THE MEMORIAL CEREMONIES .- The beautiful ceremeny of decorating with flowers and evergreens the graves of the patriot dead, was for the first time in this vicinity, performed with appropriate solemnity and grandeur, on Saturday afternoon last. Whatever may have been the motives which prompted the inauguration by the Grand Army of the Republic of this commendable custom, the ceremonies here, where no post of that alleged political organization exists, were of the most pleasing and edifying character, and were participated in by all classes of our people, without regard to either religlous or political differences of opinion. Indeed, Heaven itself seemed to have smiled upon this touching tribute to the memory of the soldier dead, for the dark clouds which had mantled the firmament and poured down torrents of rain for several days, and which even hung as a pall over the earth until within an hour or two of the commencement of the ceremonies, gave place at last to resplendent sunshine and balmy breezes, which, as if by magic, dried up the mud upon our streets, and enabled our people to pass over the several routes to and from the respective cometeries almost unscathed in this particular. At about one o'clock, p. m., the people gathered in large numbers at the Court House, where the procession was formed shortly afterwards under the direction of Chief Marshal Samuel W. Davis and Assistaut Marshals John D. Barkley and Wm. H Sechler, while Mr. George W. Brown was placed in command of the soldier comrades of the fallen braves, who numbered nearly one hundred, and were distinguished by three small and tastefully arranged red, white and blue ribbons, pinned upon the lapels of their coats. After the procession was properly organized-a large and handsome American flag borne aloft by the chosen color bearers and a band of martial music with muffled drums taking the lead, followed by Rev T. R. Jones, of the Congregational church, Rev. R. C. Christy, of the Catholic church, Rev. W. H. Schell, of the Disciples church, Rev. B. M. Kerr, of the Presbyterian church, the decorating committee consisting of thirty-two young ladies appropriately dressed in white or light colored garments, each bearing a beautiful boquet of flowers and small crosses adorned with like floral offerings and chaste evergreens, the ladies and gentlemen composing the choir of vocalists, the soldiers in line, sixteen of whom carried over their shoulders a wreath of evergreens, one for each grave, and a large concourse of men, women and children untrammeled by anything like systematic been in this country but a few months, was order-it moved up Centre street to High. along High street to Julian, and up Julian street to the Catholic cemetery, where a patriotic ode was sang by the choir and a brief but feeling address delivered and the CXXIXth Psaltn read by Rev. JOHNSTOWN, May 31, 1869. Dear Freeman-The last week was characterized by heavy rains and thunder. In some places hail fell in large quantities, but not in our vicinity. The rains were unusudid not amount to tempests. The waters are considerably swoller.

The specialty of last Saturday, was the military procession that decorated the graves of the deceased soldiers. Early in the day a streamer was stretched across that part of Franklin street, between C. L. Pershing's office and David Dibert's store, with the motto: "All honor to our departed heroes." This and a few flags hung out of some windows, were all that marked the day as peculiar. About two o'clock a committee, but few of whom were soldiers, arrived at Union Hall with wreaths and bouquets. A brass band was in readiness and at three o'clock a small procession marched, first to the Lu- with the usual coremonies appropriate to the theran graveyard, thence to the Catholic burial ground in Conemaugh borough, and thence to Sandy Vale cemetery, at each of his final bodily departure from the scene of which places due honors were paid to the his labors for the redemption and regeneradead. The building is of brick and was put up in sixty orated altars that had been erected at the days from the time the first foundation stone four corners of the cemetery, and the solemn was laid. The basement is nearly a hundred feet long and thirty feet wide, with an Asbestos flat roof. The first floor is divided into three apartments-two rooms, each about thirty by forty feet, with an intervening room for his patent hoisting machine, an office and a stairway. The second story is similarly divided, the rear room being a work shop, where about ten hands are regularly employed, with three presses, and the front room being a ware-room for light castings. The front of the building is made of pressed brick, ornamental work, with very large show windows and very large glass in the windows of the upper story .-But we are now to speak of moving day. fantry-killed at Fredericksburg, December Another specialty for the week was the pic-nic of the "Order of Red Men," on Monlay. This was got up for the benefit of the German Lutheran church. The attendance is said to have been large and the amusements endless and pleasant. The amount realized was considerable, but not so large now has one of the neatest and best ordered as has sometimes been taken in on similar occasions. The dubious state of the weath-

The Kernville school, taught by Mr. Griet, is to be transferred to a little brick school house on the Union School grounds. This will bring about seventy more pupils resting place of the brave men whose names to these grounds, and as there must have been near five hundred there before, it will not add anything toward either health or comfort. We presume the directors were pressed to do this by some citizens who would not send to the old house in Kernville, but who will yet learn that that old house is a much better place for children regards beaith, manners or morals.

As soon as the school directors of East Conemaugh organize, which will be in a day or two, they should consult the Cambria Iron Company, which lately bought the property of Mr. Hodges, in regard to the purchase of a chool house lot. We have ro doubt that this generous and liberal company would befriend the cause of education by giving the East Conemaugh people a quarter of an acre for nothing. The company would never miss the loss, while the new borough would feel the gain sensibly just new, in their new relation of an independent borough.

The contemplated new school building in Millville borough has not yet been let, and will not be till the newly elected members take their seats. The steel works in that borough are progressing slowly. The main building is under roof and the foundation of the engine and boiler house is laid. It will be some time before these works go into operation.

It is said that one of our policemen came missed from service for the crime of pointing a pistol. We do not know whether there is a word of truth in the report or not. We give it as we got it. We do know that there are some young folks in town that need just such intimidation, but there are others who do not, and the justice of the act depends somewhat upon who the parties were. We do know that some young people in this place curse, swear, blaspheme and abuse people as they please, and need more than the mere pointing of a pistol as an admonition to their souls and an unction to their bodies. Some of them will meet the right kind of pluck some day if they do not

There is considerable feeling manifested here in regard to the commissioning of Mr. leaux, dances, pic-nics, etc., in order to raise Holland, the newly elected County Superintendent, and no little doubt exists as to his eligibility. An intelligent coarespondent of the Hollidaysburg STANDARD, writing from this city, states the law so plainly and fairly that I cannot see how the State Superintendent can give Mr. Holland his commission. It some of our school directors had as much energy and ambition as wooden men they would rise as one man and enter their indignant protest against any such perversion of the law as the commissioning of Mr. Holland. By the way, would it not be well for some of our City Commissioners, while they are tinkering and patching our charter, to get a provision in it for the election of a City Superintendent of Schools, and thus render as independent of the balance of the county?
