[From the Phila. Sunday Mercury.] THE WAY THE MONEY GOES. Wife, Accidentally Overheard.

BY PRIER PEPPERCERN.

"I have a little private business." School for Scandal "Everything is ready for you." Labella; Act 5th, Scene

Batd John unto his wife one day : My darling, I suppose You'd think I ought not to inquire Which way the money goes. I earn twelve dollars every week-

There is but you and me-And out of it, I must confess, I very little see. "Therefore begin to reakon up, The secret disclose;

For I am anxious to find out Which way the money goes." Said she: "My dear, I pray keep cool, And don't begin to frown, But get your pencil and your slate, And put each item down.

"I guarantee to give account For every peany spent; First put one dollar down for coal, And three and a half for rent. "Commence, my dear, to calculate, And I will soon disclose, And give you a correct account

Which way the money goes. "Five pounds of beef, at thirty cents, One dollar fifty more; One, for molasses, cakes and bread, I purchase at the store; One pound of butter, seventy cents; Fifteen for salt and rice; One ten for coffee, milk and tea;

Five cents a week for spice; "For cheese next put a quarter down, And then segars, my dear, For sixty cents you weekly spend In those and lager beer;

Now twenty cents for coal oil add, And thirty for sugar, too, And don't forget to add five more For soda, starch and blue; "Potatoes and cabbage, forty cents-

I have to squeeze things hard-Two cents for a box of matches, And twenty more for lard, For blacking add ten cents a box, And five more for black lead, And put thirty-eight for soap, Tape, needles, pins and thread;

"Next twenty cents for kindling wood-The fire to light each day-And last of all, five cents a week I for the paper pay; There's other little items which None but a woman knows;

Now from your wages twenty cents Is all that's left for clothes." "I find," said John, "you are correct; I vow upon my life,

I never knew before that I Had such a frugal wife I love you better than before; Beside I am content. How very little husbands know Which way the money's spent."

Cot Bettys all take warning by The moral of my tale; Unless your wife should claim the pants, Her conduct don't assail; Avoid black looks and angry words, Which often lead to blows, And never ask a faithful wife Which way the money goes.

STRANGE VICISSITUDES IN THE LIFE OF GEN. SHERMAN -Strange, indeed, are the ups and downs of life. We cannot judge by appearances, The vicissitudes of the world's affairs, the caprices of fortune, the accidents of events are beyond foresight.

The Leavenworth, Kansas, Commercial tells the following story about the life of Gen. Sherman :

On the first day of January, 1859, three lawyers formed a copartnership in this city, and opened an office in the secand story of a tottering old frame building on the east side of Main, between Delaware and Shawnee streets. "Sherman, Ewing & McCook," so read the sign .-Wm. T. Sherman; his brother-in law, Tom. Ewing, now a citizen of Washington; and Dan. McCook, (afterward mortally wounded at Kenesaw, while leading his brigade), constituted the firm. Ewing dabbled largely in real estate at that time, and mixed considerably in politics. McCook attended chiefly to the court business, and Sherman was left to do the honors of the office. There "Captain Sherman' shone in all his glory, Seated on his rickety chair, with his feet on the smoky stove, he talked by the hour to his friends, who habitually loafed about the Everybody liked Captain Sherman, and Sherman liked good listeners; hence he had plenty of company. He was a good talker, and very entertaining.

He never tried but one case. That was an action of ejectment before 'Squire Whitney, who then had a subterranean office under the corner of Second and Delaware. Colonel B. was for plaintiff, Sherman for the defense. Sherman got badly beat. B. wound him up, and wound him down and scooped him on every point.

After the war the General was asked if he remembered the case. "Yes," said he, "old B. beat me all to pieces in that lawsuit in the afternoon, but that night I beat him."

"How was that ?" "You see it was an action for possession. My client was a poor Irishman, who had leased a lot, and put up a shanty on it. He failed to pay the rest on ithence the action. After we were beaten before the justice, we immediately rented the lot adjoining, and that night my client moved his shanty over on to it." Sherman soon became disgusted with the law. The partnership had lasted but a couple of months, when he was offered a professorship in the Louisiana State Military School, which he gladly accepted.

to keep it : the more you spend the richer you will be; indeed, it sets at defiance the whole of Franklin's code of proverbs, and proves poor Richard a silly fellow .-Imagine Jones lecturing his wife on her economy, and reproaching her for a spirit of saving. "My dear, if you had bought this camel's hair shawl thirty years ago, it would be now a source of income to us; if you had not been so close we should now be wealfhy," he says. Smith acquires an independence by giving his children an expensive outfit; and sees, in every new dress or costly jewel which his growing daughters wear, a new mine of wealth for himself. If he can only persuade them to spend enough, he is sure of a support in his old age.

COLD COMFORT -An old missionary, who length compelled to return, his influence all gone and his mission entirely fruitless. A young man, who was just fledging into the ministerial status, was appointed in his place, and before he went to his assignment he thought he would visit his venerable predecessor and learn from him the cause of his trouble in the land of icebergs. The old man received him very cordially.

"My venerable brother," said the young man, "I wish you to tell me the cause of your difficulty that I may avert a like failure. Must I preach them a hell that is "No, my young friend," said the old missionary, laying his hand on his brother's arm; "no, that was the rock I split on. I preached it very warm to them, and they House Burner, with Glass Cone, for giving rather liked the idea of going there. I more light than any other in use. Also, the think if you preach them a hell fifty degrees colder than Labrador you will drive them all to repentance."

"SAM, did-did you (hic) see anything of my wife ?" "I have not the honor of knowing your wife, sir." "Don't apologize, Sam, don't apo-apohic!-ligize. I i-it's no honor whatever .-Didn't see ber ?"

"I did not." "How ver know ver didn't? She-she's as tail as a (hic) meetin' house and broad as a lamp-post, a-and she wears a gingum umberreller and one eye out, and (hic!) her nose is done up in a pair of specs. Didn't

"No, sir!" (emphatically) "That's all right Sam, that's all right .-M-m-mer ly asked frinfamashun. She (bic) she said she was gold' to join a Sory-ory sis, and if she does I mean to get staven' blind drunk. Wouldn't you ?"

To CURE A FELON .- It is said that a poltice of onions applied morning, noon and night, for three or four days, will cure a felon. No matter how bad the case, lancing will be unnecessar; if the poultice is applied. The remedy is a sure, safe and speedy one. So says some one who pretends to know. If a genuine remedy it is worth circulating.
