it might, caused him to be regarded by us, his young associates, with feelings such as animate a broth er's heart. It can be truly said that he left not one enemy on earth. It was a touching tribute to his memory and many virtues to see the immense concourse of people that followed his remains to their last resting place. He was interred in the Catholic cemetery at Johnstown vesterday, (Monday, 26th.) His mourning and bereaved friends have the deep and heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.
