JOHNSTOWN, May 17, 1869. Dear Freeman-Wirt Sikes was here on Saturday night lecturing on "After dark in New York." He looked like one that knows his subject practically.

CARROLLTOWN, May 17, 1869. Dear Freeman-Yesterday (Whit Sunday) was a great day in this place, being the occasion of some seventy young children receiving, for the first time, the sacrament of the Eucharist. For several weeks past they had been undergoing the necessary preparatory instruction, at the hand of the ather Prior and his assistants, and on Sunday an immense crowd from the town and the surrounding country assembled at the church, the annual admission of children who are sufficiently advanced to receive for quite a grand celebration. It was indeed ever been built in this country, and is said an edifying sight to see thirty-six little girls and thirty-four boys-the former dres-ed in spotless white, emblematic of on from the public school building to the church, preceded by our excellent brass band. The weather was very unpropitious until a few minutes previous to the time fixed for the starting of the procession, when suddenly the threatening clouds disappeared and the sun came out warm and glorious. It seemed as it God had lent one of his brightest smiles to irradiate the scene and to make more glad the innocent hearts of the happy children. I would like to dwell upon the imposing services held within the church, but it would be intruding too much upon your valuable space. It was a day long to be remembered not only by the children and their parents, but also by the large assemblage of worshippers present.

Early vesterday morning quite a violent hail storm prevailed in this locality, but I believe no serious damage resulted from it. A large quantity of hail fell, most of the stones being about the size of hickory nuts. Miss Rose Griffen, a most accomplished teacher, has opened a subscription school in this place, and the daily attendance aggregates fifty scholars.

The invention referred to exactly meets this want, and has just been patented by the inventor, Mr. J. Patton Thomp-M. M. Marole & Co., of No. 53 North Third street. The article is a neat walnut cabinet or case, composed of a series of vertical hoppers, each one made exactly to fit a single number of spools. These hoppers are filled from the top and distinctly numbered at the bottom, where the spools are taken out while others drop into their places. It is difficult to convey in words minutely the character, beauty and invaluable convenience of this Cabinet. Suffice it to say, that any dealer, having it in use, can see AT A GLANCE the precise condition and extent of his spool cotton stock, even to the exact quantity of EACH NUMBER that he has on hand, the entire front being made of glass, on the face of which, if manufacturers or dealers desire it, the name of any particular make or brand of cotton may be nicely lettered. making the whole not only an ornament and great economizer of time, but a standing advertisement to every customer who enters the store that a good assortment of spool cotton may there be had. As a means of bringing before the public any NEW or particular make of thread, this moveable Cabinet affords the best facilities in the world, if manufacturers street, Opera House, Johnstown. have the sagacity and enterprise to furnish ways be glad to give the article referr d to a cor spicuous position.
